Wife, Unborn Child Die In Pre-Dawn Tiburon Smashup

A 21-year-old Santa Rosa woman, who was expecting her first baby in two weeks, was killed early today when the family car, driven by her husband, plunged 100 feet down an embankment on Paradise Drive in Tiburon and struck a house.

Mrs. LaVerne Genevieve Hale was thrown out of the 1954 Studebaker sedan. Debris from the roof of the home of Howard Lisle at 2400 Paradise Drive, partially collapsed by the crash fell on top of her.

She was pronounced dead at Marin General Hospital one hour after the 2 a.m. accident. The unborn baby was also dead. Mrs. Hale's death was caused by head injuries, according to Asst. County Coroner William C. Bradley.

Her husband, James Edward Hale, 22, a cement plant laborer, was treated for multiple cuts and bruises and released from the hospital.

The fatality was the first charged to traffic in the city of Tiburon—which was incorporated only June 23.

There have been 24 traffic deaths in Marin County this year —seven within the last week. Six persons were killed Saturday night in a headon collision on the San Rafael overpass.

At this time last year, there were 17 traffic fatalities in the county.

Hale said he was taking his wife for her first view of San Francisco and the Golden Gate bride — neither of which she had seen before. He said he had stopped in a bar in Tiburon for directions, according to California Highway Patrol Officer J. L. Smith.

Hale was driving east on Paradise Drive when his car veered off the road. It struck some trees, plunged down the embankment and over a retaining wall.

The car plowed through a picket fence on the property of B. W. Frochen at 2390 Paradise Drive and struck the porch of the Lisle residence, collapsing the roof.

It was reportedly the third time that a car had hit the house.

Mrs. Hale, a resident of California for 14 years, was a native of Missouri. The Hales had lived only a short time in Santa Rosa.

The body was taken to Russell and Gooch Mortuary in Mill Valley.

Students Increase Jobless Figures

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment climbed more than one million in June as school youths flooded the labor market, pushing the nation's jobless rate up to 5.3 per cent, the Labor Department said today.

At the same time, total civilian employment hit an all-time high of 71.9 million, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The unemployment increase was about 100,000 more than usual for June, and the employment increase of 850,000 was about 400,000 less than expected, the bureau said.

Search For Witnesses Continuing

Search for witnesses of the fiery accident last Saturday night on the San Rafael overpass which took the lives of six persons continued today.

The Marin County district attorney's office and the California Highway Patrol were seeking two drivers of vehicles which were reportedly in the area moments before the accident in which Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Neal of Terra Linda, their 10-year-old son, Richard, Mrs. Neal's aunt and uncle, Mrs. Victoria McLalan and Wallace R. Linden of San Francisco, and Ronald Martinez of San Rafael were killed.

Drivers of a Thunderbird, and a semi-trailer truck were being sought to give information about the crash. Both vehicles were reported seen on the highway in the vicinity shortly before the crash.

Memorial service was held yesterday in San Francisco for the Neals, Mrs. McLalan and Linden, attended by 500 persons. Burial was in Cypress Lawn Memorial Park, Colma.

Private funeral services were held for Martinez, whose car swerved over the divider strip and crashed into the family's vehicle, were also held yesterday. Burial was in Golden Gate National Cemetery in San Bruno.

Union Punished On Segregation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Breaking historic ground, the National Labor Relations Board found a union guilty of racial discrimination today and stripped it of its certification.

In a broad opinion with possible national impact the majority decision said whenever a union causes discrimination based on race it has committed an unfair labor practice.

The action—the first of its kind by the NLRB—was against the Independent Metal Workers Union, which maintained separate locals for white and Negro members at Hughes Tool Co. in Houston, Tex.

High-Rise Plan Gets Same 3-2 Council Vote

Crowded Session Sets Length Mark —Over At 3 A.M.

By PHIL FRADKIN

Seven hours of argument over a 12-story "retirement residence" failed to change a vote on the Larkspur City Council last night and early today.

About 3 a.m., the council voted by the same splits as a month ago to grant a variance and use permit for the structure.

About 340 people were on hand for the meeting, which ran, in all, seven hours and 20 minutes and was marked by bitter exchanges between councilmen.

RECORD FOR LENGTH

It may have been the longest city council meeting on record in Marin County, although the Sausalito Planning Commission topped it with a session on Dec. 14, 1960, which ran until 4:34 a.m. It also drew one of the largest crowds.

The majority of the audience was against construction of the five million dollar project.

City Clerk Isabelle Moore, who had not completed tabulation of the many petitions submitted for and against the project, said today there were about 1,800 signatures on each side, with those in favor "having a very slight edge."

NOT ALL VOTERS

There were 3,164 registered voters in Larkspur at the April municipal election.

Mrs. Moore found some signatures on the petitions were of persons who lived outside of the city. Children and youths were also asked to sign the petitions.

On granting a 105-foot height limit variance, Councilmen Robert J. Smith and Vaughn Marker voted "no." Councilmen Henry Brocco, Earl J. O'Grady and Neil R. Brixon voted "yes."

On the use permit, to which stringent controls were attached, only Smith voted "no."

Marker said: "This thing has split the city more wide open

Southerner Prays In Last-Ditch Opposition

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House voted 289 to 126 for final congressional passage of a historic civil rights bill today and President Lyndon B. Johnson arranged to sign it into the law of the land within a matter of course.

The House accepted the measure as it came from the Senate to end a prolonged, bitter fight over the legislation which was born of growing race violence in both the North and the South.

In advance of the House vote, the White House announced that Johnson would sign the measure at a televised ceremony this evening.

FINAL DEBATE

The final debate in the House was limited to one hour in contrast to the 83-day filibuster southern foes had conducted in the Senate.

The House had originally passed a civil rights bill last Feb. 10 by a 290-130 vote. Today's action was accepting the bill as amended by the Senate.

Southern House members protested passage of the legislation to the last gun. Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va.), leader of the Dixie opposition, told the chamber: "The bell hath tolled. In a few minutes, you will vote this monstrous oppression of all people. May I still be permitted to utter the proud and prayerful words, 'God save the United States'."

URGES PATIENCE

Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.), of the House Judiciary Committee, who helped guide the bill through Congress, urged "patience and harmony" in implementing the sweeping scope of the legislation.

"The country desires no more arguments, no more speeches,"

Senate Nips Try To Trim Salary Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate beat down today an economy rider to the 556-million-dollar pay raise bill that would have made salary increases for top government officials contingent on a balanced budget.

John J. Williams (R-Del.) sponsor of the amendment, said it would prompt agency heads to cut down spending requests and stop "the waste and extravagance that we all know exists."

But Sen. A. S. (Mike) Monroney (D-Okla.) called it "meat ax economy," and said it would strike at a select group of about 4,000 skilled government workers.

The Williams proposal was rejected 65 to 26 on a roll call vote.

The amendment would have delayed the effective date of any salary increase for those making $20,000 or more until the first day after a fiscal year ending in a balanced budget.

This would have withheld also $7,500 pay boosts for members of Congress which are contained in the administration-backed bill.

Udall Power Proposal Hit By Sen. Engle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The proposed Pacific Northwest-Southwest power system intertie was denounced today by Sen. Clair Engle (D-Calif.) as "a surrender of control of the most lucrative power market in the West to a combine of six private utility companies."

And Sen. Maurine B. Neuberger (D-Ore.) said she could not support the proposed 700-million-dollar project which calls for linking of public and private power systems in 11 western states. Experience has shown, she said, that consumers do not benefit from private power.

The ailing Engle also declared in a statement read for him at a Senate appropriations subcommittee hearing, that the proposal, if carried out, would be a blow against federal water projects.

Not one transmission line in the proposal recommended by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall would be all-federal, Engle said.

"This in spite of the fact that the principal power producing plants involved in the proposal are three of the greatest federal power developments in the country—the Bonneville system in the Northwest, the Central Valley Project in Northern California and

Girl Friend Admits She Lied To Protect Slaying Suspect

By ROSS DAVIS

A 39-year-old woman, twice sobbing uncontrollably, admitted today she lied for Robert Lee Jones because she loved him and wanted to protect him.

Mrs. Arlene Farliss Walsh, now residing in Fairfield, testified in the trial of Jones and John Lee King, accused of murder, in Marin Superior Court that she committed perjury before the Marin County Grand Jury when she quoted Jones as saying he told her he was "sick at my soul."

"I made that up," she wept ". . . that he said he was sick at his soul. He didn't say it: I said it. I wanted to protect him."

She had said Jones made the remark in her apartment at 516 Caledonia Street, Sausalito, early the morning of March 28—day after the icepick slaying of Donald G. Corbett Jr. in his Sausalito apartment.

Peter Allen Smith, defense attorney for King, suggested that if she tried to protect Jones before the grand jury, she perhaps was trying to protect him during the trial.

"No, I'm telling the truth," she replied. She added that all her other testimony today as witness for the prosecution was correct.

"Are you presently in love with Jones?" asked Smith.

"No."

"Were you in love at the time you testified before the grand jury?"

"Yes."

Ike-Scranton Rumor Adds To Confusion

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Conflicting reports on whether former President Dwight D. Eisenhower had agreed to put Gov. William W. Scranton's name in nomination for president threw confusion today into the Republican presidential race.

Two major television-radio networks aired the conflicting reports last night. There was no immediate comment from Eisenhower, Scranton, campaigning in Eugene, Ore., said he knew nothing about the report.

Aides close to Eisenhower, who was at his Gettysburg, Pa., home, also said they knew nothing about it.

The National Broadcasting Co. first broadcast a report that sources close to Scranton had disclosed that Eisenhower had agreed to make the nominating speech for the Pennsylvania governor at the GOP convention in San Francisco.

The Columbia Broadcasting System subsequently quoted sources close to Eisenhower as saying the former president had rejected such a proposal by Henry Cabot Lodge, a leader of the Scranton campaign.

An associate of Gen. Robert Shultz, longtime aide to Eisenhower, said Shultz had told him that he had "heard nothing about the report and would not accept it as af act unless he had heard it from the General."

In the absence of a firm denial Shultz, longtime aideto Eisenhowor confirmation from Eisenhower, the GOP contest acquired a new element of confusion with the convention only 12 days away.

The new confusion developed as Sen. Barry Goldwater appeared to have the Republican nomination locked up, barring some major political upset.

A United Press International tabulation showed that Goldwater had 695 delegaces committed, pledged or presently planning to vote for him. He needs 655 to get the nomination.

The UPI tally gives Scranton 137 delegates. The Pennsylvania governor must woo delegates away from Goldwater to stand a chance himself, and so far he appears to be making little headway.

Bobby Returns, Tells Of Future Plans To Serve

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, despite his intention of resigning his present post after the November elections, plans to take another government position.

Kennedy, who returned here last night after a one-week visit to West Germany and Poland, told a news conference in New York that he still had not accepted a specific job. "I just don't know what I'm going to do," he said.

Before departing London on a commercial jet aircraft, Kennedy said that he might live abroad for a year following his resignation.

On landing at Kennedy International Airport with his wife, Ethel, and their three eldest children, the Attorney General received a warm greeting from hundreds of well-wishers as he strolled through the airport's terminal area. He stopped often to shake hands with the many persons eager to meet him.

Reviewing his trip, Kennedy said he had been inspired by the enthusiastic reception given him by the German and Polish crowds.

"I had the strongest feeling that these people have a great affection for the United States," he said.

Asked about the Berlin Wall, Kennedy said that "some action needs to be taken over the division of Germany." He termed the split "explosive" and urged that solutions be reached to settle east-west differences.

The family plane, Caroline, was waiting at the airport to take Kennedy's three children who accompanied him on the trip to Hyannis Port, Mass. The Attorney General and his wife returned to Washington.

Dallas Death Threats

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Former Dallas Mayor Earle Cabell and his wife Wednesday disclosed a story of death threats which prompted constant police protection for two months after President John F. Kennedy was shot.

The police guard began Nov. 24, the day accused assassin Lee Harvey Oswald was shot by Jack Ruby.

Astronaut To Return?

WASHINGTON (AP) — John H. Glenn Jr., the first American to orbit the earth, has talked with space boss James Webb about returning to the space program, but nothing has been decided, a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Wednesday.

Glenn quit the space program early this year and set out to wrest the Democratic nomination from incumbent Stephen M. Young of Ohio. Glenn withdrew, however, when an inner ear ailment caused by a fall in his bathroom was slow to correct itself.

Pesticide Kills Again

NEWARK (AP) — Police say a deadly pesticide figured in the death of farm worker George Carlson whose body was found beside his tractor in a lettuce field.

Police said Carlson, 28, of Morgan Hill, probably spilled some of the liquid pesticide on his clothing as he diluted it with water around midnight.

He was preparing to spray the field, a job usually done at night when the air is still. The body was found beside Carlson's tractor Wednesday.

Sinking Still Mystery

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress yesterday completed its inquiry into the Thresher tragedy. One investigator said no one knows why the nuclear submarine went down with all 129 crew members.

The committee will issue a report on the disaster which "will spell out what might have been the cause," Pastore said.

Teen-Ager Shakes Up Politicos

BOSTON (AP)—Leonard Tagg, 16, is running for the Massachusetts House of Representatives—and his candidacy is legal, although he can't vote for five years.

The political pros are so shook up, that they are trying to push through last-minute legislation making it illegal for anyone under 21 to hold public office.

Tagg

The boy, Leonard Tagg, has filed nomination papers as an independent candidate from his home-town of Weymouth near here.

Tagg said he's running just to show that there ought to be a law against such young candidates.

Tagg said the law prohibits his candidacy as either a Republican or Democrat because he would have to be a registered voter and thus 21 years of age.

As an independent candidate in the November election—bypassing the September primary for which he is ineligible—he need not be a registered voter, Tagg said after obtaining the advice of a Weymouth lawyer, James Fasino.

POLITICOS REPORT CAMPAIGN COSTS

Capitol Still Waiting For Statement On Most Expensive Race—Salinger-Cranston

SACRAMENTO (AP) — First returns are in on campaign spending for what is generally considered the most expensive primary election in California history.

Reports filed with Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan showed that 169 of 462 legislative and congressional candidates on the June 2 state ballot acknowledged contributions totaling $500,041.

The total includes neither of the two major campaigns—Rockefeller-Goldwater and Salinger-Cranston.

The deadline for filing the financial reports is next Tuesday.

Spokesmen for Pierre Salinger, who won the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate, and his chief opponent, State Controller Alan Cranston, have indicated each campaign cost at least $500,000.

State law requires no public accounting of expenses rolled up by Sen. Barry Goldwater and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in their Republican presidential primary fight.

Highest amount in the reports filed was $28,469 listed by Chet Merriam of Chico, who won the Republican nomination for Congress in the Second District. Merriam listed $20,000 of his receipts as a personal loan from Raymond I. Smith.

Sen. Clair Engle listed $450, the amount of the filing fee. Reports from other Democratic candidates for the Senate showed: Emanuel Braude, Beverly Hills, $6,792; George H. McLain, Los Angeles, $5,617, and Lynn W. Johnston, Downey, $746.

PARTY NOTES FROM ALL OVER

Princess Margaret blossomed out at a London ball last night in the nearest thing to a topless dress she has ever worn in public. The gown was in the style of the Georgian era, 200 years ago. The occasion was an 18th Century ball at the Mansion House of the lord mayor of London. It was Margaret's first social outing since the birth of her daughter, not yet christened, on May 1. While the princess was raising eyebrows with her low-cut gown, Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya was kicking up his heels in a spirited dance with a barefoot Kikuyu tribal woman dancer on his farm at Gatundu, Kenya. A good time was had by all. (AP Wirephotos)

Planner Tells Ideas On Ross Creek Use

A proposal for a pedestrian path along much of Corte Madera Creek, with a bicycle path, a harbor at one end, and a community center near Marin General Hospital, was shown yesterday to the Marin County Parks and Recreation District.

Senior planner Walter S. Horchler of the county planning department said he found and elaborated on the plan while working on the Kentfield master plan.

He noted that the City of Larkspur already has plans for a park which would be connected to the creek, but suggested possibilities for recreational uses along the waterway from San Francisco Bay clear to the Ross Common and Marin Art and Garden Center should be checked.

The new community center, which Horchler said is needed in Ross Valley, would be on flood-plain land behind Marin Catholic High School. The land is owned by the high school.

Hochler said a trip along the creek channel convinced him the entire lower creek has potential for recreational use.

He said a harbor could be created just east of the Greenbrae interchange and predicted that the Army Corps of Engineers would help in the necessary dredging.

Since the corps is now studying a flood control project for the entire creek, Horchler went on, recreation projects could be tied in.

Horchler said, however, he was not happy about the idea of a rectangular concrete lined channel for the creek, as proposed by the corps.

The maintenance accress road to the creek could be a hiking, riding and bicycle trail, Horchler suggested. Such a trail could become part of a recreational complex connecting the bay, through Marin Municipal Water District lands, to Point Reyes National Seashore.

The old railroad right of way through Ross is largely intact, and trails can be developed through the land of College of Marin in Kentfield, Horchler predicted.

As for the community center, the planner said the land would have to be raised, but fill from the creek flood control project would be ideal and cheap.

Access to the area would be by Wolfe Grade extension, connecting to Bon Air bridge. The project could include swimming pools, Horchler said, unless proposed pools at the junior college are to be made available to the public.

Italians Ban U.S. Novel

LODI, Italy (UPI) — Mary McCarthy's novel "The Group" was declared "obscene and offensive to the public sense of morality" and ordered confiscated by the Lodi Dist. Atty. yesterday. The book recently appeared in an Italian edition.

Judge Rules Out Pickets At Fair

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal judge has ruled that civil rights organizations do not have the right to picket the World's Fair. But they can distribute handbills "at designated stations within the fair gates," he said.

Picketing "usually produces more coercive influences, takes up more room and creates more need for security measures in a crowded area than does, for example, a speaker or handbill distributor," Federal Judge Harold R. Tyler Jr. said Wednesday.

IRATE CITIZEN ATTACKS IN WRONG SPOT

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Lt. Gov. Glenn M. Anderson's office was going about its normal routine on a quiet summer day when a slightly built man dashed in and started beating a secretary.

As he swung in the incident about 2:30 p.m. yesterday, he shouted "Where's my Social Security check?" The secretary, Mrs. Madelyn Polite, finally managed to free herself from the man and ran into Anderson's private office.

He pushed a button that activated an alarm in the State Police office a floor below. Meanwhile, the assailant had hurried out.

The man escaped. Mrs. Polite was frightened, but unharmed.

Comet Will Glow Just After Sunset

MT. HAMILTON (AP)—Lick Observatory said a comet will be visible in the western sky at twilight, beginning today and continuing four weeks.

The observatory emphasized that twilight is the sighting time. The comet cannot be seen after dark.

It will appear as a fuzzy star when viewed through binoculars or a small telescope. It will be difficult to see its tail.

Rusk Decides To Take A Few Days Vacation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk plans to take several days' vacation, one of the very few he has had in his three and one-half years in the position.

He said at a news conference Wednesday he would "get a few days rest" next week. He didn't say where.

Health Aide Is Given Approval For Sabbatical

The Marin County Board of Supervisors has granted Dr. Mary Jo Tonelli, assistant county health officer, a one-year educational leave of absence.

Doctor Tonelli hopes to work in in a rural public health district in Texas for a year to gain experience in administration and program development. "It will be a change and a challenge," she said.

She plans to talk with the Texas state director of local health services during her vacation, which began today, about the possibility of such work.

Her departure from Marin will depend on the county finding someone to replace her in the health department. No date has been set for her leave to begin.

Doctor Tonelli has been with the county since 1953. She has been in charge of the venereal disease program, maternal and child health program, crippled children service, tuberculosis control, and acute communicable disease program.

She took her premedical and medical training at Baylor University in Texas, and her family has retired to that state. Texas is "rather at the beginning" as far as public health programs go, she pointed out. Many of the rural districts are in need of assistance, she said.

Doctor Tonelli has a master's degree in public health administration, as well as a B.A. and M.D. degrees, and has served a residency in pediatrics.

Arson Probed In Costly Mill Valley Home Blaze

Three fires, belived to have been set by a youth, caused damage estimated at $5,000 to the Mill Valley home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur T. Bolstad last night while the Bolstads were camping on vacation on the Russian River.

Police Chief Dan Terzich said today he is investigating the white, two-story home at 198 Locust Avenue for evidence of arson.

The fires were "definitely set," said Fire Chief Leslie Armager. He said he believes they were started by a juvenile because all were lighted "on top of things."

He said the $5,000 damage, mainly from smoke, includes damage to a radio-phonograph and a couch in the living room, where fires had apparently been started, and to a comforter and chest in an upstairs bedroom. A fire had also apparently been set on the comforter, which was folded atop the chest.

Bits of envelopes and papers were found in the home near the points of the fires and are believed to have been used to start the blazes.

Bolstad said he left home at 11:20 a.m. yesterday with his wife and three sons to camp at Mirabel Park. The garage door was closed, he said, but he left the kitchen door which opens into the garage, unlocked so his father-in-law, W. D. McDonald Sr. of Sausalito, might drop by to pick up the newspapers and water the garden.

A neighbor of Bolstad's saw smoke coming out of the two-bedroom house and telephoned firemen at 6:03 p.m. Bolstad's father-in-law was notified and he summoned Bolstad, who returned home a little after 9 p.m.

Bolstad said he and his family stayed in Sausalito with the McDonalds at 406 Locust Street last night because of the heavy smoke in his house.

Painter's Tools Taken From Job

Twenty-seven paint brushes, a spray gun and a scraper, with a total value of $424, were stolen from a building under construction at the College of Marin in Kentfield, the sheriff's office reported yesterday.

The painting contractor, W. G. Thompson of San Francisco, reported the brushes had been stolen from a locked room between 5 p.m. Tuesday and 8 a.m. yesterday.

Deputies said someone entered the room by prying back the door catch with a thin instrument, possibly a screwdriver.

Teen-Age Recreation Get-Together Planned

San Rafael Recreation Department will hold the first of a series of teen recreation nights from 8 to 11 p.m. tomorrow at the community center, 37 Union Street.

San Rafael and Terra Linda High School students attending will help start a teen club at the center. Volleyball, table tennis, pool, shuffleboard, dancing and refreshments are planned.

Brand New Bicycle Is Stolen From Plunge

A $54 bicycle, purchased on Tuesday, was stolen yesterday, San Rafael police reported.

Sharon Cathleen Nedbal of 358 Irwin Street, San Rafael, told police that her brother, Reggy, parked the bike by the San Rafael High School swimming pool and went swimming. When he returned for the bike, it was not there.

Novato Fight On Street, Not Inside Club

A Western Weekend brawl which necessitated the Novato Police Department's calling for help from the sheriff's office and California Highway Patrol did not occur inside the Town Club at 1005 Grant Avenue.

Richard D. Wells of 1425 Park Avenue, Novato, owner of the Town Club, complained yesterday that his business had been damaged by an Independent-Journal story of June 22 which reported a "throng pressed into the Town Club . . . where fists started flying."

Wells pointed out that neither of the two men arrested in the fracas was in the club, although he said one had been there earlier and had caused no disturbance.

Police Chief Robert di Grazia agreed that the fighting was not inside the club, but in front of it on Grant Avenue. There was a large crowd inside the club, said the chief, but the fists flew outside during the brawl. One man was arrested on the street in front of the club; the other, in a vacant lot between the club and a service station.

PACKED HOUSE; LONG ARGUMENT—Part of the crowd of 340 that filled the Henry C. Hall School multi-use room for meeting of Larkspur City Council listens while Dr. John C. Siemens (standing, back to camera) speaks in behalf of his project for a 12-story, five-million-dollar retirel ment residence. Shirtsleeved councilmen whose backs are in foreground are Neil R. Brixon (left) and Robert J. Smith. The meeting lasted seven hours 20 minutes.

than anything else. It is rather revolting. I feel the council is split apart. The council cannot go ahead like this."

Marker addressed Dr. John C. Siemens, who heads Valley Investment Co., the developers, and Niels Schultz Jr. of the Belardo Co., owners of the property. "You two gentlemen disappoint me greatly," he said. "You are completely insensitive to the turmoil created by this."

The councilman charged that "there has been a compromise of integrity on the part of several people. There might be some of it on the council."

The compromise, he said, consists "of a good part of the town being bribed by money reputed to come in by taxes and business. I am sure none of the councilmen have a personal interest in the project."

Before the meeting recessed from the City Hall to the multi-purpose room of Henry C. Hall School to accommodate the large crowd, Mayor Brixon clashed sharply with Councilman Smith.

Referring to Smith's attempts to have a motion passed stating that the council would "reconsider" the granting of the 105-foot variance, Brixon said, "when a man goes to such lengths he is trying to hoodwink. . ."

Smith shot back, "I take exception to that. It is directed personally toward me and my integrity. I ask you for a public apology, Mr. Nixon."

Smith's slip of the tongue drew laughter from the audience at a tense moment. He corrected himself, saying "Mr Brixon."

Brixon did not apologize.

On a comment by City Atty. Samuel W. Gardiner, Smith quickly interjected: "Wait a minute, Mr. Gardiner. You are not a member of this deliberating body. You are not to take a position."

Gardiner retorted," I take my instructions from the mayor."

"This city is never prepared to meet what comes into Larkspur," said Councilman O'Grady at one point.

Smith said he agreed, and added, "I blame . . . Mr. Niels Schultz."

Schultz replied, "I don't think you can sit there and blame me for the direction the Council has taken in the last four years. I don't have that much to say."

Charles W. Pierce, an attorney representing the newly formed Larkspur Citizens for Orderly Progress committee, led the argument against the building.

"How can you grant a use permit since there is no provision for this in the zoning ordinance?" he demanded. "The variance is not a variance, but an amendment to the zoning ordinance. I suggest you amend the ordinance and submit it to a referendum."

At the close of the meeting, when only about 35 persons remained in the audience, Brixon said the council would consider submitting an amendment to the zoning ordinance to a referendum vote after work on the budget has been completed. The council rejected the suggestion of "an advisory" vote on the project by its action to approve the variance.

Slides were shown by committee members pointing out the location of the high-rise building and demonstrating the height to which it would rise by use of a helicopter hired from Commodore Aviation.

Brixon said the building "would not be as hideous as shown on those slides."

He said he would not favor high-rise apartments or office buildings, but for a retirement residence "there are special circumstances."

John D. Carew Jr. of Greenbrae, who heads the "orderly progress" committee, arose to speak among cries of "Ataboy, Jack!"

He said, "There is one simple fact. We don't want a 12-story building."

His statement was greeted by one of the frequent rounds of applause and scattered boos which marked most of the meeting.

In considering conditions of the use permit, Marker and Brixon said they were surprised to discover that the buildings and terrace would cover 40 per cent of the six acres.

Marker said, "If this is the case we will not save many trees."

Some members of the audience said there had been misrepresentation of the plans. Schultz denied this.

He explained that the 15.4 per cent of coverage, referred to previously, was the square footage of the buildings at terrace level and did not include the terrace, which will be landscaped and cover the underground parking facilities.

"Took again!" said Marker.

The conditions attached to the use permit by the council were:

1. The building is to be used as a retirement "center" and is to comply to the relevant state codes.
2. Architectural supervision will be under the council, with the planning commission making recommendations to the council.
3. There will be 282 parking spaces for residents, and parking stalls will be provided for 75 per cent of the total number of employees—these figures to be reviewed when the developers know how many cars will be used by residents.
4. To retain the "maximum beauty of the site," there will be no grading below an elevation of 119 feet above mean sea level.
5. Total coverage of the site will be 40 per cent, with 15.4 per cent for the auditorium and main building apart from the terrace, and 9.1 per cent for the main structure above the terrace level.
6. Construction shall begin within one year after granting the permit.
7. There shall be no other development on the site that will uproot trees without the approval of the council.
8. At no time shall the project be put on a non-profit basis, which might remove it from the tax rolls.

Urban Renewal Victims Camp In City Park

Officer Roy Conyer yesterday advised Howard H. Pitt, 35, of San Francisco that Albert Field was not for camping and he would have to stay outside the city of San Rafael while waiting for work.

Conyer gave Pitt the address of the Marin County Welfare Department just in case the children ranging from 4 to 12 years, should get hungry.

Pitt told the officer he is a Mormon and does not believe in accepting welfare.

He also said that the family home was demolished recently under the San Francisco redevelopment program.

TRIAL

the jury might consider Mrs. Walsh's confession for the purpose of possible impeachment of her credibility, but there was no evidence of her having committed perjury in today's proceedings.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said he considered the lie "not important."

Mrs. Walsh, a small woman visibly shaking from nervousness almost throughout her testimony, gave the following account of her association with Jones:

She met him in a Sausalito bar March 22. The following day, he began to see her regularly at her apartment. He spent nights with her but seldom the days. On Friday — the day of the murder — he called her about 4:30 p.m. and asked her to break a date she had with a San Francisco truckdriver she identified as Michael Henneberry.

She refused, spent the evening out with Henneberry, and returned to her apartment at 12:30 a.m. March 28.

Jones was already there. They went to another Sausalito bar about 1 a.m. and met King, who she said "was intoxicated, obnoxious and vulgar." The three departed shortly after in a Porsche car, taking King to her apartment. She and Jones returned to the bar to get a Pontiac driven by Jones. King and Jones both spent the night at the apartment.

The next morning, Saturday, they discovered the Porsche, which has been identified as similar to that stolen from Corbett, had been ticketed for illegal parking. King, she said, accused Jones of getting a ticket on his (King's) car.

(At this point, Thomas P. Boyd, attorney for Jones, had Mrs. Walsh repeat that King claimed the car as his own.

Mrs. Walsh added that she went with Jones to his Sausalito houseboat, the Julia, Saturday afternoon and napped while he and King were gone. When Jones returned, he was agitated. He informed her he and King had to fly to Los Angeles for business. They left that evening.

Mrs. Walsh also identified a pair of men's trousers offered by the prosecution as similar to those once worn by Jones. The prosecution earlier introduced two blood-stained pairs of trousers allegedly recovered from the houseboat of one of the defendants.

the Colorado River system in the Southwest.

"These three systems are federal systems, built by taxpayers' money. And the secretary now proposes to interconnect them with six private companies in charge of the transmission toll gate.

"This is analogous to having the federal government build and own the store and permitting the private companies to operate the cash register."

Philip P. Dickinson, an Engle aide, read his statement.

Engle said the proposal "would be the end of federal competition and doom of most electric ratepayers and taxpayers in California, if not in other states as well.

"It would rescue Bonneville at the expense of California. It would be ruinous to our public power agencies, our government water projects and our power consumers both public and private—for all except possibly in Los Angeles."

Clam Diggers Dig Into Their Pockets

Six clam diggers who took too many clams and undersize clams from Tomales Bay June 14 were each fined $50 in West Marin Justice Court yesterday.

In addition, none of the six men had fishing licenses. Limit on clams is 50.

The men, pleading guilty to the charges yesterday, were: Carl A. Biddulph, Frederick A. O'Leary Jr. and James D. Riffell, all of San Francisco, Herbert B. Tasker of San Leandro, Donald Barker of Menlo Park and Paul M. Keith of Butte, Mont.

Weapon Threat Cut To Misdemeanor Charge

Leslie V. Bilderback, 52, of 388 Bolinas Road, Fairfax, was to appear in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon on a misdemeanor charge of exhibiting a weapon in an angry and threatening manner.

he said. "The country demands action now. Action is eloquence."

In the House as in the Senate, a coalition of administration Democrats and Republicans had the votes to pass the measure by an overwhelming margin.

Every one of the 684 seats in the visitors' gallery was filled and some spectators were jammed into makeshift spots on the stairs. Most of the 432 House members were present.

Outside in the corridors, long lines of visitors waited disappointingly for a non-existent chance to observe the milestone moment.

Rep. Louis C. Wyman (R-N.H.), who like Smith led the opponents' arguments, said that a vote for the bill would amount to an "outright surrender" of the constitutional rights of privacy by all Americans.

But Speaker John W. McCormack said the bill was "historic." And Rep. Ray J. Madden (D-Ind.) said it would "make all sections of our Constitution a reality to all Americans."

Rep. William M. McCulloch (R-Ohio), one of the principal architects of the bill, contended that Senate amendments made an already moderate bill even more moderate.

But McCulloch and others warned against the belief that the civil rights bill could transform the nation overnight into a civic paradise. ". . . discrimination will finally end only when the mind and heart and conscience of everyone of good will decrees it."

One of the major moments of the debate came when a southern Democrat, Rep. Charles L. Weltner of Georgia, announced that he would vote in favor of the Senate version even though he voted against House passage of the bill last February.

Weltner is a moderate who two years ago ousted segregationist James C. Davis from the seat he held for the Atlanta area.

The 36-year-old Weltner said he could have voted "no" today with "tradition and safety." But he declared: "I believe a greater cause can be served. Change, swift and certain, is upon us, and we in the South face some difficult decisions.

"We can offer resistance and defiance, with their harvest of strife and tumult. We can suffer continued demonstrations, with their wake of violence and disorder. Or, we can acknowledge this measure as the law of the land. We can accept the verdict of the nation."

Rep. John V. Lindsay, a member of the liberal wing of the Republican party, attacked contentions that the bill was unconstitutional. Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, leading candidate for the GOP presidential nomination, voted against the bill in the Senate on grounds that parts of it were unconstitutional.

Robert Francis Gavin, 22, a heavy equipment operator of 315 Prospect Drive, San Rafael, was knocked unconscious and cut on the forehead when his car skidded 60 feet and rolled over against a tree at Belle Avenue and Elm Street in San Rafael at 3:30 a.m. today.

He was reported in good condition at San Rafael General Hospital. San Rafael police said Gavin was eastbound on Belle Avenue.

Variety Store's Safe Broken Into During Daytime

Cash totalling $410 was taken from a cabinet safe in the 188 Variety Store at 871 Fourth Street, San Rafael, between 3 p.m. and store closing time at 5:30 p.m. yesterday, San Rafael police reported today.

Owner Joseph Hok discovered the loss at 9:30 p.m. when he went to the store to work on the books.

Police Inspector Thomas Cheetham said the light metal door of the safe was apparently pried open with a screwdriver that was found nearby in the small office.

Included in the loss was one $100 bill.

Cheetham said the one attendant in the store at the time was at the cash register and could not see the office area.

Thief Enters Bedroom, Steals Wallet, $360

A thief last night entered the bedroom of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie L. Combs of 301 Oakdale Avenue, Mill Valley, and while the pair slept, stole Combs' wallet containing $360 from his dresser drawer and took a watch, ring and two credit cards from Mrs. Combs' purse.

It was the second time in about a month that the Combs' house had been entered in such manner. About one month ago, while Combs slept and his wife, a nurse, was at work, $500 was stolen from his wallet.

Police Lt. William Walsh said today that Combs could not have heard the thief since he wears a hearing aid and it was removed. His wife, who recently injured her back at the hospital where she works while lifting an oxygen tank, had last night taken strong sedatives so that she could sleep.

The burglary occurred between about 11 p.m. yesterday and 8:15 a.m. today.

Art Gallery Wins Nod On Off-Street Parking

Sausalito planning commissioners last night approved a variance from offstreet parking requested by Neil Davis to allow him to convert an apartment to an art gallery above his bar, No Name, at 759 Bridgeway.

The vote was 4-2, commissioners Roy Starbird and Alan D. Bonapart voting "no." They held that if upstairs residential areas, of which Sausalito has many, are converted one by one to commercial use it will result in a major parking problem, Robert L. Nissen, chairman, reported.

Chamber Eyes Sales Problem For Novato

"People, Profits and You," a film describing a newspaper's role in community promotions, was shown to the Novato Chamber of Commerce breakfast meeting today at Cloud Five restaurant.

"You should advertise when there is a demand for your product and business is good," said William Siler of the Independent-Journal, who obtained the film for the meeting and was a member of a discussion panel.

Paul Fry, panel member and past president of the Junior Chamber, said a recent Jaycee survey showed Novato residents felt that there was no opportunity to spend their "big dollars" in Novato.

"The local merchants are underestimating the buyers' desire for quality," Fry said.

Gordon Adams, advertising manager of the Novato Advance, said that he thought city-wide sales events were effective.

Intensive Search Fails To Trace Missing Man

Ten men on horseback and eight sheriff's deputies on foot, walking practically hand-to-hand, searched the slopes of Mount Tamalpais down to Stinson Beach yesterday, but failed to find any clue to Frank W. Meyer, 39-year-old Oakland electrician missing since June 21.

Sheriff's Capt. Sidney Stinson said bloodhounds, posses and deputies have searched in every direction from the spot where Meyer's locked pickup truck was found near Ridgecrest Road.

A set of keys, belonging to Meyer, was found in the locked truck, Stinson said, but no other clue has been discovered.

Meyer was en route from San Mateo to a church convention in Portland, Ore., when he disappeared.

There was no search under way today.

Civic Center Bond Issue Plan Is Aired

Marin County should thoroughly review financing for all capital outlay projects planned for the next five years before calling an election for a Civic Center bond issue, Mrs. Margaret B. Azevedo, chairman of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs, declared today.

Mrs. Azevedo was one of three speakers on a radio KTIM "Marin Sounding Board" panel on the proposal to seek a bond issue to build the second wing of the Civic Center.

Other panelists were Michael Mitchell, county auditor-controller, and Alan Bruce, county administrator. Both said the planned "pay as you go" financing for the Civic Center was no longer feasible.

"The 'pay as you go' plan should always be a part of the total financing program, but we need a more balanced plan including both 'pay as you go' and bonding methods," Bruce said.

The county board of supervisors has set 15 cents in the tax rate for 1964-65 toward Civic Center financing. At that rate, it would take 15 years to accumulate the money for the second wing of the center, Bruce declared.

If the allocation were increased to 63 cents on the tax rate for the next three years, the money would be accumulated at the end of that period, but this would cost the average taxpayer $35.91 per year, he said.

Bruce said present taxpayers should not be expected to completely finance construction which would be used by future generations.

Repayment of the bonds could be made over a 25-year period at a cost of $3.62 per year for the average taxpayer, he said.

Mrs. Azevedo posed several questions about the proposed bond issue.

"What will we do if the proposal does not get the approval of two-thirds of the voters? Marin is one of the few counties in the nation which has no bonded indebtedness and it has not been distinguished in its ability to pass bond issues," she said.

"If the bond election fails, we will be farther behind than ever in accumulating money to continue the 'pay as you go' program."

Bruce, in answer to a question from a listener to moderator Kitty Oppenheimer, explained that the cost of the second wing was greater than that the first stage because it will be larger, because courtrooms and jail are more expensive to build than other offices, and because of inflation.

CITY FATHERS WEARY, PUT OFF BUDGET

The Larkspur City Council, at the end of a seven-hour and 20-minute meeting early today, decided to put off discussion on the budget for the next fiscal year to a meeting called for July 8 at 8 p.m.

The council approved a $4,000 appropriation to the Larkspur-Corte Madera joint recreation commission and approved $17,539.05 in warrants.

Sausalito May Employ Police Cadet

A police cadet program may be tried in Sausalito this fiscal year.

The Sausalito City Council finance committee last night recommended the program, under which a college student would be hired to man the police station as a dispatcher, to be paid about $3,000 a year.

Should the council approve hiring a cadet, the request in the 1964-65 budget for a part-time police clerk would be eliminated. The students, said City Mgr. Charles A. Brown, would be in a training program and would be expected to be hired later as a police officer.

The committee said it is interested in the program on a limited basis — one cadet — instead of three cadets as proposed by Police Chief Kenneth H. Huck.

Salaries for all city employees were reviewed and recommendations are to be made at the council meeting Tuesday, said Brown.

The committee agreed to recommend increases of $4,900 in the budget for the parking attendant program and about $8,000 in the city's insurance.

All five councilmen were present.

Hub City School Budget Means 36-Cent Tax Hike

The San Anselmo School District board last night approved a tentative budget of $1,177,151 for submission to County Supt. Virgil S. Hollis. Final aproval is slated for July 21.

The budget calls for an increase over last year of $132,977, which is expected to require an operating tax rate increase of 33 cents to $2.13. Bond and loan repayment and override taxes are expected to go up three cents to 84 cents, for a total tax rate of $2.97, a hike of 36 cents over last year.

The operating tax boost is about two-thirds of the increase from $1.80 to $2.25 approved by the voters last October.

The extra funds are intended to pay for salary increases and additions to the teaching staffs. Supt. Stephen Parodi noted that the board has not taken advantage of a new law by which it could levy an extra tax for health and welfare benefits for teachers and other employees.

The board decided to delay until July 21 action on a procedural guide for teachers who have complaints to make to their principals or the superintendent.

The board heard approval of the guide urged by Martha Bartlett, president of the San Anselmo Elementry School Teachers Assn., and Dorothy Jones, co-chairman of the association's professional relations committee.

Mrs. Doris M. Harnsberger was chosen board president for the fiscal year, succeeding Robert W. Corlett. Dr. Elmer E. Weden was named clerk, succeeding Mrs. Harnsberger. Superintendent Parodi will continue as secretary to the board.

The San Anselmo School District board also:

1. Granted Sunny Hills Home permission to use school property next to Redhill for parking during a country auction July 25 and the Grape Festival in October.

2. Set its next meeting for 8 p.m. July 21, the date of the $700,000 bond and $500,000 state loan election in the district.

Police Track Down Suspect In Store Theft

Dogged detective work by police in San Rafael and San Anselmo led to the arrest of a Seattle, Wash., businessman and the recovery of about $17,000 worth of office machines taken in Marin burglaries.

Asst. Chief Sam N. Serio of San Anselmo and Inspector Richard Camper of San Rafael gave information to Seattle police to crack the case.

Arrested was Kurt E. Hellman, a dealer in office machines. In his store were found 10 cash registers taken April 19 from the National Cash Register Co. at 4270 Redwood Highway, San Rafael. Two machines taken from the Watkin and Sibbald office at 6 Bridge Avenue, San Anselmo, last February were also recovered.

It was description of these stolen machines which gave Seattle officers the evidence they needed to charge Hellman with grand larceny and receiving stolen goods.

Serio said about $700 worth of machines were stolen from the Watkin and Sibbald office. He said two of these still had the serial numbers on them and have been recovered. Other machines had the numbers filed off, he said.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation also entered the case because the loot was shipped across state lines to Hellman after the burglaries. Police are on the trail of two men suspected of the actual theft.

Thomas A. Norton, sat on the board for the first time and Harris began serving his first full term. Harris had served out the unexpired term of director Leslie Smith who resigned.

Kentfield Post Office Job To Begin Within 6 Months

Construction of the Kentfield Post Office on a College Avenue site opposite the College of Marin will start within five or six months, Willard Patton of Sequoia Realty, Mill Valley, said today.

Patton is handling construction arrangements for Dr. Ethel Righetti of San Francisco, owner of the property the government is leasing. The building, when completed according to post office specifications, will be leased from Dr. Righetti.

Patton said a contractor has been selected, but he did not want to reveal his name at this time. Building plans will have to be revamped to fit the site, he said. The structure will cost under $60,000, Patton added.

The Post Office Department has signed a 10-year lease on the property, with two five-year renewal options at a basic annual rental of $6,600. Construction is expected to be completed within six months of the signing of the lease on Tuesday, a spokesman said.

The Kentfield Post Office, a branch of the San Rafael office, has been located at 1110 Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur, for the past year and a half. Its lease at a former location in the Kent Woodlands Shopping Center was allowed to expire.

President Lauds Win Over Congress Pursestring Czar

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Lyndon B. Johnson has hailed House passage of a 3.3-billion-dollar foreign aid bill as a victory for American foreign policy and the American people.

Final House action on the measure came late Wednesday after Rep. Otto E. Passman (D-La.) was defeated in his efforts to make further cuts in the total which already had been reduced $200 million from Johnson's original "barebones" request for 3.5 billion dollars. The reduction was the smallest since the Korean War.

Johnson promptly issued a statement saying the House action was "in line with the best interests of America and the best interests of the Free World.

"I congratulate the members who backed the measure which was realistically and honestly conceived. This is an important victory for American foreign policy and that means for every American citizen."

Passage came on a 231-174 roll call vote, with 176 Democrats and 55 Republicans voting in favor of the measure. Opposed were 63 Democrats and 111 Republicans.

The appropriations measure which provides the foreign aid money was then sent to the Senate, where the Foreign Relations Committee is working on the President's foreign aid authorization request. This first step merely sets the ceiling on foreign aid spending. Action on the authorization will follow.

Wednesday's vote ended 10 years of dominant influence by Passman over foreign aid funds in the House. He is chairman of a House Appropriations sub-committee that handles foreign aid.

But he pledged to "keep on fighting this monstrosity" and asked "I don't think 9 times out of 10 is too bad an average, do you?"

He had made a last effort to slice another 247 million dollars from the aid program and lost on a 208-198 roll call vote.

Negro Boy Found Hanged, Father Calls It Murder

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A Negro boy found hanged in a wooded area was identified by his father today as Jerry Maxey, 14, "a kid who wouldn't bother anybody."

The father, Robert Maxey, 41, a mail porter at Atlanta Terminals, said he was sure his son had been murdered.

"He wasn't despondent in any way," Maxey said. "He was a happy little boy. He wouldn't have killed himself."

The boy was one of four sons of Maxey and his wife. They also have four daughters. The family lives about a mile from where the body was found yesterday hanging from a tree in a northwest Atlanta urban renewal area.

Hunt Drags On For Rights Trio In Mississippi

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (UPI) — State troopers, FBI agents and a force of 400 Navy men doggedly combed fields, backroads and woodlands again today for three civil rights workers who disappeared 11 days ago.

Although no tract of the three has been found, state investigators said yesterday they were "pleased" with the progress of the search. Under further questioning they said the optimistic statement was based on the fact that morale of searchers is still high.

The hunt today was concentrated in the countries surrounding Neshoba County, where a station wagon belonging to the missing three was found burned near the Bogue Chitto Swamp.

The three integrationists were participatin in the "Mississippi Project," a drive aimed at signing up Negro voters in the state, at the time of their disappearance.

At Holly Springs, Miss., a white farmer, Robert Walker, 30, was charged with assault and battery in an incident involving another out-of-state "project" worker — Larry Rubin, 21, of Philadelphia, Pa.

A warrant obtained by the Council of Federated Organizations (COFO), the organizations coordinating the "Mississippi Project," charged Walker with threatening to fire a shotgun or pistol into Rubin's living quarters. Walker was freed under $1,000 bond after denying the charges.

In another related development, a Forest, Miss., businessman, Clifton McWilliams, called on President Lyndon B. Johnson to use federal force in a search for his brother, who dropped from sight June 7.

McWilliams sent a telegram to the President noting that the chief executive had ordered 400 navy men to aid in the search for the missing civil rights workers.

"I feel that I should get the same thorough investigation," McWilliams told the President. "Anything less would be discrimination against my brother and violation of my civil rights."

Race Tension Easing Off In Florida City

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (UPI) — The state highway patrol began withdrawing its forces from St. Augustine today in view of a truce that has brought racial peace to the historic tourist town.

Both integrationists and segregationists called off further demonstrations Tuesday after Gov. Farris Bryant appointed a biracial committee to study local racial problems. Businessmen followed up this development yesterday by announcing they would fully comply with the new pending civil rights law.

Patrol Officer Lee Simmons said most of the force would leave St. Augustine today but would "be on call to respond immediately if needed."

He would not say how many men would remain. The state had a force of more than 230 officers here at the peak of the racial trouble.

Gov. Bryant said he has not disclosed the identities of those he appointed to his biracial committee because he did not want to make their job more difficult.

Malcolm X Threatens Guerilla War In Dixie

NEW YORK (UPI) — Militant black nationalist Malcolm X vowed yesterday to wage guerrilla warfare against racists in Mississippi and other southern states.

Malcolm said he would send squads of armed guerrillas into the South to protect Negroes from "terror and brutality" of the Ku Klux Klan. He said the squads would act only defensively.

"The only way an inferior force can compete against a better armed superior force is with the science of guerrilla warfare," the black nationalist said. "The Klan elements in the South are well known. We believe that whenever they strike against the Negro, the Negro has a chance to strike back."

Malcolm also implied that he would use "white infiltrators" to gather intelligence about racist activities in the South.

"It will take a while to do it. And you would be surprised how many whites, students and older persons, are fed up with the situation."

In an interview at his New York headquarters, Malcolm said: "Those people in Mississippi are in for a shock if they think the Negroes will take brutality this summer.

"If President (Lyndon B.) Johnson doesn't do his duty and use federal troops to protect the lives and property of Negroes, we definitely will do our utmost to show we can defend our people in America—the way we defended them (and other Americans) in Korea," he said. "We will take every Negro veteran we can into that state."

Malcolm said his guerrilla campaign was not directed against whites generally, but against "the white racist."

Discussing tactics, Malcolm said:

"We won't go into a community marching down a road in formation, that would be suicide. We will infiltrate and then strike."

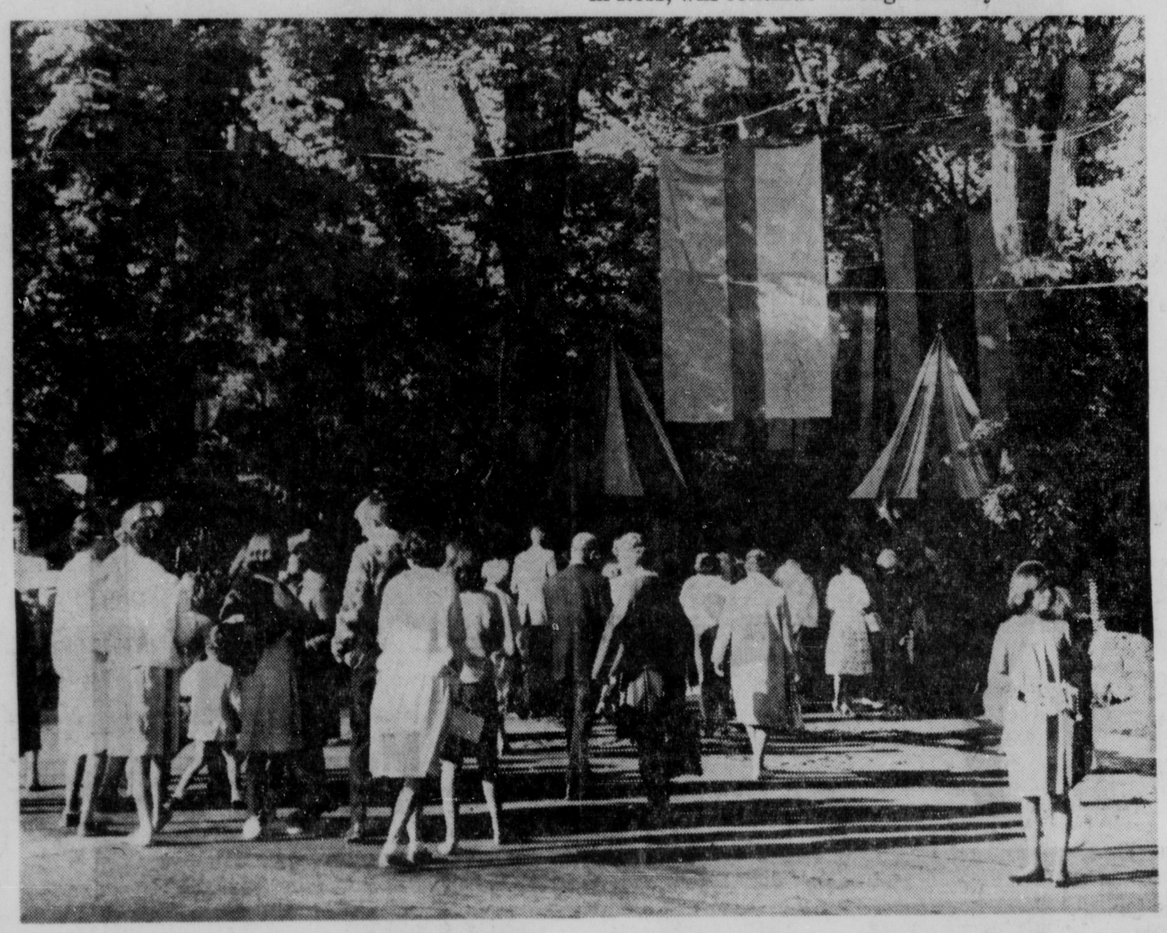
JAPANESE GARDEN IN MEDIEVAL MANNER

Norvell Gillespie, western garden editor of Better Homes and Gardens and one of the judges of the Marin Art and Garden Fair, snaps picture of display by George Murata, Corte Madera landscape designer, which was awarded two first prizes and an excellence ribbon. The fair, at the Art and Garden Center in Ross, will continue through Sunday.



CROWD CAME EARLY—Part of opening night crowd passes under hanging banners into Marin Art and Garden Center for night session of annual fair. Such banners hang throughout the grounds in the "Medieval Manner" theme of this year's fair.

MODERN ROBIN HOOD—F. J. Del Pino of Northwoods Bowmen is no slouch with the long bow, as arrows in target prove. Members of Northwoods Bowmen are wearing Sherwood Forest green at Marin Art and Garden Fair as Robin Hood's men, in accord with medieval theme of the show. That dummy? Oh, that's the sheriff of Nottingham.

Bowman Does His Bit At Marin Art, Garden Fair

F. J. Del Pino, normally a staid Treasury Department employee, is spending a part of his vacation dressed in a Robin Hood costume.

Del Pino is one of the 20 some members of the Northwood Bowmen's Club who have donned specially created costumes to lend an authentic air to the Marin Art and Garden Fair's medieval theme.

Del Pino of 133 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo, and the rest of Robin Hood's men are operating in the "Sherwood Forest" section of the fairgrounds in Ross.

Nodding toward the stuffed sheriff, Del Pino said, "That guy's been giving us a lot of trouble." At the request of a photographer, he let the sheriff have it with an arrow that sped to its mark at about 90 miles an hour.

Alongside the range stands the Blue Boar Inn, where club members' wives, wearing old English barmaid costumes serve.

"Friar Tuck will be here too," Del Pino said as he displayed his quarter-staff, a wicked, wooden hand weapon.

Del Pino also had a collection of arrows bearing his crest, a series of gold, green, silver and brown markings.

His name in Italian means "of the pine," he said, and the markings signify the tree . . . "the gold for sunshine, the green for leaves, the silver for bark and the brown for the trunk."

The Northwood Bowmen's Club started about 12 or 14 years ago and grew to about 100 members, including families, he said.

Members of the club decided to wear the Robin Hood costumes after the fair picked its theme, "In a Medieval Manner," he said.

As for the costume itself, Del Pino said, "It's too darn hot."

FIFTH & LINCOLN SAN RAFAEL

Aby Is New Chairman Of Bay Pollution Board

Dr. Charles W. Aby, San Rafael city councilman, became chairman yesterday of the Bay Area Pollution Control District board.

Aby, who served the past fiscal year as district secretary, replaces outgoing chairman Alberto E. Merrill, Los Gatos city councilman.

Directors at yesterday's annual meeting also heard chief administrative officer D. J. Cullaghan report that control work during the year succeeded in eliminating 60 tons of dust and pollutants from the air. He also said that as of June 30 there were 4,373 Bay Area firms conforming to air pollution control standards.

The board went on record in support of property tax relief that would give industries a tax break on investments in pollution control devices.

Other officers elected yesterday were Supervisor T. Louis Chess of San Mateo County, vice chairman, and Supervisor James P. Kenney of Contra Costa County, secretary.

San Rafael Man Denies Check Passing Charge

Bill J. Parker, 30, of San Rafael, entered an innocent plea in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to a charge of passing a worthless $20 check and was bound over to Marin Superior Court after waiving preliminary hearing.

The complaint alleges a prior conviction. Parker, arrested May 22 by San Rafael police allegedly passed the check March 26 with intent to defraud Crocker-Citizens National Bank, San Rafael branch, and Sil's Market, 175 Belvedere Street, San Rafael.

Marin Has Half-A-Loaf So Far In Stanford Industrial Study

By ROBERT M. COPPOCK

The Marin County economic activity study by the Stanford Research Institute lists three pages of industries which would be suitable for Marin County, and another page of non-industrial businesses which should also be sought.

But it does not tell how to get them.

The study made an analysis of the county to learn what it could offer industry, and what industry would not hurt the residential character of the county. But suggestions on action were saved for phase two, which the county has not yet ordered.

When the study was proposed last August by Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker, there was no presumption that the work would be done in two parts. Leydecker said the study should both tell what kinds of economic activity should be sought, and how to get the industry or business to move in.

Leydecker was then made chairman of a three-man committee, with county administrator Alan Bruce and auditor-controller Michael Mitchell, to make arrangements for a study, estimated to cost $30,000.

The Draper Companies contributed $15,000, and other private firms added smaller amounts, usually checks of $500 or $1,000.

When the board of supervisors approved the arrangement with the Stanford Research Institute last Nov. 5, however, the plan had split like an amoeba into two plans. The first part, called "Objective 1" in Institute letters to Bruce's office, was to cost $25,400.

The supervisors agreed to go ahead with the study, based on a "proposal for research" made by the research firm Oct. 25. In the proposal, it was clear that two studies were contemplated, although the cost of the second phase was not indicated.

The split was apparently caused by comments written by Bruce to the Institute after reviewing a first draft of the proposal, some weeks before it went to the board.

In that draft, finding out what types of economic activities would help Marin was called "Objective 1" and figuring out how to attract them was "Objective 2." The proposal said that the main job would be "Objective 1," and that work on the second project would only be done until the time and money for the project ran out.

No one could tell, the draft said, what "Objective 2" will cost until the first part was done and the possibilities laid out.

Bruce wrote back, saying that the second job was at least as important as the first, and should not just be a tag end to the project. He agreed, however, that the second objective would be hard to budget for, since it might even be found that Marin had no possibilities for improving the tax base, which would mean "objective 2" would cost nothing.

The research institute revised the draft, and the objectives became "phases," with the first phase taking up the entire $25,400. It was this revision which was quickly acted upon by the supervisors.

Bruce said yesterday that the second phase would cost much less than the first, if the county agrees to buy it. He said he has received oral assurances of this from the institute in Menlo Park, but nothing in writing. The county preliminary budget has $6,500 set aside for phase two.

The phase one report made one suggestion for courting industry. The zoning ordinance as regards industry should be drastically revised, the study said. The new ordinance should set standards for levels of nuisance factors to be allowed, but should not specifically exclude any type of industry.

Minister Expelled Over Myth Claim

SHEFFIELD, England (AP) — A Methodist minister who calls the Virgin birth "a piece of mythology" has been expelled from the ministry on a heresy charge.

"I am no longer a Methodist minister," Walter Gill, 49, said after a two-hour hearing before the church conference Tuesday. There is no appeal from the decision.

Gill, who had been minister to three churches in northern England, said he has a wife, two children and "not a bean in the world."

Remembered His Boyhood; Gave Sausalito Playground

Stanley S. Langendorf did more than meet a need for a children's playground in Sausalito by donating a valuable site at Easterby Street and Woodward Avenue. As an outstanding executive in the nation's baking industry, he also produced "the dough" to make the playground a reality.

Sausalito's Recreation Commission long felt the need of a children's playground in the Spring Valley area. Two valuable pieces of property owned by Langendorf were eyed as ideal locations.

The Recreation Commission took the matter of a site up with Langendorf. His response was to offer, free of cost, either site the commission wanted. The site was selected, and the land donated.

The Sausalito City Council passed a resolution, thanking Langendorf. And Acting Mayor Gabrielson delivered a copy of it the resolution to the donor.

Langendorf's interest in children's recreation has continued since he was a member of San Francisco's Columbia Park Boys' Club. He knew a site wasn't enough.

"How much will it cost to fully equip this new playground with slides, swings and other facilities?" he asked Gabrielson. Told that it would be $5,000, Langendorf immediately presented a check for that amount.

Proving that those benefitted as youngsters remember the benefits they received—and are willing to help other juveniles.

Gate Bridge Second Deck Study

Interesting over an ever-widening area is the plan of the Golden Gate Bridge directors to have its engineering consultants study feasibility of a second deck.

Should feasibility be established, and financial cost be found in order, this might make unnecessary the much-argued idea of that line of arches for traffic direction on the bridge itself.

And wouldn't it be well to also ascertain if the extra support and strengthening of the big span for the second deck could also make possible the use of the bridge as part of the Bay Area's original rapid transit plan?

OPERATES CAR FOR 30 YEARS; NO LICENSE

A man who drove an automobile for 30 years without ever having an operator's license was finally brought to book.

It all came to light when he was stopped by police for a routine check. When brought into court, he admitted to the magistrate that he had failed his first driver's test 30 years before and had never bothered to reapply for a license.

The negligent motorist was fined a total of $95—$3 for each year of his neglect, plus $5 for court costs.

There is a strong temptation to evade regulations when we do not realize their overall purpose in maintaining a safe and sane world.

While exercising your own freedom, show restraint lest you infringe on the legitimate liberties of others.

Observe reasonable restrictions in both private and public life and you will be doing your part to apply God's law to the running of human affairs.

Alcohol Control Director Leaves Post For Business

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — California is losing a dedicated public servant, and the nation's distilling industry is gaining a top administrator next month when Malcolm Harris, director of the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control leaves his job here and goes to Washington, D.C., to become the executive vice-president of the distillers institute.

Governor Edmund G. Brown told Harris "there is no resignation I am more reluctant to accept than yours, but your wonderful new opportunity makes it impossible to do otherwise."

Harris himself is justifiably proud of his department and the men it contains. They are younger men, recruited from colleges, police departments and other government agencies and, as Harris says, are interested in doing a job of enforcing the provisions of the Alcoholic Beverages Control Act.

Russ Munro, a former director of the department, began the big task of shaping up the administration of liquor laws, and Harris, his successor, continued it. The result is a department that is and has been for several years now, something of a model in the handling of liquor matters.

When the state legislature reorganized liquor control, removing it from the hands of the state board of equalization, administration of the state's regulations on alcohol sales, was somewhat in disrepute. In fact, it reached a major scandal in Southern California. Convictions were obtained for irregular practices, one assemblyman went to jail, and the former chairman of the state board, William G. Bonelli, was charged with various offenses.

Bonelli skipped the country, and still is a fugitive from justice, presumably in Mexico. Other officials served their terms and quietly disappeared from the political life of California.

The new department had a succession of directors, all of whom were interested primarily in putting it on a strictly enforcement basis, working with the liquor interests it was supposed to regulate and, at the same time, giving the people of the state an even break in the purchase of liquor.

Harris has continued along this line. He has not deviated from the course of good administration, nor favored any particular interest in the administration of the law.

He is concerned over the situation that exists today in the sale of licenses, and believes that is the number one problem the state has to face in the future.

Licenses sell for a high as $40,000, he points out, while the state gets only $6,000 for an original license. The profiteering, says Harris, is not good for the liquor industry. He has no ready answer to the question of how to stop the profiteering, and neither has anyone else. But, he points out, there can be a way if the legislature puts its mind to working out the problem.

Not only will Harris' superior regret his leaving, but also the liquor industry, to whom he has been fair, honest and just.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Inside Lane, Slow Speed; Six Dead

EDITOR, Independent-Journal:

With reference to the tragic accident when the lives of six people were needlessly snuffed out, I should like to offer the theory that almost, if not all of the blame, would appear to rest with a slow-moving north bound driver, driving in the middle or left traffic lane. It must be assumed that this vehicle, being in the fast lane, was the reason for the fast-moving sport car having to pass it by swerving into the right lane. Then, as the speeding car attempted to turn back into the fast lane, it went out of adequate control and collided head-on with the southbound Neal car, which, according to published reports "was driving at a steady 55 miles an hour" also in the center lane.

Driving at that speed in the center lane all too frequently causes "exasperation" accidents, which usually involve other drivers while the slow-moving driver proceeds serenely, and often unconsciously on his way, heedless of the destruction he often has caused. . . .

It certainly appears that much, if not most of the responsibility for that tragedy must rest with the wrong-lane slow drivers, which might be well-noted by other similarly inclined drivers.

Unruh School Act Opposition Stated

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Because of erroneous information published in your paper as a result of hasty reporting by the wire services, I submit the following information concerning the referendum movement on the Unruh School Act.

A group of citizens throughout the State have formed the Committee To Retain Citizens' Control Of Schools. This is a grass roots effort. It was NOT started by the Calif. Small School Districts Assn., but that group has since discussed the movement at its executive board meeting last weekend (June 27 and 28) and voted unanimously to endorse and support the committee in its circulation of petitions. In the event that the wire services failed to inform you, a copy of the press release is enclosed.

The referendum does not affect finances for the school year 1964-65. The sole purpose of the Committee To Retain Citizens' Control Of Schools is to give the people of California a chance to decide if they want certain sections of the Unruh School Act to become law. These sections concern school district reorganization.

The portions of the Act objected to, in our opinion, constitute a subversion of proper democratic procedures and will lead to the ultimate destruction of control of the public schools of California by the citizens who support those schools. These portions are also in direct conflict with the recommendations of the Assembly Interim Committee on Education which, in its report issued January 7, 1963, stated: "The committee believes that district reorganization should occur on the basis of primary local and educational factors and not on the basis of financial bribes offered by the State."

By the time that the Unruh School Act came to the floor of the Legislature for a final vote, 42 pages of complex amendments had been incorporated into the bill, which had originally contained about 14 pages. No public testimony was heard on these amendments. The bill was passed hastily, without proper consideration and understanding of its contents. Some thought it was a school money bill; it is not. The additional funds appropriated for the next school year are contained in the budget bill, not in the Unruh Act.

The Unruh School Act would bring about a unique change in election practices. It mandates repeated elections at which fundamental changes would be made no matter which way the people vote. It offers a financial bribe to encourage the voter to accept one form of school district reorganization only, the unified district, while providing increased taxation without a tax election as a punishment if unification is rejected.

Current school district reorganization studies, proceeding throughout California under already existing statutes, are ignored. No regard is given to local needs and problems. No evidence is presented that reorganization under this Act will produce any improvement in education. No money will be saved by the taxpayers; in fact, Governor Brown has already said that State taxes will have to be raised because of it.

The Unruh School Act abolishes augmented county committees on school district organization. This means that school trustees, elected by the voters in their respective districts, will no longer be able to represent the people who elected them in any studies concerning reorganization of their own school district. Instead, only those proposals decided upon by basic county committees, composed of people who do not stand for election at the polls, and subsequently approved by the State Board of Education whose members are political appointees of the Governor, will ever reach the voters. If those proposals are rejected by the voters, this law would force another election every two years, presumably until the voters are so worn down that they are willing to accept the proposals whether or not education would be benefited.

We believe that the Unruh School Act was enacted by political manipulation and for political purposes. We further believe that it is high time that the people of California have something to say in the matter of the use of their children's schools for the advancement of the political ambitions of certain elements in our society. If you or any of your readers are approached by a circulator, we ask that you sign this referendum petition and allow the issue to be placed upon the November ballot. In this way, a full-scale effort can be made to let our legislators know that we wish to retain citizen control of our public schools.

Committee To Retain Citizens' Control of Schools.

BENNETT CERF

A FLAMBOYANT gentleman, sporting a beret, paint-stained smock, and long-flowing beard, was consulting a prominent psychiatrist. "You say you are NOT an artist?" queried the latter. 'Then why the beret, smock, and beard?" "That," proclaimed the visitor, "is what I am here to find out."

TOILERS in television have a jargon of their own. Cynthia Lowry has collected a few of their more colorful definitions:

"Billboard" is an announcement at the begining or end of a program giving the sponsor credit. "A burp" is an extraneous noise on TV circuits. A "crawk" is a performer with the ability to imitate a wide variety of animal sounds. A "hitch hike" is a commercial at the end of a program for a sponsor's product which is not advertised earlier in the program. And the "nut" is the complete cost of producing a program.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES:

In a beanery: "Try our enthusiastic stew. We put everything we had in it."

Guerrilla Specialist Views Vietnam's Long Range Problems

WASHINGTON — What should be done to win the war in South Vietnam?

We are getting a variety of answers from politicians and others ranging from "pull out" to "use atomic bombs."

In the interests of a better understanding of the problem and its possible solution, I want to present the views a guerrilla warfare specialist, Maj. Irwin C. Nye of the Army's Special Warfare Center at Fort Bragg, N.C., who has given me permission to quote from his letter.

HE NOTES that news reports from Saigon often suggest that "the Vietnamese military leaders are not aggressive enough, that they fail to follow the advice of their U.S. advisors, that they are afraid of the dark and of the rainy season." But there is a reason: "both soldiers and civilians are sick to death of the long war . . . ."

Major Nye stresses the view that the Vietnamese military "are afraid to be too open and aggressive in support of a government which still cannot safeguard them and their families against Viet Cong attrocities," and that "the Viet Cong is organized and psychologically prepared to continue the fight almost indefinitely, as long as the general populace remains uncommitted to either side of the fight."

He contends that "for the U.S. to attempt to assume command over South Vietnamese (military) personnel could, at this point, assure a Communist win. For us to do the job with conventional U.S. troops doing the fighting would frustrate us completely and assure a political loss right here at home, just as the French were beaten at home at the time of Dien Bien Phu."

AS TO WHAT should be done, Major Nye has three recommendations for additional American effort:

1. The Vietnamese should impose a population and material movement control within the country, including cargo inspection, to restrict the flow of munitions and the raw materials from which they can be made to keep them from reaching the Viet Cong at places where they are needed.

2. Improvement of the Vietnamese standard of living is urgently needed, including better schools, dispensaries and hospitals, small industries, crop diversification, distribution and communication. This must be done "with the help of family and religious leaders and other traditional 'opinion formers.'"

3. Teach the military and the civilians how better to defend themselves against terror, assassination, ambush and other guerrilla-type attacks.

Major Nye emphasizes that once progress is made in the first two areas, "the third problem will be less difficult. If people are convinced that they can pull themselves up by their bootstraps to a better tomorrow, they will be willing to fight and die today. The secret is in convincing them that their own best interests lie on the side of the struggle we are supporting."

MAJOR NYE is convinced that if we fail or pull out of South Vietnam, the U.S. ". . . . probably would be more reluctant than ever to provide continuing support to other nations in Asia, Africa and South America when the Communist aggression is stepped up there."

Both the Communists and we are committed, Major Nye says, "to see this struggle through—or to lose far more than a corner of Asia. If we cannot find eventual victory in the swamps and jungles, hearts and minds of Vietnam, there is little hope that we can do so elsewhere."

Summing up his hopes and recommendations for Vietnam, Major Nye concludes ". . . if we are to invest endless American lives, money and resources toward winning the struggle in Vietnam, is it not best that we work toward a permanent victory instead of a purely military one?"

It seems to me that Major Nye is quite right and I think that this view is increasingly shared by those who are making policy.

THE ALLEN-SCOTT REPORT

Kennedy To Decide Future Political Post

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy faces his most fateful political Rubicon.

Now back from Europe, Bobby must decide whether to accept a new career within the Johnson administration or continue his backstage preparations to force his way on the Democratic national ticket.

THIS UNPUBLICIZED fork in his political road was reached by Kennedy when President Johnson offered him a chance to continue his government service in either a high-level defense or diplomatic post — depending upon his own choice.

While these private Johnson-Kennedy discussions still are inconclusive, a pre-convention decision by Kennedy is being forced by a White House-supported move by Ambassador Adlai Stevenson to go after the Democratic senatorial nomination in New York.

Stevenson is now telling political intimates he plans to leave his post as U.S. Ambassador to the U.N. to try to unseat GOP Senator Kenneth Keating.

Stevenson's still - to - be - announced return to the political wars will touch off a game of musical chairs within the administration, clearing the way for President Johnson to appoint Kennedy to one of at least two cabinet-level positions.

ACCORDING TO administration insiders, the president's discussions with the attorney general centered around his possible appointment either to Stevenson's post or as secretary of defense, although other positions were mentioned.

The consensus was that if Kennedy wanted the Pentagon post, Defense Secretary McNamara would be shifted to the State Department, replacing Secretary Rusk, who would go to the U.N. If Kennedy decided on the U.N. post, Rusk's shift would be delayed several months.

President Johnson's proposal, which could solve his "Kennedy problem" for several years, is being sugar-coated with "leaks" from the White House that the relationship between the President and the attorney general has considerably improved in recent weeks.

These stories, which also have met with approval at the Justice Department, have prevented a potentially explosive split in the Democratic party from breaking into the open prior to the national convention.

WHILE KENNEDY ponders the President's "peace" offer, both his supporters and those of the White House continue their guerrilla warfare to strengthen their positions for a possible convention confrontation.

In the Midwest political jungles, President Johnson has taken the offensive in Wisconsin by selecting Senator Gaylord Nelson as campaign coordinator for that state.

This politically astute move, while not decisive in controlling the state's delegation, is a definite slap at Governor John Reynolds, who is working undercover to lineup the Democratic governors to support an "open contest" for the vice presidential nomination.

This maneuvering for a "free-for-all contest" goes to the heart of Kennedy's strategy to ignite a "draft" at the convention for his nomination as Johnson's running mate. Kennedy still has not called a halt to these maneuvers indicating the Rubicon is still uncrossed.

The Kennedy family tragedies are having their impact on the young attorney general.

Friends say those morose newspaper photographs of Bobby are due in part to "fretting" that he may be the next target of an assassin.

When his automobile was struck from behind in a minor collision here recently, Kennedy took cover on the floor of his chauffer-driven limousine in the belief that an attempt was being made on his life, according to a witness at the accident scene. One occupant of the other car involved found Kennedy lying on the floor of his limousine with his briefcase protecting his head.

Charitable Fund Aware Of Academic 'Go-Slow' Tendencies

TRUSTEES OF THE William Babcock Memorial Endowment Fund know how to give an effective gift.

Last week it was made known that the trustees were making $15,000 available to the College of Marin and Marin General Hospital to pay the salary and office expenses of a director for a two-year registered nursing program.

There was one stipulation to the offer — that the planning stage of the program last for no longer than one year, and that the first students be enrolled in the semester following completion of the planning stage.

A wise decision, oriented toward the desire to see action. Already the academic voices in favor of long drawn out studies had been heard.

ON JUNE 16, the President's Council at the College of Marin voted to table any recommendation on establishing a registered nursing program "until next semester with the assurance that the President's Council is not opposed to the project, but feel they need time to study the plans for the program."

College President Dr. Stephen E. Epler will recommend to the district board tonight that the President's Council recommendation be overridden and the gift be accepted.

The President's council, however, hasn't tabled everything to come before it.

A POLICY STATEMENT on hiring which "invites" members of minority groups to apply for openings at the college and "urges" them to qualify themselves for employment at the college has been ratified.

As it will be presented to the board tonight, the new statement would replace the existing policy of employment "on the basis of merit and professional and occupational qualifications without regard to race, color, religious creed or national origin."

THE NEW POLICY states in part:

"The College invites persons belonging to minority groups to apply for employment and assures them that they will be judged solely on the basis of their professional qualifications.

"In addition, the College urges those members to minority groups who may not already be prepared for such positions to consider taking the necessary steps to qualify themselves for employment in publicly supported educational institutions such as ours."

The statement was drafted by the Academic Senate and approved by the President's Council.

Its significance lies in the fact that it goes beyond the label of "policy" into the realm of appeal.

The Marin Junior College District board will choose its officers for the new fiscal year at its meeting today at 8 p.m. in room 24 of Harlan Hall.

The Tiburon City Council vote to elect Joseph C. Marshall to the Tiburon Planning Commission was three in favor, one abstaining and one opposed.

Councilman Fred C. Hannahs voted "no," saying he did not approve because the appointment would mean a commission which was poorly distributed, geographically, in the community. Councilman Leo Souza abstained.

Today is Thursday, July 2, the 184th day of 1964 with 182 to follow.

The moon is at its last quarter. The morning stars are Jupiter, Saturn, Venus and Mars.

On this day in history:

In 1776, the Continental Congress formally passed the Declaration of Independence, which was signed two days later.

In 1912, on the 46th ballot, Democrats meeting in Baltimore nominated Woodrow Wilson for president.

A thought for the day—Satirist Jonathan Swift said: "Every man desires to live long, but no man would be old."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey, Western District headquarters. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The figures are always additive to the depths unless preceded by a minus sign (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Lightface type indicates a.m. times; bold-face type indicates p.m. times.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

There Are Times When You Must Strike Your Enemy's Strength

It's usually a good idea to attack the enemy where he is weakest, but there are also times when you must strike at his strength.

Sometimes the best way to kill the dummy is to use up its entries before they become effective.

Opening lead — ♣ 5

When this hand was played recently in a Swedish tournament, West opened the five of clubs, and East won with the queen. East continued with the ace of clubs, and West followed with the deuce.

NO PROBLEM

This told East that his partner had led a five-card suit and that South had no more clubs. East saw no problem; he switched to the jack of hearts, leading up to dummy's weakness.

This normal lead gave South the time he needed to set up one of dummy's diamonds. He stepped right up with the ace of hearts, led a diamond to dummy's ace and ruffed a diamond.

South continued with a low trump to dummy's seven, ruffed a diamond with a high trump, and led another low trump to dummy's nine. He ruffed still another diamond with the king of trumps and led a trump to dummy's queen.

CASHES DIAMOND

By this time dummy's last diamond was good, so declarer cashed it to get rid of a heart. This assured the game.

There was no need for East to lead hearts at the third trick. If East could shut out dummy's diamonds, South would have to give up any heart losers he might have.

The way to shut out the diamonds is to return a trump. Now South can ruff out the diamonds, but he is one entry short. He cannot get back to dummy for the last good diamond.

TRUMP RETURN

South wins the trump return in either hand, cashes the ace of diamonds and ruffs a diamond. He gets to dummy with the nine of spades to ruff another diamond, but these two ruffs do not set up the suit.

South must now lead a trump to dummy's queen and try the heart finesse. Since this loses, he is down one.

A switch to hearts at the third trick would be correct if East held only K-Q-x of diamonds. East would then be in a hurry to grab his heart tricks before the diamonds came in. With East's actual holding, the attack on dummy's entries would be more effective.

Memorial Hall Plan Outlined By Bruce

The Marin County Memorial Hall will be the west end of the County Fair pavilion, according to the tentative plans under study by the Frank Lloyd Wright foundation, County Administrator Alan Bruce told the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission yesterday.

At the other end will be an auditorium for the performing arts. Between the two will be the many-flagged, plastic-covered pavillion proposed in the original plans for the fairgrounds by Wright.

Bruce said the pavillion complex will be multi-use structure, when finally completed the wall of the Memorial Hall may be made so it can be opened, to allow even larger crowds than its 38,000 square feet would normally hold.

The Memorial Hall will use veterans' memorial funds and state fairgrounds pari-mutuel money combined, and should be opened by the fall of 1967, he reported.

The total cost, including plans, is estimated at $1,663,200.

Financing for the auditorium is unsure. Construction of that building is several years away, Bruce predicted. There have been discussions about a private subscription drive and foundation grants for the project.

Meanwhile, the Memorial Hall will have a stage, and the flat floor may be constructed on several levels, but will not be primarily suited for performing arts. The hall will, in essence, be an exhibit building.

The county administrator said the "program statement" by the architect is expected to reach the board of supervisors by early September, with the preliminary plans coming in six months later.

He said operation of the hall would not be controlled by veterans' organizations, although they will have some say in how things are run. He said the board of supervisors may administer the building directly, or appoint a commission. If the latter, the commission may have an interlocking structural arrangement with the parks and recreation commission, he suggested.

'Red Dean Avers Red China Nice Spot To Die

LONDON (UPI)—Dr. Hewlett Johnson, 90, the former "Red Dean of Canterbury," returned from six weeks in Communist China last night and said he would not mind dying in that nation.

"China was the best advertisement for Communism I have seen, Johnson said. "It was the ideal place to retire and I would not mind dying there."

Jury Returns Verdict

Mrs. Margaret Rose Brunhofer, 54, of 1111 Fourth Street in San Rafael, was found mentally incompetent by a Marin Municipal Court jury yesterday and will be committed to Napa State Hospital.

Alarm Unfounded Over Park Plan, State Says

There has been a major misconception about just what kind of negotiations are going on between the state and Marin Municipal Water District regarding a new state park including water district lands, Robert B. Hatch of the state Division of Beaches and Parks said yesterday.

Hatch, supervisor of special projects, said an even more serious misconception exists about the kind of recreational uses that would be allowed under any circumstances on the watersheds of the district reservoirs.

Speaking to the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission, Hatch said the present negotiations were not expected to lead to immediate acquisition of land, either by purchase or lease.

Rather, he said, the hope is to find out what kinds of activity would be suitable for the area, and what kinds of problems could be expected if more public recreation is encouraged. No such thing as "intensive use" has ever been proposed, he declared.

He said someone had taken a standard figure on the number of campsites which should be allowed per acre in a specific campgrounds, and multiplied that number by the number of acres proposed for use.

That many campsites would deplete the state's entire parks budget for years, Hatch scoffed. "We would have to have high-rise camping sites."

Hatch added that the water district would have control over any activity which might harm the quality of the water stored in district reservoirs in the land north of Mount Tamalpais and west of Ross and San Anselmo.

He said the division is not going to drop its study of the area, since it was ordered to make the study by the state legislature and actually has no choice in the matter.

The commission at a previous meeting had supported the idea of a state park on water district lands, and multiple use of district property.

Commissioners reviewed the parks and recreation budget as approved preliminarily by the county board of supervisors, and decided informally that the results were generally favorable, especially the $5,000 added for work on plans for Stafford Lake.

The Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission also:

1. Turned over to the County Administrator's office a request from the San Rafael Park and Recreation Commission for greater county support for the senior citizens program.
2. Saw a slide presentation on the proposed Humane Society animal shelter and educational center, planned for Ignacio.
3. Set a special meeting at 10 a.m. July 22 to review plans for the Muir Beach overlook, and Paradise Beach Park and to discuss work on the county master recreation plan.
4. Took a stand opposing the proposed 18,000 cubic yard dredging project by Waldo G. Giacomini in Lagunitas Creek near White House Pool.
5. Heard from Park Director Kelvin J. Nelson that questionnaires on a recreation program for the handicapped are nearly all in, and that a pilot program may be possible, using funds now available

Commissioners Gibbs H. Lawson and James M. Fletcher were absent.

Drunken Driver Fined

George E. Fales, 46, San Francisco, was fined $110 in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on his guilty plea to drunken driving. He was arrested April 29 on South Novato Boulevard in Novato.

Marinites Star In Educational Movie For Chemical Industry

An educational film depicting a young couple's progress raising fuchsias and begonias, sponsored by the Ortho Division of California Chemical Co. and to be released all over the country, seems to have an all-Marin locale, cast and technical staff.

The picture's beginning will include footage of the Marin Art and Garden Show, now in progress and of the San Anselmo home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kopp (who are the stars of the production). Their home was landscaped for the film by Cagwin and Dorward of San Anselmo and features plantings provided by Egger's Nursery.

Executive producer of the film is L. F. Czufin of Sleepy Hollow, advertising and public relations manager for Calchem. The writer is Geoffrey Fullick of Forest Knolls, and the cameraman is Walter Schenk of Sausalito. Only non-Marin name listed among the credits is Ingraham Productions of San Francisco, in charge of production.

Entire filming period covers nearly three months, showing the full cycle of a gardening year. The picture has its climax with the Kopps returning to the Marin Art and Garden Show proudly displaying their prize fuchsias and begonias. Shooting at the fair will be sometime Saturday and Sunday. It's probably the first time the fair has been a commercial film location in its 19 years of successful runs.

THE MEADOWS OF TERRA LINDA, 25-acre apartment development of Calvin C. B. Wheeler and his associates, is approaching completion — with a number of the 220 living units already occupied, and others being rented.

This project is located near the west end of Manuel T. Freitas Parkway on Lea Drive — about a four-million-dollar investment in good living.

Unusual rental appeal of the Meadows is its private Oakview Club for the residents. This is something more than the regular recreation center in that it is equipped with restaurant facilities, bar, cocktail lounge and liquor license. Shaun Wiltshire of Wiltshire Towers is club manager.

Other club attractions are swimming pools, tennis courts with bleachers, sunning and barbecue areas, exercise room, showers and sauna baths and social rooms.

APPOINTMENTS of David G.

HAROLD H. BURGESS
To San Carlos

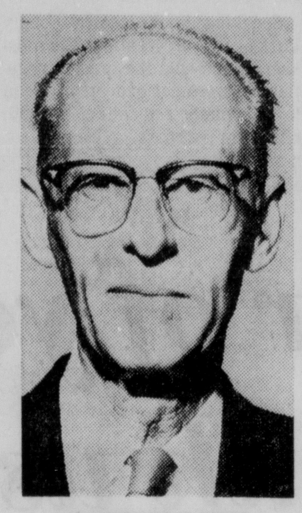
DAVID C. TRAVERSI

Traversi as a lending officer, and Clarence E. Elzi as a field representative in the Petaluma office of the Bank of Marin have been announced by William P. Murray Jr., president.

Traversi formerly was associated with the First National Bank of San Rafael and subsequently as assistant manager of the Petaluma office for Crocker Citizens National Bank. Elzi has spent 31 years with Bank of America's Petaluma and Tomales Bay branches. Both men are residents of Petaluma.

FROM PETS TO REAL ESTATE. Lou Baskin of Fairfax, former owner of Casa del Perro in San Anselmo, has joined the staff of Louise Walsh in San Rafael. Agnes R. Albury, also of Fairfax, is another addition to the Walsh Realty staff. She was formerly with Ramos Realty.

K. GUY WILLIAMS of Novato has been appointed vice president of First Western Bank and Trust Company's Northern California appraisal department. An appraiser for 13 years, Williams joined First Western two years ago. Since May, 1963 he has been assistant chief appraiser in Southern California. He will be headquartered in the San Francisco administrative office.



CLARENCE E. ELZI
Bank of Marin appointees

HAROLD H. BURGESS of San Rafael has been made professional service representative by Merck, Sharp and Dohme, manufacturer of pharmaceuticals and biologicals. He will operate in the San Carlos territory. He was formerly with Schering Corp.

Stock Market Continuing Its Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued its rally and closed higher today in active trading.

Some profit-taking developed late in the session in advance of the long Fourth of July weekend and gains were pared.

Volume for the day was estimated at 5.4 million shares compased with 5.35 million yesterday.

Some brokers said the traditional summer rally was under way and the only question was how far it would go.

Steels again led the rally and pulled out of a midday slump. Jones and Laughlin picked up nearly two points while U.S. Steel and elc Steel were ahead by small fractions.

Motors became strong on reports of record production in June, the second quarter and the first half with General Motors and Chrysler advancing a point.

American Telephone, still basking under a report of record earnings for the three months ended May 31, was up nearly half a point and near an all-time high.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange in quiet trading.

Corporate and government bonds were mixed.

Half-Million Cars

LANSING, Mich.—The 500,000th 1964 model Oldsmobile was driven off the assembly line in the division's main plant in Lansing this morning, to record Oldsmobile's highest production total in nine years, it was announced by R. T. Rollins, general manufacturing manager.

The 1,056-foot Eiffel Tower remains so sturdy that only a few of its 18,036 steel sections have ever been replaced.

National, Private Debt Ceilings Keep Soaring

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The rush to hail all the economic records set in the first half of the year has hidden some of the late June and early July rites that go on year after year with little change.

The legal federal debt limit has been raised again, and at the last moment. The debt already had gone up. Congress made it legal for the Treasury to live with the accomplished fact.

Federal excise taxes on a limited list of items have been extended another year. These temporary rates have been continued each June for a decade.

Treasury statisticians are busy working on the books of the fiscal year that has just ended and will report soon. As usual, even inevitable, the actual spending and the actual receipts won't match the estimates made when the budget was presented 18 months ago, nor the revised estimates given Congress six months ago.

As in almost every year for decades, the final result will be a deficit, with outgo topping income. That is why the federal debt keeps going up.

This has its counterpart in many family budgets and explains why the total of consumer debt also rises with predictable regularity.

Statisticians are quick to point out that there is nothing necessarily alarming in any of this.

The economy is growing. Along with it, the spending of consumers and of government increases. So the private and public debt goes up. Combined it exceeds a trillion dollars. But assets are even higher.

Nor is there anything unprecedented about Congress being reluctant to relinquish any tax or higher rate, however temporary may be its label. Congress has continued for one more year the 1.9 billion dollars in federal excise taxes on jewelry, cosmetics, furs, luggage, liquor, cigarettes, autos, local phone calls and airplane tickets. The rates were set up during the Korean War as a temporary measure.

Congress also likes to keep a legal limit on the federal debt, although the real one of 312 billion dollars at the moment is far above the basic limit of 285 billion. This base has been exceeded by regular temporary boostings of the ceiling.

So, as records are set, business goes on as usual on many fronts, both government and private. And changes often are in dollar terms rather than in the items themselves.

Experts Take Pleased But Wary Stand

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bache and Co. feels the market is continuing to act well and anticipates further gains in the months ahead.

The firm says many of the better situated issues and groups continue to reflect strong fundamentals, as evidenced by the increasing number of issues making new highs. Bache views the market's recent sidewise action as a normal pattern following the advance to new highs.

PROS CAUTIOUS

Walter Mintz of Shearson, Hammill and Co. says that despite the favorable intermediate term prospects and notwithstanding the market's good performance, there is considerable evidence that professional investors are still quite cautious.

BACK DOOR PLAN

Edward F. Underwood of Mitchum, Jones and Templeton says the unamity of bullish opinion and the complacency of most forecasters is all the more reason to predicate any investment operations in a clear cut tactical plan of swift and orderly withdrawal.

Bank Syndicate Buys Bond Issue

SAN FRANCISCO—A Bank of America underwriting syndicate has purchased the $1,850,000 bond issue of the Gavilan Joint Junior College District, Santa Clara and San Benito counties.

The Bank of America group paid a premium of $689 for a combination of 5, 3, 3¼ and 1/20th of 1 per cent bonds. The dollar price was 100.037. Net interest cost to the district was 3.1922 per cent.

The bonds were reoffered to investors to yield from 2.15 per cent to 3.30 per cent, according to maturity July 1, 1965-88. Bonds maturing in 1989 were not reoffered.

Metromedia Acquires Bay Advertising Firm

SAN FRANCISCO — Metromedia, Inc., a coast to coast diversified communications company, has acquired Fielder, Sorenson and Davis, Bay Area transit advertising firm operating in San Francisco, Oakland, San Jose and Sacramento.

The joint announcement was made by John W. Kluge, president and chairman of the board of Metromedia, Inc., and E. B. Sorensen, president of Fielder, Sorenson and Davis. The cash consideration for the purchase was not disclosed.

Aluminum Cost Rises

OAKLAND — Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp. is increasing prices of soft alloy extrusions two cents per pound and hard alloy extrusions one-half cent per pound above current prevailing market prices. The increases, effective on orders placed on or after July 1 and on shipments made on or after Aug. 1, are similar to those announced by other producers.

Bank Earnings Gain

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bank of America has reported that net operating earnings for the first half of 1964 increased to $46,415,915, or $1.63 a share. For the same period in 1963 earnings were $1.49.

WIN OVER PIRATES WAS CLOSE SHAVE FOR JUAN

San Francisco's Juan Marichal, who had sole claim for at least a few hours yesterday to the title of "Winningest pitcher in the major leagues," has an unusual formula for success.

"I shave the night after I pitch—and not again until I pitch again," explains the Dominican dandy.

Whatever that has to do with his pitching success, he doesn't explain, but he captured his 11th triumph against three losses yesterday as he set down the Pittsburgh Pirates, 2-1.

"I'm not superstitious," Marichal claims, in reference to his shaving habits, "Maybe I'm just lazy. Oh, if I have to go to a movie or something, I'll shave between pitching assignments. But mostly I don't."

Speed Champ 'Fireball' Roberts Dies

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Famed stock car driver Glenn "Fireball" Roberts died today from complications of critical burns he received in a three-car crash during the World 600-mile race here on May 24.

A spokesman at Charlotte Memorial Hospital said the 33-year-old driver from Daytona Beach, Fla., died at 7:15 a.m. Doctors listed the cause of death as pneumonia and septicemia — blood poisoning —secondary to burns.

At Roberts' bedside when death came were his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Roberts Sr., his brother, Tommy Roberts, and his 13-year-old daughter, Pamela Jane, all of Daytona Beach. Roberts was divorced.

Roberts, biggest career money winner in the history of the National Assn. for Stock Car Auto Racing, had been a patient at the hospital since the fiery crash six weeks ago.

His condition had improved until Tuesday, when he developed pneumonia and the blood infection. He lapsed into a coma early yesterday and doctors performed a tracheotomy to aid his breathing. He ran a high fever and received oxygen often. Doctors said he never came out of the coma although he appeared to rally late last night.

The three-car wreck occurred on the seventh lap of the World 600 and also involved the Fords of Ned Jarrett of Camden, S.C., and Robert "Junior" Johnson of Ronda, N.C. Jarrett and Johnson escaped with minor injuries.

Jarrett assisted Roberts from his flaming Ford, which had landed on its top. Roberts survived the crash perhaps because he was able to hold his breath and not inhale the flames.

He lay near death for three or four days after the crash, with burns over 75 per cent of his body, then began to make steady progress and was moved from the hospital's intensive care unit to a private room. He soon regained the use of his arms and legs.

Last week, doctors removed dead tissue from the most severely burned portions of his body and hoped to begin grafting skin from his abdomen next week.

Roberts, who got his Fireball nickname as a sandlot baseball pitcher in Apopka, Fla., won 32 late model races and an estimated $400,000 in Nascar earnings during his 15 years of racing. NASCAR records show his best year was 1963, with $67,320 in winnings.

Roberts began racing modified cars in 1948 before he entered the University of Florida to study mechanical engineering. He left the university after 3½ years to race fulltime.

Roberts survived a number of serious wrecks during an exciting career in which he established himself as a hard-charging driver.

His car was totally demolished during the 1961 Charlotte 400 but he escaped with only scratches and bruises.

The tip of his spine was broken in a spectacular rolling crash at Bristol, Tenn., last summer. Five weeks later, he won the Southern 500 at a record speed, after wrecking his Ford in qualifying.

Roberts was the second NASCAR star to die this year. Joe Weatherly, grand national champion in 1962 and 1963, was killed during a race at Riverside, Calif., in January.

UNIQUE STYLE — San Francisco Giants pitcher Juan Marichal lunges from the pitching slab in his characteristic style during the ninth inning of yesterday's game against the Pittsburgh Pirates at Candlestick Park. Juan hurled the Giants to a 2-1 victory to become the first major league pitcher to win 11 games this year. Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers followed Marichal's feat later in the day when he won his 11th contest, a 3-2 triumph over the second-place Philadelphia Phils. (AP Wirephoto)

EX-49ER AIDE MARK DUNCAN GET NFL JOB

NEW YORK (AP) — Mark Duncan, a former defensive coach with the San Francisco 49ers from 1955 to 1962, was named supervisor of officials of the National Football League today by Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

He replaced Joe Kuharich, who resigned in February to become coach of the Philadelphia Eagles.

Billie Jean Beaten At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Australia's Margaret Smith, the defending champion, and Maria Bueno of Brazil, the 1959 and 1960 winner, advanced to the women's singles final of the Wimbledon tennis championships today.

Miss Smith, seeking to make a clean sweep of the world's major women's titles, eliminated the last American player, Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., 6-3, 6-4.

Miss Bueno rallied from a weak start and defeated Lesley Turner of Australia 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Miss Smith, winner of three national titles so far this year, had little trouble against Miss Moffitt, although she fell behind at 1-3 in the second set before turning on the power.

Miss Bueno served badly in the first set, falling behind 1-5 at one stage. Then she tightened her game, broke Miss Turner's service in the 10th game of the second set and went on to win.

VOLLEYING ERRORS

Miss Moffitt, rated America's top player since Darlene Hard turned professional earlier this year, made some vollying errors that cost her a service break in the fourth game of the first set. One more service break was the deciding factor in the second set.

Miss Smith already has won the Australian, Italian and French women's titles this year. She hopes to retain the Wimbleton crown and then regain the American title she won in 1962 but lost to Brazil's Maria Bueno last year.

Miss Moffitt was the last surviving American in the Wimbledon singles competition. Chuck McKinley of San Antonia, Tex., the defending men's champion, was eliminated yesterday by Fred Stolle of Australia, 4-6, 10-8, 9-7, 6-4.

Pitching Staff Continues To Carry Load For Giants

Sparkling pitching continues to keep the San Francisco Giants on top of the National League.

Juan Marichal turned in the latest gem when he stopped Pittsburgh 2-1 yesterday with the only run against him of the unearned variety, as the stolid righthander became the first to win 11 games this season.

Marichal lowered his earned-run-average to 2.38 for 143⅔ innings pitched. Relievers Billy Pierce and Gaylord Perry are at 1.48 and 1.65.

Ron Herbel has 2.01, Bob Shaw 2.37, Hendley 2.88 and Bob Bolin 2.91. Jack Sanford has 3.34.

The Giants need that type of stingy pitching. Seven of their last nine games have been decided by one run, and they have won five of those seven. Over the season, they've won 17 games by one run and lost 10.

Willie Mays powered his 23rd home run when he connected on a Bob Veale pitch in yesterday's first inning. After that all Willie got was three walks, one intentional.

Del Crandall and Jose Pagan slammed back-to-back doubles in the second frame for the other run.

Pittsburgh threatened a big rally in the fifth until Marichal's screw ball turned the tide. With the bases loaded, Roberto Clemento bounced a chopper for a single, scoring one run. Still only one was out but both Willie Stargell and Jerry Lynch went down swinging on the screwball.

There wasn't another serious threat.

Marichal, just named to the All-Star team, said he had good stuff but for some unknown reason didn't use his fast ball very much.

"I was depending mainly on the slider and the screwball," he said. "I really don't know why."

Veale, who had beaten the Giants twice, was forced to leave after four innings when a blister on the middle finger of his pitching hand began bleeding. Still he took the loss to put him at 7-6 with Marichal now 11-3.

BETTING COUP IS NOTHING NEW

NEW YORK (AP) — Could the betting coup that shook the British bookies be pulled off on this side of the water?

Yes. It already has been—32 years ago. But it wouldn't work here today.

Horse players on this side of the Atlantic got to talking about the nifty scheme of the British syndicate, whose members plunked money down on the outsiders in a dog race Tuesday, pushed up the price on the logical winners at the track and then bet heavily on those dogs with the legal bookies away from the track.

The result was a payoff of $2,765 for 28 cents. The London books were hit for some $28 million—and refused to pay pending an investigation.

The whole thing sent memories here back to a gambler named Baron Long, who owned part of the Aqua Caliente track in Mexico just across the border from San Diego.

It was 1932, and in those days the big play at the Mexican track came from the Los Angeles crowd, who arrived in a special train just after the first race.

That gave Baron Long and friends their chance, since betting on the first race always was light.

The Baron had two horses in the race, and he and friends poured the money through the windows on the entry. That drove the price down, and sent the price on the logical favorite, Linden Tree, from 7-10 to 20-1.

At bookmakers throughout the United States, the money poured in on Linden Tree.

Linden Tree won, and the screams from the bookies were loud and clear when the price was revealed. Racing papers did not print the price in some places. Some bookies paid, some didn't.

The scheme wouldn't have a chance, today, for two reasons:

1. Bookies will not take bets at minor tracks and it would take too much money to manipulate the odds seriously at a big track.

2. Big books have a "comeback money" plan. When they are overloaded on a horse, they have agents who take the money back to the track and put it through the parimutuel machines to help bring the odds down.

The British bookies tried that, too, but the track phones were busy. Bookies, illegal in the United States, don't use track phones in this country.

Giants Hurdled Psychological Block Against Surprising Bucs

Jack Hanley

June, supposedly the swoon month of the Giants, was their boom month. They closed June with a 19-11 record. A year ago in June they began to fade from the 1963 race with a 14-15 record, seven of those losses coming in a row to the Cubs and Colts.

Now, with July just getting under way, the Giants are maintaining their momentum. By beating the Pirates yesterday, they won their 11th game in the last 13. The win over the Pirates was an important one because Pittsburgh came into Candlestick 5-2 over the Giants, the only team to hold a season edge on the league leaders.

To hurdle a possible psychological block that the Pirates had the Giants pegged, Alvin Dark sent his ace, Juan Marichal, after them. It was the first time this season that the Dominican Dandy faced the Pirates and he subdued them with screwballs and sliders.

THE PIRATES were knocked 6½ games off the pace by the defeat and it hurt.

That the Pirates have refused to submit to an early season kayo has surprised all of the spring dopesters. Nobody picked the Pirates to be a serious contender this year. In fact, most picks placed them sixth or seventh.

The comeback of Vern Law, while not dazzling, is one reason why Pittsburgh is among the front runners despite the present 6½ game deficit. Law is 6-6.

ROBERTO CLEMENTE'S hitting is another reason why the Pirates have made the spring crystal ball gazing look silly. Clemente is leading the National League at .349 and leads the club with 38 RBIs.

If the Pirates get a little more hitting help, they will be tough. Clemente can't do it alone. But thus far he has kept the Pirates in contention just as Willie Mays kept the Giants in contention during the early weeks of the season.

Braves To Move To Atlanta?

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Sporting News said today it has learned "from an unimpeachable source" that the Milwaukee Braves will move to Atlanta in 1965.

The copyrighted story by the baseball weekly's publisher, C. C. Johnson Spink, said no formal meeting of the National League has been held but the Braves are sure the nine other league clubs will approve the move.

Atlanta is building an $18 million stadium.

STORY DENIED

At Milwaukee, John McHale, Braves president, said, "We consider this just another one of the many, many stories that have been written about the subject in the past year. We're going to stay in Milwaukee as long as we're welcome.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Reserve center Frank Morze of the Cleveland Browns announced today he is retiring from professional football to devote full time to business interests in San Francisco.

Morze was acquired by the Browns as a free agent late in the 1962 National Football League season after recovering from knee surgrey performed during the San Francisco 49ers' training camp period. He had been with the 49ers since 1957.

The FISHIN' FOOL

While Waiting For Hunting Season Why Not Try Clam, Abalone Picking

STEVENS

While waiting for the hunting seasons to open in California, why not go fishing or clam or abalone picking? Just for example, if you missed out on the recent swell minus tides. but wish another shot at, say, abalone plucking, take a look at your tide tables.

You will note that Tuesday, July 7, and continuing through Sunday, July 12, all low tides are ideal; all less than one foot minus and one of them, Wednesday, July 8, the tide drops to 1.5 minus, followed by two mornings when we will have 1.7 beauties. Oh yes, they fall fairly early, but that just makes it that much better.

YOU CAN get back home in time for a late breakfast— even in time to go to work if you are the boss. Take Thursday, July 9, for example. The tide will be at ebb at 6:27 a.m. (at Lime Point—consult the table of tide differences in the front of your tide book). You should be on the shore ready to breast the swells one hour before the ebb, then follow the receding water until the tide changes and starts coming in.

If you work hard and have average luck, you should have your legal limits of the most tasty bit of sea food there is. If you are a newcomer to the game, just remember that the rocks are slippery, the water cold and the abalones well hidden under and on the sides of submerged rocks.

BE PREPARED to get wet to above your waist (You've gotta' explore the rocks with your hand until you feel the shell of an abalone move slightly under your probing fingers. It's no "sissy" sport, abalone hunting, and the rewards are great. You will thrill to your fingertips at your first abalone. Like a miner when his pick unearths a large nugget of gold, or a collector of rare books when he locates a first edition.

If you have time and the inclination, you might try for a mess of cockles or giant clams if you happen to pick Dillon's Beach on one of those minus-tide days.

SO, WHAT to do in the meantime — How about trying for striped bass in the upper San Pablo Bay? Trolling is apparently back again in full force after a few days of rough water and dismal weather. Lots of nice bass just waiting for you on the Contra Costa side of the Bay, or drift fishing in the Alcatraz - Racoon Strait sector.

The ocean is due to flatten out a bit and that will almost guarantee success for salmon trolling. The boys have been working the Farralones, but I understand many of them will again troll the waters southwest of the Lightship.

Speedboat Races Slated In Oakland

Bill Bastida of San Rafael and Robert Brisebois of Novato will be among the entrants in the Fourth of July inboard speedboat races at Lake Merritt in Oakland, starting at 11 a.m.

Sponsored by the City of Oakland, the race will be put on by the California Speedboat Assn. of Oakland under the sanction of the American Power Boat Assn.

Bastida will be driving in the 48 cubic-inch hydroplane class and Brisebois will be in the 280 cubic-inch hydroplane class.

Marichal-Koufax Duel Highlights N.L.

Grandpa can stop turning back the clock to the good old days of Hubbell and Dean and Newhouser and Feller because Juan Marichal and Sandy Koufax may be staging the best two-man pitching duel yet.

Marichal and Koufax, both 25-game winners last season, became the first two major league pitchers to achieve 11 victories this year when they recorded triumphs yesterday.

Koufax, the 28-year-old Dodger dandy, was suffering from a stiff neck and sore elbow last night and rated as a doubtful starter against the Phillies until he warmed up before the game. But the sturdy lefthander knew Marichal already had carded his 11th victory in a 2-1 afternoon decision for the Giants over the Pirates.

So Koufax, not to be outdone, took to the mound despite his aches and hurled his seventh straight victory—3-2 over Phils—and struck out 10 men, extending his all-time record for 10-or-more strike outs in a game to 56.

PHILLIES DROP

Koufax (11-4) allowed only five hits in dropping the Phillies 1½ games behind the league-leading Giants. It marked his eighth consecutive victory against the Phillies dating back to 1961.

Marichal (11-3) was touched for eight hits and had base runners on in all but two innings. However, he survived with clutch pitching and the aid of Willie Mays' 23rd home run in the first and back-to-back doubles by Del Crandall and Jose Pagan in the second inning. Bob Veale (7-6) was the loser.

The Dodgers spotted the Phillies a 2-0 lead on John Callison's 11th homer with Cookie Rojas on base in the fourth, then rallied for a single run in the fifth and two in the sixth. Ron Fairly singled home what proved to be the winning run off loser Dennis Bennett (8-5).

BRAVES CRUSHED

The Cardinals crushed the Braves 6-1, the Reds edged the Cubs 6-5 in 10 innings and the Mets outslugged the Colts 8-6 in other National League results.

Julian Javier poked his ninth home run of the season—equalling his output of last year—and drove

WHITEMARSH OPEN

Par Slaughtered In Tuneup Round

WHITEMARSH, Pa. (AP)—If practice rounds were an indication of things to come, the touring golf pros headed by U.S. Open champ Ken Venturi, Masters winner Arnold Palmer and PGA king Jack Nicklaus are going to slaughter par in the $125,000 Whitemarsh Open Golf Tournament starting today.

To a man, the pros agreed that the sun-baked, 6,670-yard par 36-36—72 Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course played shorter and easier than ever. The rough posed no problem and the greens held firm was the concensus after yesterday's pro-amateur funfest.

Palmer, who regained the lead in the PGA money list with $12,000 earned for second in last week's Cleveland tourney, said he was amazed at how easy the course played.

"It played faster than I've ever seen it, almost unbelievable," Palmer said after posting a 34-34—68. "I could have shot a 29 on the back nine if I didn't miss three little putts and with a little luck elsewhere," he added.

The 34-year-old Palmer predicted a score of 270 to 275 for the 72 holes would win the tournament he needed a 281 to capture last year. The weather forecast for continued temperatures in the 90s and little likelihood of rain seemed to bear him out.

Palmer, whose $61,651 for 1964 is little more than $1,000 ahead of runner-up Tony Lema, admitted he still was having trouble with his new putter. He discarded the one he had been using for the past eight years after poor putting cost him a chance to win the U.S. Open at Washington two weeks ago.

"There is a little yet to be desired," Palmer said of his putter. "You have to get a feeling of confidence in it, more than anything else. That takes a little time."

POINT TO PROVE

Venturi shot a 69 in the pro-am and expressed satisfaction with his game. The Open champion feels he has a point to prove in winning the $24,000 Whitemarsh first prize. The native of San Francisco failed to qualify last week for the final 36 holes at Cleveland after his spectacular win in the Open. He's anxious to show that his Open triumph wasn't just one of those things.

In all, 24 of the pros busted par yesterday, with two-time U.S. Open champion Julius Boros carding six birdies for a six-under par 66. Nicklaus scored a 68 as did Dave Marr and Don Fairfield, while Jack Cupit, Juan "Chi Chi" Rodriguez, Mike Souchak, Tommy Bolt and Lionel Hebert joined Venturi at 69. There were seven at 70 and three at 71.

Moffat, Klyce Advance In Hardcourt Tennis

Two Marin County youngsters advanced to the fourth round singles in the National Junior Tennis Championships yesterday at the Peninsula Tennis Club in Burlingame.

Andy Moffat of Mill Valley defeated Chris Couture of Danville, 6-3, 7-5 in the boys 12 and under division and Bobby Klyce of San Rafael defeated Phillip Angelides of Sacramento, 6-2, 6-2 in the boys 14 group.

Klyce, also competing in the boys 12 and under group in which he qualifies, lost that match to Brad Thomas of Sacramento, 6-1, 6-2.

Darby Auerbach of Belvedere lost her match in the girls 12 and under class to Whitney Grant of Beverly Hills, 6-1, 6-3.

In doubles competition, Michael Machette of Belvedere teamed with Ron Cornell of Berkeley to win a match in the boys 14 division, and Karen Gut of San Rafael also won in doubles play in the girls 12 class.

Wimbledon To Stay Amateur; No Chance For 'Open' Status

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The Wimbledon tennis tournament —where the girls took over the spotlight today—is going to stay amateur. And most of the star players here say they aren't sorry.

In fact, Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, Tex., beaten in his bid to retain his men's singles title, said he probably wouldn't even enter the tournament if it was open to the pros.

Britain will try again next week at the meeting of the International Lawn Tennis Federation at Vienna to get permission to run an open tournament—pros and amateurs in the same field.

But the move seems doomed to failure because both the United States and Australia have said they oppose it.

Two stars eliminated from the men's singles in yesterday's semifinals made it clear they agree with the stand. McKinley, beaten by Fred Stolle of Australia 4-6, 10-8, 9-7, 6-4, said Wimbledon is thriving as an amateur tournament and would gain nothing by admitting the pros.

GERMAN BEATEN

Wilhelm Bungert of Germany, beaten 6-3, 15-13, 6-0 by top-seeded Roy Emerson of Australia, said he wouldn't come to Wimbledon if it was open.

McKinley told a news conference, "some 20,000 more people have watched the tournament this year than last year, and attendance has been going up at Forest Hills, too." He said the pros need open tournament because they aren't drawing.

McKinley, who helped bring the Davis Cup back to the United States last year, said he didn't expect to turn pro.

Bungert said he wouldn't enter, either, if the tournament were open.

"If I could play against the pros over a long period it would improve my game," he said, "but I would stand no chance at all against them in one tournament. Many other players feel the same way."

Emerson, 28, who is making his 11th bid for the Wimbleton tournament, said "I'm happy with the tournament the way it is."

If It's Peace And Quiet You Want, Don't Camp Next To Girl Scouts

Why do you go camping? Seeking peace and quiet? If so, here's a for-free tip: Never, NEVER, camp close to a Girl Scout's camp.

This has nothing whatever to do with the culture of Girl Scouting. The order is high-principled and jam-packed with probity. Girl Scouts also have a physical fitness program that is comparable in every way to that of the U. S. Marines. This last statement we know to be a fact. Last week, in the area of Lake Almanor, we camped next to them. Alack and alas!

But they liked our camp site better than their own. This was because our back acre had some marvelous, exciting, mammoth boulders. Granite-grey, high and unbelievably slick, we were sure no person had ever scaled them to the top. Or ever could.

It's fairly easy to over-estimate a chaperon, but don't underestimate a Girl Scout. Before our horrified eyes, these lively girls climbed like Rhesus monkeys, to the pinnacle. One-handed too. Most of them toted something along. A transistor radio, sack of hair curlers, popcorn, sweaters, and —you won't believe this—bottles of pop.

The Federal Park Ranger stood below looking up, bug-eyed and slackjawed. He thumbed through his manual, and apparently found nothing to cover the situation. And then he drove away, the coward.

Every evening this took place. Also sometimes in the mornings. They looked down at us pleasantly and chatted like magpies. We cooked, ate and fidgeted, expecting any minute one of them would catapult into our oatmeal.

They shrieked with laughter and sang Girl Scout ditties, America the Beautiful, Three Blind Mice . . . and chanted with fidelity, "Yeah, Yeah, yeah . . . ." They actually had hair-set lotion up there, and they set each other's hair on jumbo, jumbo rollers. Their discussions included boys in general, boys in particular, chaperons, Sigmund Freud—and the Beatles.

All wild life finally left the area. The blue jays, deer and finally the squirrels. And when squirrels leave, by golly, you know living conditions are seriously deteriorating.

A pound of peanuts purchased for the squirrels we finally gave to the Girl Scouts. Our altruism was rewarded by a downdraft of air that whipped peanut husks into our mulligan stew.

In the evening and in the morning, we witnessed what might be termed long-distance chaperoning. Smiling, yet embarrassed, the counselors pleaded and cajoled, "Time for bed girls . . . ." Or. "The mail's in, don't you want to read it?" Then desperately, "Do you want your folks to hear about this?"

And the Girl Scouts always minded and came down. Although it took a long, long time, because, as one explained to a chaperon's upturned face, "You don't want us to get hurt, do you . . . ?"

An experienced mountain climber, coming down, would surely have used a rope, gripshoes, knee pads and any other tricks-of-his-trade. But they came down in brief shorts, fingernails intact, knees unskinned. And with empty pop bottles under their arms.

Their little 2-by-3-inch radio blared with full-toned hi-fidelity and they marched off chanting, "Yeah, yeah, yeah . . . ."

We used to scout too. Uniforms then were below the knees, (skirts); and stockings above the knees. We spoke to our counselors circumspectly, "Oh, yes mam. . . . No, mam . . ." We got our kicks bird watching and toasting marshmallows.

Like we're always telling ourselves. Doggone it, we were born too soon.

in four runs to provide Curt Simmons (9-6) with all the support he needed to stop the Braves. Simmons scattered seven hits to best loser Hank Fischer (6-5).

Pete Rose hammered his second home run of the season with two out in the 10th inning to give the Reds their come-back victory. Cincinnati had trailed by four runs going into the ninth inning when they capitalized on two errors to start a four-run uprising, climaxed by Deron Johnson's two-run triple.

Dick Ellsworth (10-7) of the Cubs, the loser, had been given a lead on two home runs by Ron Santo and one by Billy Williams.

The Mets exploded for 16 hits against four Houston pitchers, including nine off Dick Farrell, who was making his fourth bid for victory No. 11. Rookies John Stephenson and Larry Elliott, and Ed Kranepool each contributed three hits to the Mets attack. Reliever Bill Wakefield (2-2) was the winner. Walt Bond slugged his 12th and 13th homers for the losers. Reliever Claude Raymond (3-2) absorbed the defeat.

NATIONAL VS. AMERICAN

All-Star Teams Completed

NEW YORK (AP)—Perfect game pitcher Jim Bunning of the Phillies and 20-game winning candidate Camilo Pascual of the Minnesota Twins are the early choices to oppose each other in the major league All-Star game at Shea Stadium next Tuesday.

The two star right-handers were among the 17 pitchers selected by rival All-Star Managers Walter Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox. Alston picked seven pitchers, Lopez eight.

Alston selected four right-handers and three left-handers. The southpaws included Dodger Sandy Koufax, whose 10 victories include a no-hitter against Philadelphia; Dick Ellsworth, who has won 10 games for the Chicago Cubs and Chris Short of the Phillies, who owns a 6-4 record.

JUAN MARICHAL

The right-handers, besides Bunning, include the Dodgers' Don Drysdale (10-7), Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants (11-3), and still another 10-game winner, Dick Farrell of the Houston Colts.

Lopez picked four right-handers and four left-handers. In addition to Pascual, an eight-game winner, other right-handers were Dean Chance of Los Angeles, Dick Radatz of Boston and John Wyatt of Kansas City. Radatz and Wyatt are bullpen specialists who own 11 victories and 28 saves between them.

Whitey Ford, dean of the New York Yankee pitching staff, headed the southpaws. The left-handed list included Jack Kralick of Cleveland and Gary Peters and Juan Pizarro of Lopez' Chicago White Sox. Ford has won his last 10 decisions after an opening day loss. Pizarro has won 10, Kralick eight and Peters seven.

Although Koufax and Ford rate among the most glamorous names in baseball, the starting choices are likely to be right-handers because of the preponderance of right-handed hitters in the starting line-up of both squads.

Pascual has appeared in two previous All-Star games, permitting four hits in six innings. He lost his only decision. Bunning, acquired by the Phils from Detroit last winter, has pitched in five All-Star games, all with the American League.

He has pitched 14 innings, given up just four hits, and has a 1.29 earned run average against the National League.

Air Base Dental Chief Retires After 27 Years

Col. Walter J. Reuter, chief of dental services at Hamilton Air Force Base, retired yesterday after 27 years of active military service.

A native of Green Isle, Minn., Colonel Reuter was commissioned when he received his doctor of dental surgery degree at University of Minnesota in 1934.

He served in the European theater as a dental surgeon with the Eighth Air Force during World War II.

Later he joined the staff of the Air Force surgeon general in Washington, D.C. He was reassigned to Europe in 1952 as dental surgeon for United States Air Forces in Europe. He was assigned as dental surgeon for Pacific Air Forces in Hawaii in 1958. In 1960, he was returned to Washington, and transferred to Hamilton in July, 1963.

He has been awarded the Air Force Commendation Medal with one oak-leaf cluster, World War II Victory Medal, Army of Occupation Medal for Germany, Bronze Star, and several campaign medals.

Colonel Reuter and his wife, the former Jean Walker of Aberdeen, Scotland, have three children, Robert, 18, Janet, 15, and Keith, 10. They live in Napa.

Recreation Offering

A "drop-in" recreation program for men and women 18 years and older is held Wednesdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the San Rafael Recreation Center, 37 Union Street. Table tennis, chess and checkers are available.

Novato Offers Recreation Special Dates

Several special summer recreation activities have been scheduled by the Novato Parks and Recreation Department, according to Edmund Mahaney, director.

These include a trip to the zoo in San Francisco, special arts and crafts instruction and a hootenanny.

Signups for the zoo trip will be made at 5 p.m. Monday. These can be made at any school playground, or the City Hall, Mahaney said.

Linda Anderson is offering special arts and crafts instruction. The Teen Club will hold a hootenanny at its dance Saturday night at the high school cafeteria. Other special events planned for the club members include a skating party, ping pong tournament, barn dance, hayride, watermelon feed, masquerade ball and volleyball tournament.

Those interested in swimming instruction may sign up at the pool. This is given in two-week periods, Mahaney said.

Swinging Skirt New For Fall

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Swing over to the swinging skirt for fall. It's the newest thing in suit fashions. To go with it, jackets which are seamed to bring them closer to the rib cage although not taut at the waistline.

As Arthur Jablow, one New York manufacturer, puts it, "suits with spare slenderness and easy grace make the chunky jacket seem obese . . . skirts move, in pleats, in deep fold fronts, in wrap-around ease."

Jablow referred to the "baton" shape to describe some of his suits and coats, designed by David Kidd, which were cut narrow at the top with double-breasted closings, tidy set-in sleeves and small collars.

Next week, the older New York Couture Group will stage its 43rd semi-annual "Press Week" for reporters. Clothes will start arriving in the stores in August.

Christian Mann, designer for Marquise, made pleats of all varieties in skirts—narrow and knife-like, or wide and paneled. Some of the box pleats were used at the front only on suit skirts, leaving the back slim and straight. Other pleats started low on the hipbone.

Harry Frechtel, another suit and coat specialist, talked of "figure conscious" suits, with a closer to the body fit. "Released hemlines," eased by pleats, showed throughout his collection.

NORMAN NORELL ran in some full skirted suits although most of the line was slim. The full ones either wore gored all the way around or had deep, inverted pleats falling from where jackets ended.

But not all is skirt swing. Bud Kilpatrick, California designer who brought his collection to New York for previewing, introduced back swing to suit jackets. Skirts are narrow on these suits, but the jackets are swashbuckling double-tiers of fabric. One such is done in an outsize pattern of black and white herringbone.

Gustave Tassell — Suits came with narrow collars and set-in sleeves, with jackets both single and double-breasted. The shape was always a fitted, concave front and straight back. For the girl on the go, there were sleeveless, narrow wool dresses in black suitable for day and later day. Over these, Tassell showed bright wool coats in yellow and plum tones.

George Stravropoulos — This Grecian-born designer with his firm now in New York showed skinny topped dresses in sheer black and white checked wools with skirts straight in back, but flared in front with unpressed pleats. Like a number of other designers, he's put the Chanel bow on collars instead of in the hair.

A DOUBLE-DECKER back is a feature of this giant plaid wool suit designed by Bud Kilpatrick. The suit attracted press notice yesterday at a weeklong series of fall and winter style previews arranged by a group of American designers. (AP Wirephoto)

AVENUE MONTAIGNE is the name designer Gaston Berthelot of New York's Christian Dior House gave this black and white checkered wool dress for fall. It's styled with low belt and trimmed in black braid, and has a button-down tab ascot collar and loose jacket which reverses to white. (AP Wirephoto)

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP)—After Rudi Gernreich's remarks favoring the birthday suit for swimming, decrying Victorian prudishness, predicting a more honest morality for the new generation and admitting weariness over the whole stir created by his topless bathing suit, everyone thought his models would bare nearly all.

INSTEAD THEY emerged as covered up as Egyptian mummies — helmeted, veiled, wrapped, stockinged and booted with only a few nude noses and fingertips.

The real shock treatment, discovered fashion reporters here to preview the American designers series of fall styles, are the broad stripes combined with black stockings and shoes, the electric polka dots on dark backgrounds or the stark white makeup on the models.

BUT RUDI styles immodest? Well-meaning old ladies who have written him in protest to the 1,000 topless bathing suits currently in circulation should see his girls in their black knee bloomers, black stockings, or—shades of the Civil War pantaloons—knee pants under dresses.

Sure, the dresses are short, a few just managed to cover the thighs. But what grandmother could complain with all that leg covering plus tight suede zippered boots up to the knees?

THE YASHMAK HAT—a down-over-the-mouth helmet with a slit in it to avoid the need for a guide dog—is what Rudi calls his hat for the non-smoker. With dressier dresses, his models hide under floppy veils.

LEST ANYONE conclude that he has reverted to an old-fashioned fuddy-duddy, Rudi sent one brave model onto the runway in that now famous bra evening dress designed to cover the cleavage. It lets the sides fall where they may.

"BUT WHERS IS the topless bathing suit?" asked the photographers with cameras aimed.

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Luci Baines Johnson, who has given the White House a swingy touch of teen-age bounce, celebrated her 17th birthday today—a bit of a rebel and a bit of a grown up young lady.

The president's younger daughter has brought to the executive mansion all of the sometimes exasperating traits of a teen-ager and all of the more important facets that make parents dote lovingly.

"LUCI DOESN'T always bend with the wind," her mother, Lady Bird, remarked recently. But she quickly added that the dark-haired daughter has felt a deep sense of public obligation since entering the awesome life of the White House and has been conscious of being a model of American adolescent youth.

The President is proud of her and has publicly proclaimed her the kind of daughter every father wants to have. The portrait of Luci along with that of her elder sister Lynda hold prominent place on the chief executive's desk.

To the White House staff and her fellow seniors at National Cathedral School for Girls, Luci is a firm-minded individualist with a warm lovable nature and sometimes an explosive temper.

SHE PRIVATELY confides apprehension that the White House life may swallow up her personality. But she is more than willing to take the platform in public and speak without preparation like a political professional.

Luci describes herself as "impulsive."

"I'm a high strung person who likes to be happy," she reflects on her birthday.

And in almost the same breath, she speaks of her desire for privacy. Her current boy friend, Jack Olson, 18, of Maiden Rock, Wis., drops by nearly every evening to keep her company at the White House after his duties are finished as a Capitol Hill elevator operator. Their teen-age friends have made the solarium in the private living quarters a social center.

SHE CONFESSES herself not to be a "good student" but she is deeply religious and has a strong love for animals.

She is the best dancer of the family—and that goes for her father as well. With youthful exuberance, Luci has introduced to the sometimes stuffy White House whirl such teen-age steps as the Hully Gully and the Surf.

Despite the pressures she feels as a president's daughter, Luci has retained a sense of humor about herself and a sense of sympathetic consideration for others.

SHE EVEN POKES fun over her decision to change the spelling of her name from Lucy with a Y to Luci with an I.

Last Easter, she presented a chocolate bunny to White House Press assistant Willie K. Taylor. The card read "From the Easter bunni."

The consideration come through in the matter of pen pal mail from hundreds of teen-age girls throughout the country.

She makes it a point to read all of the letters and to dictate answers.

WORLD FIRST LADIES

Dona Carmen Exerts A Strong Influence On Spanish Affairs

Fourth in a series of seven articles on world women wed to power — first ladies of other countries who are seldom seen or read about by Americans or their own people.

By HAROLD K. MILKS

MADRID (AP) — Dona Carmen Polo de Franco, 64, Spain's First Lady, exercises a tremendous but seldom seen influence on affairs of state. She exercises still more on her family itself.

"In Spain most people think the letter 'F' stands for Franco," said a close friend of the tall, slim Spanish woman who rules the First Family's household as inflexibly as Gen. Francisco Franco controls the government.

"BUT FOR DONA CARMEN the 'F' stands for Family, and it is largely her influence which has made the Franco family, including daughter, son-in-law, and six grandchildren the close-knit unit it is today."

Now in his 72nd year, and his 26th year as head of the Spanish regime, sturdy General Franco leans heavily on his Asturias-born wife for support both in personal and state matters.

THE TALL SPANISH woman, usually clad in black, shows the same determination today as she did more than 40 years ago when she rejected her father's warning not to marry a soldier "because at the first sound of a shot he will be off, leaving you alone."

Dona Carmen, born in the Asturias capital of Oviedo on July 9, 1900, was the oldest of four children of a wealthy businessman. She was educated by the Salesian nuns and to this day, friends say, it's hard to tell whether she loves more her family or her church, she is so intensely devoted to both.

The late King Alfonso XIII of Spain sent a representative to the marriage of Dona Carmen and the then Lieutenant-Colonel Franco in Oviedo's San Juan Church Oct. 22, 1923. Heeding her father's warning, she went with her new husband the next day when he left for Africa to join his Moroccan Legion unit fighting the Riffs. She has seldom been separated from him since.

CABINET MINISTERS know it pays to be on friendly terms with Dona Carmen. Her influence with General Franco is strong, especially in matters of personalities, and those who know the couple intimately say the Caudillo of Spain has great faith in his wife's recommendations.

BUT IT IS in their Pardo Palace home — or their summer homes in northern Spain — where the influence of the Spanish First Lady is felt most. There she makes sure General Franco gets the favorite foods he needs, because he eats and drinks little. And that he does not overdo in his favorite hobbies of shooting and fishing.

VISITORS WITH appeals for charity always encounter in Dona Carmen a willing listener and usually a willing contributor. Often she herself joins in a worthwhile charity movement, giving lavishly of her time and efforts to promote it.

American women in Madrid know the Spanish First Lady well because of her interest in charity affairs of the American Women's club, and her participation at least once a year in their meetings.

DEEPLY RELIGIOUS, as is General Franco, the First Lady attends mass every day at the private chapel in El Pardo Palace, sometimes with General Franco, sometimes alone. When they travel, General and Mrs. Franco invariably seek out a church for a religious service on arrival at their destination.

"They have much to give sincere thanks for, and they never fail to give them," said an aide.

AT HOME IN PARDO PALACE Dona Carmen lunches daily with the Caudillo, sometimes sitting down as late as 4 p.m. because of his attention to the affairs of state. Frequently there are motion pictures in the evening in a private studio in the palace. Occasionally Dona Carmen has wives of cabinet ministers or close friends in for tea and on rare occasions for bridge.

BUT LET A CHARITY DRIVE come up and the Spanish First Lady is in the forefront of the campaign.

There is but one thing that takes priority over affairs of state. That is frequent visits with her daughter, the Marquisa of Villaverde, and the latter's six children.

"Dona Carmen and the General have always regretted they had but one child," says a close friend. "Now God has given them six fine grandchildren, and they are making the most of them."

FRANCO, AN AVID and skilled hunter, has taught his grandchildren to shoot as he taught his daughter years ago. The eldest grandson has been formally christened Francisco Franco after his grandfather — presumably to carry on the name.

Though many people say Dona Carmen looks like a Spanish noblewoman, there is no noble blood in her direct line. But her daughter married a nobleman, the Marquis of Villaverde.

SAN FRANCISCO will be the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clements, who were married Sunday at the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour in Mill Valley. The bride is the former Julia Dillingham, one of the 1963 Marin Ball debutantes. In the fall Julia will continue her studies at San Francisco State College. Harold is with the E. F. Clements Co.

Peace Corps' Role Reviewed

Two teachers who spent two years with the Peace Corps in Ghana will conclude a series of public talks on foreign affairs at College of Marin July 9 at 7:30 p. m.

The discussion by Carol Waymire and Dorothy Vellenga of "The Peace Corps in Africa" will be held in Olney Hall on the college's Kentfield campus.

Miss Waymire is a graduate of San Jose State College who taught for five years in Santa Rosa before joining the Peace Corps. She taught in a Ghanaian girls' secondary school at Kumasi, 180 miles inland from the Atlantic coast. Upon returning she entered UCLA graduate school.

Miss Vellenga was graduated from Monmouth College in Monmouth, Ill., and taught for two years at Foxcroft School in Virginia. She volunteered for the Peace Corps in 1961, serving at the West Africa Secondary School in Ghana's capital, Accra. She returned to enter graduate school at Columbia University.

Both women are instructors in the summer Peace Corps training project at University of California, where new volunteers are being prepared for overseas service.

Marin Youth Camp-Bound

Eighty-five Marin County youngsters will leave Friday for the fourth annual Salvation Army summer camp at Camp Redwood Glen, nine miles north of Santa Cruz.

The boys and girls, from families which could not afford to send them to other camps, will leave the Corte Madera Shopping Center at 9 a.m. aboard two buses.

Sponsored by the Salvation Army and the Marin County Welfare Depaprtment, the camp's cost has been defrayed by donations from private citizens.

Number of youngsters enrolled has nearly tripled from the 30 who went to the first camp in 1961, and more than doubled from last year's 40.

The camp, meanwhile, has had eight new cabins added in the past year. The cabins hold from six to 12 campers. Activities at Redwood Glen include swimming, archery, nature lore and beach trips to Santa Cruz.

Driver Bound Over

Michael Keeney Bradley, 20, Navy man from Alameda was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on a charge of felony drunk driving. He was arrested May 22 by Marin County sheriff's office after allegedly being involved in a traffic accident.

Lawmaker Warns Of Patriotic Peril

First District Rep. Donald H. Clausen (R-Crescent City) today seized the occasion of the July 4 holiday to denounce as "even more insidious, much more subtle and underhanded" than communism "the new fashion, sponsored by pseudo-intellectuals, to downgrade patriotism."

"The Communists may be crude and vulgar, but we know where we stand with them. They bang their shoes on the table and swear they will bury us," said Clausen.

"But the so-called intellectual-sophisticates spread their poison drop by drop, disguised in twisted intellectual phrases. They try to capture the minds of our young people, by debauching their natural instincts for hero-worship and love of country."

Clausen called on his constituents to recognize that freedom "is so priceless a commodity it can never be completely paid for. No nation can ever say, 'Today the last installment is paid and freedom is ours.' Freedom is bought on the perpetual payment plan. Every generation has its own installment to pay.

"If any generation — through inertia or carelessness or greed — falls behind on its payments, freedom can be lost."

Imputing a "doctrine of retreat" to the "intellectual-sophisticates," Clausen urged, "As we celebrate the Fourth of July this year, let us combat this doctrine by standing up and saying boldly, 'I am an American and I am proud of it.'"

Pet Health Costs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Man had better keep his best friend healthy because according to latest figures, veterinarians in the U. S. are charging up to $5 for an office call and $10 for a house call. Major surgery and convalescence, according to the reports, can run up to $2,000.

Marin Cats Get National Title Awards

Four Marin County American Shorthair cats have received the title of All-American from Cats Magazine.

The award, based on show competition, goes to the top scoring feline of its breed, sex and color in the country. The cats, who have also won All-Western honors from the magazine, are:

It was the third straight All-American award for Mrs. Kionig's cat, and the second in a row for the Layman's red male, which started its show career after being found in the Marin Humane Society shelter as a kitten.

But your mother wants a family room

Europe is full of castles. But the Independent-Journal is full of homes. To find exactly the kind of house that fits your tastes and your pocketbook, just look in the I-J's intriguing Classified columns. You'll see every size and style of home . . . at every price. Leading realtors and brokers offer their finest listings . . . and their service.

But we warn you: you'll get house fever! Hundreds of people do . . . ending up with the front door keys to happiness. Two, three, five-bedroom dream castles—they're all here in Classified.

BOX SCORE FOR REAL ESTATE BROKERS

Where do most home buyers come from? Latest research* shows that 63.4% of all home buyers in Marin County come from Marin County itself—only 20% from San Francisco. Marin then, is your top market for buyers. And the Independent-Journal your top advertising medium—covering more than 2 out of every 3 families in Marin. When you advertise outside Marin, you're paying for the "whole loaf" and getting only a slice. When you use the I-J, you're on target with the market—at vastly lower advertising cost.

Man's Attempt To Use Solar Energy Taking New Direction

By ARTHUR FLETCHER

UNITED NATIONS (WPS) — Man's attempts to use his cheapest raw material, solar energy, are taking new directions.

This does not have to do with the ultimate sophistication in tying solar energy to man's purposes in space vehicles. Rather, it concerns the powering of water heaters, air conditioning, water de-salinization, engines and other devices for human progress.

The new directions stem from a Conference on New Sources of Energy held in Rome by the UN back in 1961. That session dissipated theories of early and large-scale applications of solar energy by bringing together for the first time experts in the field. Their contributions demonstrated the scientific, engineering and economic hurdles still to be cleared.

The Economic and Social Council will take a new look at the field during its July session in Geneva, and a new UN report surveys for the Council developments since 1961 and resulting prospects.

Here are the new trends in research in the application of solar energy, also the practical, even commercial, developments in the area!

1. Solar water heating, probably the most advanced use of solar energy at the time of the 1961 Rome conference, is beginning to edge towards industrial application.

Japan reports that plastic, domestic solar water heaters have been manufactured and sold by the hundreds of thousands; the companies concerned are now exporting them. The Soviet Union has begun to make and distribute domestic units in southern parts of that country. Australian firms are also selling solar water heaters.

In the U. S. two southwestern universities—Texas A and M, and the University of Arizona—are investigating the use of large plastic-covered channels and tubs in which salt water is solar heated for subsequent demineralization by distillation or solvent extraction. Success in these experiments could lead to industrial use.

2. The largest use of solar energy in the near future, however, is likely to be for the production of fresh water.

Solar distillation is to be used on the southeast coast of Spain for community water supplies. In Florida, the Church World Service is cooperating with the Battelle Memorial Research Institute and the U. S. Office of Saline Water in testing a plastic-covered distillation plant for a large installation on an arid island in the Aegean.

Israel has demonstrated a solar pond which produces a hot bottom layer that can be adapted to produce a condensate or applied to a refrigeration process to desalinate sea water by the freezing method.

Cheap disposable solar stills of plastic film have been experimented with by the University of California, the University of Wisconsin and Battelle Memorial. They justify, says the UN report, the belief that emergency water supplies could be created by solar distillation.

3. In the application of solar energy to cooling equipment, the new emphasis in on air conditioning.

This stems from progress in research on solar collectors, particularly of the focusing type. There, as well as flat plate collector systems, have now been proven out at temperatures high enough for the operation of air conditioners.

Part of the progress has come from realistic appraisal of plastic materials. Plastic films, for example, have been shown to have a sufficient lifetime of outdoor exposure to be potentially useful in solar equipment. A butyl rubber sheet material is now available in sizes large enough to line ponds, stills and evaporation basins, all of which figure in the building up of usable heat from the sun. A chemical foam which can cover such basins and flat plate collectors is another new potential for solar energy development.

4. Improvement in collector systems has also pointed the way to the development of solar-powered engines.

Ex-Mental Patients Work Being Sought

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI) — A scientific pitch is being made for full employment opportunities for persons recovering from mental illness.

These persons are gravely handicapped in their efforts to rehabilitate themselves by the false image the public holds of the mental patient, said the pitchmaker.

He is Dr. John J. Brennan who has had years of experience in easing men and women from mental hospitals back into full membership in society.

His position was that psychiatry and psychology have made notable progress in treating mental illnesses, but the rehabilitation of the victims has not progressed because the public deserves itself.

"The ability of tranquilizing medicines to control the symptoms and to make the mentally ill patient safely employable is not widely known or utilized by private and public employers," he said. Nor is it widely realized that the science of psychology has so improved "foremanship" that many of the "mentally handicapped" can be fitted to jobs.

The public deceives itself by thinking persons who have been hospitalized for mental illness are "dangerous, that is, they may assault the employer, supervisor, fellow employees or do harm to the property of the prospective employer."

That's all wrong, he said. The "false image" is due to the public putting all mentally ill persons in the same category as a few exceptional ones and from not knowing the difference between "acute and chronic cases of mental illness."

When acute, mental illness may often be expressed by "excitement, confusion, fearfulness and threatening behavior." But when it is in the chronic state "the patient usually has found some sort of non-aggressive adjustment between his psychological problem and the environment in which he is functioning."

Unfortunately, Brennan continued, "the feeling that persons with mental problems are likely to be physically aggressive is initiated and sustained by every communication medium. Language, literature, humor, the theatre all tend to use this theme and to perpetuate the concept."

Brennan made his pitch in the technical organ of the American Psychiatric Assn., in the hope its members would further it. He did not advocate a willy-nilly employment of mental patients but rather the "selection" of patients for particular jobs and job-categories on a basis of psychological knowledge.

He is chief of the psychological counseling service at the veterans' administration hospital in Bedford, Mass. Since 1954, 2,500 patients have been through rehabilitation services which provided them with outside work or outside jobs at standard pay and with standard job requirements. Not one untoward incident involving aggressive behavior has resulted.

Brennan emphasized he was not arguing that all recovering mental patients are employable. "Just as with a normal population, the mentally ill have numerous variations and graduations. For maximum and successful utilization, the principle of selectivity by professional persons should be followed," he said.

"This is not to imply that a psychiatrist is necessary to select all cases, but it does mean that trained and/or experienced persons should evaluate persons for employment."

Many Marin Students Are Flunking P.E.

By BRUCE COLEMAN

"Flunk outs" taking a make-up course in physical education number 35 in the Tamalpais High School summer session.

State law requires that all student who plan to be graduated must take physical education, and the Tamalpais high school district requires that they not only take four years of it but must pass it. This means a student must get at least a "D" in the course.

Asked why so many youngsters flunk, Principal Robert H. Prather replied, "A kid, if he is a non-dress-down type of a flunk, has usually some adjustment problems toward his family and toward his school in general.

"This very often pops up in P.E. for some reason. It is not too well understood why. They will consistently fall into this pattern of not wanting to participate in anything in P.E. sometimes girls get conscious about their hair or dress. Sometimes a boy will be tiny or a girl obese.

"It's part of the adjustment toward people in authority and adults. They don't seem to mind taking the consequences.

"They could do the same thing in history or English by flunking the tests, then having to make up the course. P.E., by its own nature, is a participation course. If you don't participate, you don't pass."

Prather said the percentage of flunk-outs seem to be fairly stable over the years. He noted that a semester of physical education amounts to five credits for the student.

Glidden Benefield, who is coaching coeducational courses in badminton and volley ball this summer, said that sometimes a student may flunk because he has some physical defect and does not wish to dress down. "I knew of one boy who was an A student," he said, "who flunked simply because he did not get along with his teacher and would not do any work." Other students can flunk due to illness.

Benefield stressed that sports such as badminton, tennis and volley ball are good "carry-over" sports that students can play in later years as compared to the so-called motor sports of football, baseball and basketball.

"It's a real science," said Prather, referring to physical education as it is taught today. "People don't realize how really refined it is. There are about 1,000 written pages in our program. In the old days you gave the kids a ball and let them play. That is long since past."

Over the first two years of high school students receive daily physical fitness exercises. Boys are grouped by ability levels into Whites, Reds and, finally, Blues. Girls are grouped, likewise, as Papooses, Squaws and Captains, using the Indian theme of the school.

"They receive training in all of the normal team sports such as baseball, basketball, volley ball and football plus the individual sports," Prather said. "As they become more adept and get older they can option special groups. For example, girls can get into acquatics or modern or folk dancing while boys may go into gymnastics or weight lifting. On Fridays, kids usually have an option to do a special activity that they like.

"State testing in physical fitness is now required," said Prather.

Benefield said that his students this summer are all from Tamalpais High.

Neither Redwood nor Sir Francis Drake high schools have make up P.E. classes this summer. Principal Donald Kreps at Redwood said students may make up courses in the regular session or by attending the summer class at Tamalpais.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Hot Weather Keeps Heart Working Overtime, So Take Things Easy

VAN DELLEN

The heart works twice as hard during hot weather as in more comfortable temperatures. This may not bother healthy persons but those with a cardiac handicap should take it easy. Air conditioning is made to order for these individuals. The heart is involved in the intricate mechanism by which the body gets rid of excessive heat. The skin surface is capable of disposing of small amounts of heat; the capillaries dilate with warm blood to facilitate this process and it is here that the old ticker must work harder.

IT HAS TO bring more blood from the internal organs and muscles to the surface, where it is cooled. This takes place even while resting in bed and not moving a muscle.

The sweat glands also are busy but perspiration must evaporate to exert a cooling effect. The respiratory tract is on the job, too. On a torrid day, a gallon or more of water can be lost through these two systems. All of this requires energy which in turn increases circulation. In this respect, excessive warmth and humidity have the same effect on the heart as exercise.

COMFORT IS important for all of us. We get restless, irritable, sweaty, and agitated when trying to sleep in a warm, sticky room. A cool bedroom is relaxing and our disposition is better the next day.

This is a vital consideration for those with heart diseases. The problem is accentuated when dropsy is present. Air conditioning is most helpful and scientific studies show that the load on the ailing heart is reduced considerably. Cardiac patients who require oxygen in a warm room are able to get along without it in a cooler environment.

LIQUOR AND CIRRHOSIS

T.S. writes: A man has been taking treatment for cirrhosis of the liver for the last year. He is now off medication. Will taking three shots of whisky every night harm him?

REPLY

Yes. Alcohol must be avoided in cirrhosis of the liver. Now and then a person who has been treated for early cirrhosis can return to moderate drinking after going on the wagon for six weeks, provided tests show the liver is normal.

CHAWIN' TOBACCO

J.L.S. writes: We hear much about the hazards of cigarette smoking but little about those associated with chewing tobacco. What are the dangers of this filthy habit?

REPLY

None. Chewing tobacco may be disgusting to some people but it is safer than inhaling smoke. Most of the juice ends up in a cuspidor.

PALE NAILS

Mrs. C.S. writes: What causes whiteness of the finger and toe nails?

REPLY

Anemia is the most likely cause when the nails are otherwise normal. Ringworm is a possibility if they are powdery white.

LONG-TERM THERAPY

C.D.W. writes: I'm 66 and would like to know how long I will have to remain on medicine to keep down high blood pressure.

REPLY

For the next 30 years or so.

NO GREEN STUFF

G.M.C. writes: Not being a vegetable eater, I go for days without so much as a piece of lettuce. Are there any substitutes for green vegetables?

REPLY

Yes—fruits.

DISTURBED FUNCTION

REPLY

Fatigue, indigestion, pain, or palpitation may result from emotional reactions such as anger, frustration, fear, anxiety, or tension. These symptoms are referred to as functional because they have no organic basis. On the other hand, identical symptoms may originate from infection, ulcer, injury, or impaired circulation, which are organic in origin.

FLEA BITES

N.B. writes: Can dog fleas bite humans?

REPLY

Yes. Persons who are sensitive to these insects may develop an eruption on the skin, not necessarily limited to the site of the bite. Graded flea antigen has been fairly successful in relieving this condition.

OBESITY RISK

B.C. writes: Is overweight a hazard in hernia surgery?

REPLY

Yes. Obesity increases the risk of surgery for technical reasons, overstretched tissues, and the possibility of cardiac complications associated with excess blubber.

NEW NOSE

J.R. writes: In regard to your article on false noses, where can my husband get one? He was in an accident.

REPLY

Consult a plastice surgeon, a make-up artist, or a salesman in a novelty shop.

NOT AN INFECTION

J.S. writes: Whenever you write about Parkinsonism, you never mention whether it is contagious. I am very anxious to know.

REPLY

It is not, even though the disorder is relatively common.

Today's Health Hint—Never put poisons or toxic materials in familiar containers such as empty milk or pop bottles.

Astronaut Helps In Grim Mission

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI) — Spaceman Scott Carpenter, here to take part in a test of underwater living, joined Navy divers yesterday in a search for the bodies of 12 persons killed in the collision Monday of two U.S. Air Force planes.

The wreckage of the planes, a C-54 and a C-97 converted for use in rescue missions, was found yesterday but the bodies could not be located immediately.

Carpenter and four other men are scheduled to spend eight days in a 40-foot capsule sunk in 200 feet of water as a test of men's ability to spend long periods underwater.

Hydrogen Bomb Said DeGaulle's Goal

PARIS (UPI) — The newspaper France Soir said yesterday that France will have hydrogen bombs by 1968 under President Charles de Gaulle's program to develop an independent nuclear deterrent.

The building of 100 rockets capable of carrying the bombs with a range of 1,860 miles is another target of the program, the newspaper reported.

The "widow's mite" of the Bible was probably a lepton, a small copper coin of little value.

The budget is expected to be adopted, as first order of business, July 27 at 8 p.m. at the district office, chairman Robert A. Alexander reported.

Tiburon Still Has Hollow Treasury

The City of Tiburon still is operating without money.

City councilmen heard Tuesday that county officials proposed a 3⅞ per cent interest rate for any funds the county might lend the newly incorporated city until tax money begins coming in. But councilmen have made no decision on taking the loan. At a Monday night city council meeting, they heard Crocker-Citizens National Bank of Tiburon was offering a 3½ per cent interest loan.

Novato, when it became a city four years ago, was loaned $25,000, interest free, by the county.

Income Fund Has Record 6 Months

SAN FRANCISCO — Commonwealth Income Fund set new records in the six months ended May 31, according to the fund's semi-annual report.

Total net assets of the fund rose to a high of $44,446,209 on May 31 compared with $37,878,505 on Nov. 30, 1963, and $35,285,865 on May 31, 1963.

The fund's net asset value per share on May 31 was $10.19, compared with $9.63 on Nov. 30.

After adjustment for a capital gains distribution of 25 cents a share at the 1963 yeared, the May 31 figure was substantially higher than the $10.05 per share value of May 31, 1963, and, according to the report, had "reached the highest level it has ever attained in its history."

Veteran Pilot Hangs Up His Crash Helmet

ROBERT C. LAMPERT
Closest call in Burma

A fighter pilot who has been combat-ready in first-line fighters since he entered the service in 1942 retired yesterday at Hamilton Air Force Base.

He is Lt. Col. Robert C. (Red) Lampert, who saw action in China and Burma during World War II.

He was born in Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 2, 1921. He graduated from Aviation Cadet School in July, 1943, and was immediately assigned to China, with the 16th Fighter Squadron.

During his 18 months there, he had his closest calls in battle.

"I was piloting a P-40 in a formation of four on a routine reconnaissance mission over Burma," he related.

"We sighted a lone covered truck on the road below and went down to take a look at it. All at once the entire area erupted in our faces."

Two of the planes were shot down. The others were hit. They managed to get back to home base, but both crashed on landing, he related. He was the only one who survived.

"Later I learned that we had discovered a large Japanese offensive which already had moved half-way through Burma totally undetected," he added.

For his action in China, he was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross with one oak-leaf cluster, the Air Medal with one oak-leaf cluster, and the Purple Heart.

He did a tour of duty as instructor of the jet instrument pilot school at Tyndall Air Force Base, Fla., and rocketry instructor and member of the standardization board for fighter-interceptor aircraft at Moody Air Force Base, Go. He was then assigned as operations officer of the 61st Fighter-Interceptor Squadron in Newfoundland.

He was graduated with a bachelor of arts degree in social science from Syracuse University in 1960 and was assigned to Hamilton as director of tactical evaluation of the 28th Air Division.

New Obstacle In Hearing On Doctor's Status

One more avenue of approach to obtain testimony in the hearing of Dr. Stanford W. Ascherman, who is seeking a reversal of the Marin Hospital District board's rulling denying him privileges at the hospital, has been closed.

Harold F. Riede, attorney for the hospital district, has been denied use of depositions taken in connection with suits totaling six million dollars filed by Ascherman in San Francisco claiming that a conspiracy existed against him when five San Francisco hospitals refused him privileges.

The ruling was made Monday by San Francisco Superior Court Judge Joseph Karesh.

Riede said today he has received two more letters of refusal from attorneys representing witnesses who have been requested to testify voluntarily at the hearing. The hearing officer and district board have been refused subpoena powers by a Marin Superior Court ruling.

The hearing will resume July 14 at 3 p.m. at the hospital when Riede offers James Ludlam, counsel for the California Hospital Assn., as his last witness.

Ludlam is expected to testify on the standards of procedures for doctors who apply for staff privileges in California hospitals.

Junior Theater In Rehearsals

"The Kite," a play acted by and for children, will go on the boards at Reed School July 24-25.

The play written by Mrs. D. J. Norman, Tiburon, will be acted by Tiburon peninsula youngsters in third through sixth grades. It is about children in "birdland," featuring birds seen in Marin.

The production is sponsored by the Belvedere-Tiburon unit of the Marin Junior Theater and will be presented at 2 p.m. July 24 and at 8 p.m. July 25 in the multipurpose room of Reed School.

Stevenson Stands Pat Against Senate Race

NEW YORK (UPI)—Adlai Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, has reaffirmed his decision not to be a candidate for the U.S. Senate from New York, a Democratic party leader said yesterday.

Edward N. Costikyan, the party's New York County leader who most recently urged Stevenson to run, said Stevenson's position was unchanged from April 30 when he announced publicly he did not wish to be the Democratic nominee to oppose Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.).

Japan Has Baby Boom

San Rafael Rec Department Set For Penny Fete

Save your pennies, for the Penny Carnival is coming.

The annual event sponsored by the San Rafael Recreation Department will be held July 10 at Albert Field.

Each playground and park area will have a booth at the park for activities like sponge throw, table tennis bounce, ball throw. Awards will go to the best decorated and most unique booths, and the booth making the most money.

Each playground will have a king and queen, and the ones receiving the most votes will be crowned. Children and recreation leaders will man the booths.

Battle Continues Over City Status

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A controversy over forming a new city on the shores of Lake Tahoe will go before the California Supreme Court.

The court granted a hearing Wednesday to William A. Ames who is seeking incorporation of South Lake Tahoe.

The court will hear Ames' petition for a writ of mandate against the El Dorado County Board of Supervisors asking for an extension of time to certify petitions for incorporation.

County Clerk Ruth Lang told the board last January that petitions submitted then did not qualify.

A writ of mandate was denied Ames June 4 by the 3rd District Court of Appeals in Sacramento.

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Lt. Gov. and Mrs. Glenn M. Anderson tossed a gala New Year's Eve bash Tuesday night, complete with hats, horns, balloons, an orchestra, supper, appropriate toasts and Auld Lang Syne.

They even tossed in a few fireworks to keep in step with the season.

The formal affair was described as "very colorful."

Wallace indicated he would consider supporting either major party candidate who would campaign on a platform favoring and protecting states rights and local government.

"We want people in both parties to worry about us and to think about the people of our region," Wallace commented. "Neither party will take us for granted."

CRASH KILLS MOTHER, UNBORN BABY—Howard Lisle peers from door of his home, 2400 Paradise Drive, Tiburon, at auto which plunged off the road and struck his home early today. Mrs. LaVerne Genevieve Hale of Santa Rosa, a passenger in the car, was thrown out and killed. Her baby that would have been born in about two weeks was also killed. Firemen beside car are John Grbac and Robert Wallermann of Tiburon Fire Department.

Wife, Unborn Child Die In Pre-Dawn Tiburon Smashup

A 21-year-old Santa Rosa woman, who was expecting her first baby in two weeks, was killed early today when the family car, driven by her husband, plunged 100 feet down an embankment on Paradise Drive in Tiburon and struck a house.

Mrs. LaVerne Genevieve Hale was thrown out of the 1954 Studebaker sedan. Debris from the roof of the home of Howard Lisle at 2400 Paradise Drive, partially collapsed by the crash fell on top of her.

She was pronounced dead at Marin General Hospital one hour after the 2 a.m. accident. The unborn baby was also dead. Mrs. Hale's death was caused by head injuries, according to Asst. County Coroner William C. Bradley.

Her husband, James Edward Hale, 22, a cement plant laborer, was treated for multiple cuts and bruises and released from the hospital.

The fatality was the first charged to traffic in the city of Tiburon—which was incorporated only June 23.

There have been 24 traffic deaths in Marin County this year —seven within the last week. Six persons were killed Saturday night in a headon collision on the San Rafael overpass.

At this time last year, there were 17 traffic fatalities in the county.

Hale said he was taking his wife for her first view of San Francisco and the Golden Gate bride — neither of which she had seen before. He said he had stopped in a bar in Tiburon for directions, according to California Highway Patrol Officer J. L. Smith.

Hale was driving east on Paradise Drive when his car veered off the road. It struck some trees, plunged down the embankment and over a retaining wall.

The car plowed through a picket fence on the property of B. W. Frochen at 2390 Paradise Drive and struck the porch of the Lisle residence, collapsing the roof.

It was reportedly the third time that a car had hit the house.

Mrs. Hale, a resident of California for 14 years, was a native of Missouri. The Hales had lived only a short time in Santa Rosa.

The body was taken to Russell and Gooch Mortuary in Mill Valley.

Reds Kill In Ambush

SAIGON (UPI) — A Vietnamese Army supply convoy was ambushed by Communist guerrillas on a mountain road in Central Vietnam yesterday and at least 29 soldiers were killed, the defense ministry reported today.

Colorful Flags, Blue Ribbons Flutter At Art, Garden Fair

The Marin Art and Garden Fair opened last night "In the Medieval Manner" with fair weather and a paid attendance of 1,663.

Colorful banners were draped from staffs and trees and blue ribbons fluttered beside top exhibits. Judging took place yesterday afternoon, prior to the 6 p.m. opening. (See also, pages 4 and 8.)

George Murata, Kentfield landscaper, again captured a best in show award this year for his professional model garden. He won on over-all appropriateness, design and plant use.

Best construction design in a professional model garden went to Iroha Garden Center of San Rafael and best plant material in a professional model garden went to West End Nursery.

These winning exhibits and many other displays can be seen throughout the remaining days of the fair. Special events tonight include square dancing on the amphitheater stage at 7:30 and a Magic Circle production on the Northgate stage at 8:45 p.m.

Tomorrow there will be another square dance at 7:30 p.m. and light opera by Corinne Swall and Stanley Noonan on the Northgate stage at 8:45 p.m. These are in addition to the continuous entertainment throughout the fair.

Students Increase Jobless Figures

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment climbed more than one million in June as school youths flooded the labor market, pushing the nation's jobless rate up to 5.3 per cent, the Labor Department said today.

At the same time, total civilian employment hit an all-time high of 71.9 million, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The unemployment increase was about 100,000 more than usual for June, and the employment increase of 850,000 was about 400,000 less than expected, the bureau said.

Search For Witnesses Continuing

Search for witnesses of the fiery accident last Saturday night on the San Rafael overpass which took the lives of six persons continued today.

The Marin County district attorney's office and the California Highway Patrol were seeking two drivers of vehicles which were reportedly in the area moments before the accident in which Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Neal of Terra Linda, their 10-year-old son, Richard, Mrs. Neal's aunt and uncle, Mrs. Victoria McLalan and Wallace R. Linden of San Francisco, and Ronald Martinez of San Rafael were killed.

Drivers of a Thunderbird, and a semi-trailer truck were being sought to give information about the crash. Both vehicles were reported seen on the highway in the vicinity shortly before the crash.

Memorial service was held yesterday in San Francisco for the Neals, Mrs. McLalan and Linden, attended by 500 persons. Burial was in Cypress Lawn Memorial Park, Colma.

Private funeral services were held for Martinez, whose car swerved over the divider strip and crashed into the family's vehicle, were also held yesterday. Burial was in Golden Gate National Cemetery in San Bruno.

Union Punished On Segregation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Breaking historic ground, the National Labor Relations Board found a union guilty of racial discrimination today and stripped it of its certification.

In a broad opinion with possible national impact the majority decision said whenever a union causes discrimination based on race it has committed an unfair labor practice.

The action—the first of its kind by the NLRB—was against the Independent Metal Workers Union, which maintained separate locals for white and Negro members at Hughes Tool Co. in Houston, Tex.

High-Rise Plan Gets Same 3-2 Council Vote

Crowded Session Sets Length Mark —Over At 3 A.M.

By PHIL FRADKIN

Seven hours of argument over a 12-story "retirement residence" failed to change a vote on the Larkspur City Council last night and early today.

About 3 a.m., the council voted by the same splits as a month ago to grant a variance and use permit for the structure.

About 340 people were on hand for the meeting, which ran, in all, seven hours and 20 minutes and was marked by bitter exchanges between councilmen.

RECORD FOR LENGTH

It may have been the longest city council meeting on record in Marin County, although the Sausalito Planning Commission topped it with a session on Dec. 14, 1960, which ran until 4:34 a.m. It also drew one of the largest crowds.

The majority of the audience was against construction of the five million dollar project.

City Clerk Isabelle Moore, who had not completed tabulation of the many petitions submitted for and against the project, said today there were about 1,800 signatures on each side, with those in favor "having a very slight edge."

NOT ALL VOTERS

There were 3,164 registered voters in Larkspur at the April municipal election.

Mrs. Moore found some signatures on the petitions were of persons who lived outside of the city. Children and youths were also asked to sign the petitions.

On granting a 105-foot height limit variance, Councilmen Robert J. Smith and Vaughn Marker voted "no." Councilmen Henry Brocco, Earl J. O'Grady and Neil R. Brixon voted "yes."

On the use permit, to which stringent controls were attached, only Smith voted "no."

Marker said: "This thing has split the city more wide open

Southerner Prays In Last-Ditch Opposition

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House voted 289 to 126 for final congressional passage of a historic civil rights bill today and President Lyndon B. Johnson arranged to sign it into the law of the land within a matter of course.

The House accepted the measure as it came from the Senate to end a prolonged, bitter fight over the legislation which was born of growing race violence in both the North and the South.

In advance of the House vote, the White House announced that Johnson would sign the measure at a televised ceremony this evening.

FINAL DEBATE

The final debate in the House was limited to one hour in contrast to the 83-day filibuster southern foes had conducted in the Senate.

The House had originally passed a civil rights bill last Feb. 10 by a 290-130 vote. Today's action was accepting the bill as amended by the Senate.

Southern House members protested passage of the legislation to the last gun. Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va.), leader of the Dixie opposition, told the chamber: "The bell hath tolled. In a few minutes, you will vote this monstrous oppression of all people. May I still be permitted to utter the proud and prayerful words, 'God save the United States'."

URGES PATIENCE

Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.), of the House Judiciary Committee, who helped guide the bill through Congress, urged "patience and harmony" in implementing the sweeping scope of the legislation.

"The country desires no more arguments, no more speeches,"

Senate Nips Try To Trim Salary Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate beat down today an economy rider to the 556-million-dollar pay raise bill that would have made salary increases for top government officials contingent on a balanced budget.

John J. Williams (R-Del.) sponsor of the amendment, said it would prompt agency heads to cut down spending requests and stop "the waste and extravagance that we all know exists."

But Sen. A. S. (Mike) Monroney (D-Okla.) called it "meat ax economy," and said it would strike at a select group of about 4,000 skilled government workers.

The Williams proposal was rejected 65 to 26 on a roll call vote.

The amendment would have delayed the effective date of any salary increase for those making $20,000 or more until the first day after a fiscal year ending in a balanced budget.

This would have withheld also $7,500 pay boosts for members of Congress which are contained in the administration-backed bill.

Udall Power Proposal Hit By Sen. Engle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The proposed Pacific Northwest-Southwest power system intertie was denounced today by Sen. Clair Engle (D-Calif.) as "a surrender of control of the most lucrative power market in the West to a combine of six private utility companies."

And Sen. Maurine B. Neuberger (D-Ore.) said she could not support the proposed 700-million-dollar project which calls for linking of public and private power systems in 11 western states. Experience has shown, she said, that consumers do not benefit from private power.

The ailing Engle also declared in a statement read for him at a Senate appropriations subcommittee hearing, that the proposal, if carried out, would be a blow against federal water projects.

Not one transmission line in the proposal recommended by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall would be all-federal, Engle said.

"This in spite of the fact that the principal power producing plants involved in the proposal are three of the greatest federal power developments in the country—the Bonneville system in the Northwest, the Central Valley Project in Northern California and

Girl Friend Admits She Lied To Protect Slaying Suspect

By ROSS DAVIS

A 39-year-old woman, twice sobbing uncontrollably, admitted today she lied for Robert Lee Jones because she loved him and wanted to protect him.

Mrs. Arlene Farliss Walsh, now residing in Fairfield, testified in the trial of Jones and John Lee King, accused of murder, in Marin Superior Court that she committed perjury before the Marin County Grand Jury when she quoted Jones as saying he told her he was "sick at my soul."

"I made that up," she wept "... that he said he was sick at his soul. He didn't say it: I said it. I wanted to protect him."

She had said Jones made the remark in her apartment at 516 Caledonia Street, Sausalito, early the morning of March 28—day after the icepick slaying of Donald G. Corbett Jr. in his Sausalito apartment.

Peter Allen Smith, defense attorney for King, suggested that if she tried to protect Jones before the grand jury, she perhaps was trying to protect him during the trial.

"No, I'm telling the truth," she replied. She added that all her other testimony today as witness for the prosecution was correct.

"Are you presently in love with Jones?" asked Smith.

"No."

"Were you in love at the time you testified before the grand jury?"

"Yes."

Fog Photography Try Fatal To Medical Man

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A physician was killed today in a six-story fall from the roof of St. Joseph's Hospital.

Dr. Harry D. Williams Jr., 56, apparently fell while taking a photograph of the morning fog. Minutes before the mishap, he told a nun he was going to the hospital roof to photograph the fog.

Ike-Scranton Rumor Adds To Confusion

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Conflicting reports on whether former President Dwight D. Eisenhower had agreed to put Gov. William W. Scranton's name in nomination for president threw confusion today into the Republican presidential race.

Two major television-radio networks aired the conflicting reports last night. There was no immediate comment from Eisenhower, Scranton, campaigning in Eugene, Ore., said he knew nothing about the report.

Aides close to Eisenhower, who was at his Gettysburg, Pa., home, also said they knew nothing about it.

The National Broadcasting Co. first broadcast a report that sources close to Scranton had disclosed that Eisenhower had agreed to make the nominating speech for the Pennsylvania governor at the GOP convention in San Francisco.

The Columbia Broadcasting System subsequently quoted sources close to Eisenhower as saying the former president had rejected such a proposal by Henry Cabot Lodge, a leader of the Scranton campaign.

An associate of Gen. Robert Shultz, longtime aide to Eisenhower, said Shultz had told him that he had "heard nothing about the report and would not accept it as af act unless he had heard it from the General."

In the absence of a firm denial Shultz, longtime aideto Eisenhower confirmation from Eisenhower, the GOP contest acquired a new element of confusion with the convention only 12 days away.

The new confusion developed as Sen. Barry Goldwater appeared to have the Republican nomination locked up, barring some major political upset.

A United Press International tabulation showed that Goldwater had 695 delegates committed, pledged or presently planning to vote for him. He needs 655 to get the nomination.

The UPI tally gives Scranton 137 delegates. The Pennsylvania governor must woo delegates away from Goldwater to stand a chance himself, and so far he appears to be making little headway.

Bobby Returns, Tells Of Future Plans To Serve

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, despite his intention of resigning his present post after the November elections, plans to take another government position.

Kennedy, who returned here last night after a one-week visit to West Germany and Poland, told a news conference in New York that he still had not accepted a specific job. "I just don't know what I'm going to do," he said.

Before departing London on a commercial jet aircraft, Kennedy said that he might live abroad for a year following his resignation.

On landing at Kennedy International Airport with his wife, Ethel, and their three eldest children, the Attorney General received a warm greeting from hundreds of well-wishers as he strolled through the airport's terminal area. He stopped often to shake hands with the many persons eager to meet him.

Reviewing his trip, Kennedy said he had been inspired by the enthusiastic reception given him by the German and Polish crowds.

"I had the strongest feeling that these people have a great affection for the United States," he said.

Asked about the Berlin Wall, Kennedy said that "some action needs to be taken over the division of Germany." He termed the split "explosive" and urged that solutions be reached to settle east-west differences.

The family plane, Caroline, was waiting at the airport to take Kennedy's three children who accompanied him on the trip to Hyannis Port, Mass. The Attorney General and his wife returned to Washington.

Pesticide Kills Again

NEWARK (AP) — Police say a deadly pesticide figured in the death of farm worker George Carlson whose body was found beside his tractor in a lettuce field.

Police said Carlson, 28, of Morgan Hill, probably spilled some of the liquid pesticide on his clothing as he diluted it with water around midnight.

He was preparing to spray the field, a job usually done at night when the air is still. The body was found beside Carlson's tractor Wednesday.

Sinking Still Mystery

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress yesterday completed its inquiry into the Thresher tragedy. One investigator said no one knows why the nuclear submarine went down with all 129 crew members.

Intensive efforts have failed to locate the Thresher which sank in deep Atlantic waters 220 miles east of Boston on April 10, 1963.

The committee will issue a report on the disaster which "will spell out what might have been the cause," Pastore said.

The Globe Indemnity Co. turned over Wednesday a check for the missing amount to the bank. The company carried a 4 million dollar bond on Theodore Nelson, 20, a teller who disappeared the same day the money did.

Nelson has been the obejct of a nationwide search since he and the money vanished. But FBI agents said Wednesday no clues to his whereabouts have been uncovered.

Train Robber Gets Out

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A train robber, vintage old west, has won a pardon from Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

Tom Vernon, 82, derailed a Southern Pacific train on Nov. 10, 1929, and stole $300 from the passengers. He was caught two weeks later and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Vernon has been in Folsom State Prison since his conviction. He first requested a pardon in 1941.

Chief Is Confident

EUREKA (AP) — California police agencies can keep any civil rights demonstrations from turning into a riot, says Los Angeles police chief William H. Parker. "We have no need to fear any great violence in California so long as our law enforcement agencies are trained to meet and handle situations as they occur," he said.

British buses being loaded for Cuba shipment

British Buses On Way To Cuba

LONDON (UPI)—A Communist ship is carrying 16 British buses to communist Cuba today in defiance of U.S. efforts to ostracize Fidel Castro's revolutionary regime.

The buses, manufactured by Leyland Motors, were loaded aboard the communist East German freighter Heinrich Heine earlier this week. They are the first of 950 such vehicles sold by Leyland to the Castroites for more than 25 million dollars.

Teen-Ager Shakes Up Politicos

BOSTON (AP)—Leonard Tagg, 16, is running for the Massachusetts House of Representatives—and his candidacy is legal, although he can't vote for five years.

The political pros are so shook up, that they are trying to push through last-minute legislation making it illegal for anyone under 21 to hold public office.

Tagg

The boy, Leonard Tagg, has filed nomination papers as an independent candidate from his home-town of Weymouth near here.

Tagg said he's running just to show that there ought to be a law against such young candidates.

Tagg said the law prohibits his candidacy as either a Republican or Democrat because he would have to be a registered voter and thus 21 years of age.

As an independent candidate in the November election—bypassing the September primary for which he is ineligible—he need not be a registered voter, Tagg said after obtaining the advice of a Weymouth lawyer, James Fasino.

'Grand Old Man Of Law' Dies

CAMBRIDGE, Mass (UPI)—Roscoe Pound, 84, former dean of the Harvard Law School and called by many "The Grand Old Man of Law," died last night at Harvard's Stillman Infirmary following a long illness.

At a reception in the Canadian embassy, Castro said Miss Castro's charges against the Cuban government were "edited in the United States Embassy in Mexico."

POLITICOS REPORT CAMPAIGN COSTS

Capitol Still Waiting For Statement On Most Expensive Race—Salinger-Cranston

SACRAMENTO (AP) — First returns are in on campaign spending for what is generally considered the most expensive primary election in California history.

Reports filed with Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan showed that 169 of 462 legislative and congressional candidates on the June 2 state ballot acknowledged contributions totaling $500,041.

The total includes neither of the two major campaigns—Rockefeller-Goldwater and Salinger-Cranston.

Spokesmen for Pierre Salinger, who won the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate, and his chief opponent, State Controller Alan Cranston, have indicated each campaign cost at least $500,000.

State law requires no public accounting of expenses rolled up by Sen. Barry Goldwater and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in their Republican presidential primary fight.

Highest amount in the reports filed was $28,469 listed by Chet Merriam of Chico, who won the Republican nomination for Congress in the Second District. Merriam listed $20,000 of his receipts as a personal loan from Raymond I. Smith.

Sen. Clair Engle listed $450, the amount of the filing fee. Reports from other Democratic candidates for the Senate showed: Emanuel Braude, Beverly Hills, $6,792; George H. McLain, Los Angeles, $5,617, and Lynn W. Johnston, Downey, $746.

PARTY NOTES FROM ALL OVER

Princess Margaret blossomed out at a London ball last night in the nearest thing to a topless dress she has ever worn in public. The gown was in the style of the Georgian era, 200 years ago. The occasion was an 18th Century ball at the Mansion House of the lord mayor of London. It was Margaret's first social outing since the birth of her daughter, not yet christened, on May 1. While the princess was raising eyebrows with her low-cut gown, Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya was kicking up his heels in a spirited dance with a barefoot Kikuyu tribal woman dancer on his farm at Gatundu, Kenya. A good time was had by all. (AP Wirephotos)

Planner Tells Ideas On Ross Creek Use

A proposal for a pedestrian path along much of Corte Madera Creek, with a bicycle path, a harbor at one end, and a community center near Marin General Hospital, was shown yesterday to the Marin County Parks and Recreation District.

Senior planner Walter S. Horchler of the county planning department said he found and elaborated on the plan while working on the Kentfield master plan.

He noted that the City of Larkspur already has plans for a park which would be connected to the creek, but suggested possibilities for recreational uses along the waterway from San Francisco Bay clear to the Ross Common and Marin Art and Garden Center should be checked.

The new community center, which Horchler said is needed in Ross Valley, would be on flood-plain land behind Marin Catholic High School. The land is owned by the high school.

Hochler said a trip along the creek channel convinced him the entire lower creek has potential for recreational use.

He said a harbor could be created just east of the Greenbrae interchange and predicted that the Army Corps of Engineers would help in the necessary dredging.

Since the corps is now studying a flood control project for the entire creek, Horchler went on, recreation projects could be tied in.

Horchler said, however, he was not happy about the idea of a rectangular concrete lined channel for the creek, as proposed by the corps.

The maintenance accress road to the creek could be a hiking, riding and bicycle trail, Horchler suggested. Such a trail could become part of a recreational complex connecting the bay, through Marin Municipal Water District lands, to Point Reyes National Seashore.

The old railroad right of way through Ross is largely intact, and trails can be developed through the land of College of Marin in Kentfield, Horchler predicted.

As for the community center, the planner said the land would have to be raised, but fill from the creek flood control project would be ideal and cheap.

Access to the area would be by Wolfe Grade extension, connecting to Bon Air bridge. The project could include swimming pools, Horchler said, unless proposed pools at the junior college are to be made available to the public.

Judge Rules Out Pickets At Fair

NEW YORK (UPI)—A federal judge has ruled that civil rights organizations do not have the right to picket the World's Fair. But they can distribute handbills "at designated stations within the fair gates," he said.

Picketing "usually produces more coercive influences, takes up more room and creates more need for security measures in a crowded area than does, for example, a speaker or handbill distributor," Federal Judge Harold R. Tyler Jr. said Wednesday.

IRATE CITIZEN ATTACKS IN WRONG SPOT

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Lt. Gov. Glenn M. Anderson's office was going about its normal routine on a quiet summer day when a slightly built man dashed in and started beating a secretary.

As he swung in the incident about 2:30 p.m. yesterday, he shouted "Where's my Social Security check?" The secretary, Mrs. Madelyn Polite, finally managed to free herself from the man and ran into Anderson's private office.

He pushed a button that activated an alarm in the State Police office a floor below. Meanwhile, the assailant had hurried out.

The man escaped. Mrs. Polite was frightened, but unharmed.

Rusk Decides To Take A Few Days Vacation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk plans to take several days' vacation, one of the very few he has had in his three and one-half years in the position.

He said at a news conference Wednesday he would "get a few days rest" next week. He didn't say where.

Health Aide Is Given Approval For Sabbatical

The Marin County Board of Supervisors has granted Dr. Mary Jo Tonelli, assistant county health officer, a one-year educational leave of absence.

Doctor Tonelli hopes to work in in a rural public health district in Texas for a year to gain experience in administration and program development. "It will be a change and a challenge," she said.

She plans to talk with the Texas state director of local health services during her vacation, which began today, about the possibility of such work.

Her departure from Marin will depend on the county finding someone to replace her in the health department. No date has been set for her leave to begin.

Doctor Tonelli has been with the county since 1953. She has been in charge of the venereal disease program, maternal and child health program, crippled children service, tuberculosis control, and acute communicable disease program.

She took her premedical and medical training at Baylor University in Texas, and her family has retired to that state. Texas is "rather at the beginning" as far as public health programs go, she pointed out. Many of the rural districts are in need of assistance, she said.

Doctor Tonelli has a master's degree in public health administration, as well as a B.A. and M.D. degrees, and has served a residency in pediatrics.

Ireland was the fourth most popular destination named by passport recipients in the first quarter of 1964, according to the U. S. Passport Office.

Arson Probed In Costly Mill Valley Home Blaze

Three fires, belived to have been set by a youth, caused damage estimated at $5,000 to the Mill Valley home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur T. Bolstad last night while the Bolstads were camping on vacation on the Russian River.

Police Chief Dan Terzich said today he is investigating the white, two-story home at 198 Locust Avenue for evidence of arson.

The fires were "definitely set," said Fire Chief Leslie Armager. He said he believes they were started by a juvenile because all were lighted "on top of things."

He said the $5,000 damage, mainly from smoke, includes damage to a radio-phonograph and a couch in the living room, where fires had apparently been started, and to a comforter and chest in an upstairs bedroom. A fire had also apparently been set on the comforter, which was folded atop the chest.

Bits of envelopes and papers were found in the home near the points of the fires and are believed to have been used to start the blazes.

Bolstad said he left home at 11:20 a.m. yesterday with his wife and three sons to camp at Mirabel Park. The garage door was closed, he said, but he left the kitchen door which opens into the garage, unlocked so his father-in-law, W. D. McDonald Sr. of Sausalito, might drop by to pick up the newspapers and water the garden.

A neighbor of Bolstad's saw smoke coming out of the two-bedroom house and telephoned firemen at 6:03 p.m. Bolstad's father-in-law was notified and he summoned Bolstad, who returned home a little after 9 p.m.

Bolstad said he and his family stayed in Sausalito with the McDonalds at 406 Locust Street last night because of the heavy smoke in his house.

Painter's Tools Taken From Job

Twenty-seven paint brushes, a spray gun and a scraper, with a total value of $424, were stolen from a building under construction at the College of Marin in Kentfield, the sheriff's office reported yesterday.

The painting contractor, W. G. Thompson of San Francisco, reported the brushes had been stolen from a locked room between 5 p.m. Tuesday and 8 a.m. yesterday.

Deputies said someone entered the room by prying back the door catch with a thin instrument, possibly a screwdriver.

Novato Fight On Street, Not Inside Club

A Western Weekend brawl which necessitated the Novato Police Department's calling for help from the sheriff's office and California Highway Patrol did not occur inside the Town Club at 1005 Grant Avenue.

Richard D. Wells of 1425 Park Avenue, Novato, owner of the Town Club, complained yesterday that his business had been damaged by an Independent-Journal story of June 22 which reported a "throng pressed into the Town Club . . . where fists started flying."

Wells pointed out that neither of the two men arrested in the fracas was in the club, although he said one had been there earlier and had caused no disturbance.

Police Chief Robert di Grazia agreed that the fighting was not inside the club, but in front of it on Grant Avenue. There was a large crowd inside the club, said the chief, but the fists flew outside during the brawl. One man was arrested on the street in front of the club; the other, in a vacant lot between the club and a service station.

than anything else. It is rather revolting. I feel the council is split apart. The council cannot go ahead like this."

Marker addressed Dr. John C. Siemens, who heads Valley Investment Co., the developers, and Niels Schultz Jr. of the Belardo Co., owners of the property. "You two gentlemen disappoint me greatly," he said. "You are completely insensitive to the turmoil created by this."

The councilman charged that "there has been a compromise of integrity on the part of several people. There might be some of it on the council."

The compromise, he said, consists "of a good part of the town being bribed by money reputed to come in by taxes and business. I am sure none of the councilmen have a personal interest in the project."

Before the meeting recessed from the City Hall to the multi-purpose room of Henry C. Hall School to accommodate the large crowd, Mayor Brixon clashed sharply with Councilman Smith.

Referring to Smith's attempts to have a motion passed stating that the council would "reconsider" the granting of the 105-foot variance, Brixon said, "when a man goes to such lengths he is trying to hoodwink. . ."

Smith shot back, "I take exception to that. It is directed personally toward me and my integrity. I ask you for a public apology, Mr. Nixon."

Smith's slip of the tongue drew laughter from the audience at a tense moment. He corrected himself, saying "Mr Brixon."

Brixon did not apologize.

On a comment by City Atty. Samuel W. Gardiner, Smith quickly interjected: "Wait a minute, Mr. Gardiner. You are not a member of this deliberating body. You are not to take a position."

Gardiner retorted," I take my instructions from the mayor."

"This city is never prepared to meet what comes into Larkspur," said Councilman O'Grady at one point.

Smith said he agreed, and added, "I blame . . . Mr. Niels Schultz."

Schultz replied, "I don't think you can sit there and blame me for the direction the Council has taken in the last four years. I don't have that much to say."

Charles W. Pierce, an attorney representing the newly formed Larkspur Citizens for Orderly Progress committee, led the argument against the building.

"How can you grant a use permit since there is no provision for this in the zoning ordinance?" he demanded. "The variance is not a variance, but an amendment to the zoning ordinance. I suggest you amend the ordinance and submit it to a referendum."

At the close of the meeting, when only about 35 persons remained in the audience, Brixon said the council would consider submitting an amendment to the zoning ordinance to a referendum vote after work on the budget has been completed. The council rejected the suggestion of "an advisory" vote on the project by its action to approve the variance.

Slides were shown by committee members pointing out the location of the high-rise building and demonstrating the height to which it would rise by use of a helicopter hired from Commodore Aviation.

Brixon said the building "would not be as hideous as shown on those slides."

He said he would not favor high-rise apartments or office buildings, but for a retirement residence "there are special circumstances."

John D. Carew Jr. of Greenbrae, who heads the "orderly progress" committee, arose to speak among cries of "Ataboy, Jack!"

He said, "There is one simple fact. We don't want a 12-story building."

His statement was greeted by one of the frequent rounds of applause and scattered boos which marked most of the meeting.

In considering conditions of the use permit, Marker and Brixon said they were surprised to discover that the buildings and terrace would cover 40 per cent of the six acres.

Marker said, "If this is the case we will not save many trees."

Some members of the audience said there had been misrepresentation of the plans. Schultz denied this.

He explained that the 15.4 per cent of coverage, referred to previously, was the square footage of the buildings at terrace level and did not include the terrace, which will be landscaped and cover the underground parking facilities.

"Took again!" said Marker.

The conditions attached to the use permit by the council were:

1. The building is to be used as a retirement "center" and is to comply to the relevant state codes.
2. Architectural supervision will be under the council, with the planning commission making recommendations to the council.
3. There will be 282 parking spaces for residents, and parking stalls will be provided for 75 per cent of the total number of employees—these figures to be reviewed when the developers know how many cars will be used by residents.
4. To retain the "maximum beauty of the site," there will be no grading below an elevation of 119 feet above mean sea level.
5. Total coverage of the site will be 40 per cent, with 15.4 per cent for the auditorium and main building apart from the terrace, and 9.1 per cent for the main structure above the terrace level.
6. Construction shall begin within one year after granting the permit.
7. There shall be no other development on the site that will uproot trees without the approval of the council.
8. At no time shall the project be put on a non-profit basis, which might remove it from the tax rolls.

Urban Renewal Victims Camp In City Park

Officer Roy Conyer yesterday advised Howard H. Pitt, 35, of San Francisco that Albert Field was not for camping and he would have to stay outside the city of San Rafael while waiting for work.

Conyer gave Pitt the address of the Marin County Welfare Department just in case the children ranging from 4 to 12 years, should get hungry.

Pitt told the officer he is a Mormon and does not believe in accepting welfare.

He also said that the family home was demolished recently under the San Francisco redevelopment program.

TRIAL

the jury might consider Mrs. Walsh's confession for the purpose of possible impeachment of her credibility, but there was no evidence of her having committed perjury in today's proceedings.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said he considered the lie "not important."

Mrs. Walsh, a small woman visibly shaking from nervousness almost throughout her testimony, gave the following account of her association with Jones:

She met him in a Sausalito bar March 22. The following day, he began to see her regularly at her apartment. He spent nights with her but seldom the days. On Friday — the day of the murder — he called her about 4:30 p.m. and asked her to break a date she had with a San Francisco truckdriver she identified as Michael Henneberry.

She refused, spent the evening out with Henneberry, and returned to her apartment at 12:30 a.m. March 28.

Jones was already there. They went to another Sausalito bar about 1 a.m. and met King, who she said "was intoxicated, obnoxious and vulgar." The three departed shortly after in a Porsche car, taking King to her apartment. She and Jones returned to the bar to get a Pontiac driven by Jones. King and Jones both spent the night at the apartment.

The next morning, Saturday, they discovered the Porsche, which has been identified as similar to that stolen from Corbett, had been ticketed for illegal parking. King, she said, accused Jones of getting a ticket on his (King's) car.

(At this point, Thomas P. Boyd, attorney for Jones, had Mrs. Walsh repeat that King claimed the car as his own.

Mrs. Walsh added that she went with Jones to his Sausalito houseboat, the Julia, Saturday afternoon and napped while he and King were gone. When Jones returned, he was agitated. He informed her he and King had to fly to Los Angeles for business. They left that evening.

Mrs. Walsh also identified a pair of men's trousers offered by the prosecution as similar to those once worn by Jones. The prosecution earlier introduced two blood-stained pairs of trousers allegedly recovered from the houseboat of one of the defendants.

the Colorado River system in the Southwest.

"These three systems are federal systems, built by taxpayers' money. And the secretary now proposes to interconnect them with six private companies in charge of the transmission toll gate.

"This is analogous to having the federal government build and own the store and permitting the private companies to operate the cash register."

Philip P. Dickinson, an Engle aide, read his statement.

Engle said the proposal "would be the end of federal competition and doom of most electric ratepayers and taxpayers in California, if not in other states as well.

"It would rescue Bonneville at the expense of California. It would be ruinous to our public power agencies, our government water projects and our power consumers both public and private—for all except possibly in Los Angeles."

Clam Diggers Dig Into Their Pockets

Six clam diggers who took too many clams and undersize clams from Tomales Bay June 14 were each fined $50 in West Marin Justice Court yesterday.

In addition, none of the six men had fishing licenses. Limit on clams is 50.

The men, pleading guilty to the charges yesterday, were: Carl A. Biddulph, Frederick A. O'Leary Jr. and James D. Riffell, all of San Francisco, Herbert B. Tasker of San Leandro, Donald Barker of Menlo Park and Paul M. Keith of Butte, Mont.

Weapon Threat Cut To Misdemeanor Charge

Leslie V. Bilderback, 52, of 388 Bolinas Road, Fairfax, was to appear in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon on a misdemeanor charge of exhibiting a weapon in an angry and threatening manner.

RIGHTS

he said. "The country demands action now. Action is eloquence."

In the House as in the Senate, a coalition of administration Democrats and Republicans had the votes to pass the measure by an overwhelming margin.

Every one of the 684 seats in the visitors' gallery was filled and some spectators were jammed into makeshift spots on the stairs. Most of the 432 House members were present.

Outside in the corridors, long lines of visitors waited disappointingly for a non-existent chance to observe the milestone moment.

Rep. Louis C. Wyman (R-N.H.), who like Smith led the opponents' arguments, said that a vote for the bill would amount to an "outright surrender" of the constitutional rights of privacy by all Americans.

But Speaker John W. McCormack said the bill was "historic." And Rep. Ray J. Madden (D-Ind.) said it would "make all sections of our Constitution a reality to all Americans."

Rep. William M. McCulloch (R-Ohio), one of the principal architects of the bill, contended that Senate amendments made an already moderate bill even more moderate.

But McCulloch and others warned against the belief that the civil rights bill could transform the nation overnight into a civic paradise. ". . . discrimination will finally end only when the mind and heart and conscience of everyone of good will decrees it."

One of the major moments of the debate came when a southern Democrat, Rep. Charles L. Weltner of Georgia, announced that he would vote in favor of the Senate version even though he voted against House passage of the bill last February.

Weltner is a moderate who two years ago ousted segregationist James C. Davis from the seat he held for the Atlanta area.

The 36-year-old Weltner said he could have voted "no" today with "tradition and safety." But he declared: "I believe a greater cause can be served. Change, swift and certain, is upon us, and we in the South face some difficult decisions.

"We can offer resistance and defiance, with their harvest of strife and tumult. We can suffer continued demonstrations, with their wake of violence and disorder. Or, we can acknowledge this measure as the law of the land. We can accept the verdict of the nation."

Rep. John V. Lindsay, a member of the liberal wing of the Republican party, attacked contentions that the bill was unconstitutional. Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, leading candidate for the GOP presidential nomination, voted against the bill in the Senate on grounds that parts of it were unconstitutional.

Car's Skid Knocks Out San Rafael Motorist

Robert Francis Gavin, 22, a heavy equipment operator of 315 Prospect Drive, San Rafael, was knocked unconscious and cut on the forehead when his car skidded 60 feet and rolled over against a tree at Belle Avenue and Elm Street in San Rafael at 3:30 a.m. today.

He was reported in good condition at San Rafael General Hospital. San Rafael police said Gavin was eastbound on Belle Avenue.

Variety Store's Safe Broken Into During Daytime

Cash totalling $410 was taken from a cabinet safe in the 188 Variety Store at 871 Fourth Street, San Rafael, between 3 p.m. and store closing time at 5:30 p.m. yesterday, San Rafael police reported today.

Owner Joseph Hok discovered the loss at 9:30 p.m. when he went to the store to work on the books.

Police Inspector Thomas Cheetham said the light metal door of the safe was apparently pried open with a screwdriver that was found nearby in the small office.

Included in the loss was one $100 bill.

Cheetham said the one attendant in the store at the time was at the cash register and could not see the office area.

Thief Enters Bedroom, Steals Wallet, $360

A thief last night entered the bedroom of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie L. Combs of 301 Oakdale Avenue, Mill Valley, and while the pair slept, stole Combs' wallet containing $360 from his dresser drawer and took a watch, ring and two credit cards from Mrs. Combs' purse.

It was the second time in about a month that the Combs' house had been entered in such manner. About one month ago, while Combs slept and his wife, a nurse, was at work, $500 was stolen from his wallet.

Police Lt. William Walsh said today that Combs could not have heard the thief since he wears a hearing aid and it was removed. His wife, who recently injured her back at the hospital where she works while lifting an oxygen tank, had last night taken strong sedatives so that she could sleep.

The burglary occurred between about 11 p.m. yesterday and 8:15 a.m. today.

Art Gallery Wins Nod On Off-Street Parking

Sausalito planning commissioners last night approved a variance from offstreet parking requested by Neil Davis to allow him to convert an apartment to an art gallery above his bar, No Name, at 759 Bridgeway.

The vote was 4-2, commissioners Roy Starbird and Alan D. Bonapart voting "no." They held that if upstairs residential areas, of which Sausalito has many, are converted one by one to commercial use it will result in a major parking problem, Robert L. Nissen, chairman, reported.

Chamber Eyes Sales Problem For Novato

"People, Profits and You," a film describing a newspaper's role in community promotions, was shown to the Novato Chamber of Commerce breakfast meeting today at Cloud Five restaurant.

"You should advertise when there is a demand for your product and business is good," said William Siler of the Independent-Journal, who obtained the film for the meeting and was a member of a discussion panel.

Paul Fry, panel member and past president of the Junior Chamber, said a recent Jaycee survey showed Novato residents felt that there was no opportunity to spend their "big dollars" in Novato.

"The local merchants are underestimating the buyers' desire for quality," Fry said.

Gordon Adams, advertising manager of the Novato Advance, said that he thought city-wide sales events were effective.

Intensive Search Fails To Trace Missing Man

Ten men on horseback and eight sheriff's deputies on foot, walking practically hand-to-hand, searched the slopes of Mount Tamalpais down to Stinson Beach yesterday, but failed to find any clue to Frank W. Meyer, 39-year-old Oakland electrician missing since June 21.

Sheriff's Capt. Sidney Stinson said bloodhounds, posses and deputies have searched in every direction from the spot where Meyer's locked pickup truck was found near Ridgecrest Road.

A set of keys, belonging to Meyer, was found in the locked truck, Stinson said, but no other clue has been discovered.

Meyer was en route from San Mateo to a church convention in Portland, Ore., when he disappeared.

There was no search under way today.

Civic Center Bond Issue Plan Is Aired

Marin County should thoroughly review financing for all capital outlay projects planned for the next five years before calling an election for a Civic Center bond issue, Mrs. Margaret B. Azevedo, chairman of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs, declared today.

Mrs. Azevedo was one of three speakers on a radio KTIM "Marin Sounding Board" panel on the proposal to seek a bond issue to build the second wing of the Civic Center.

Other panelists were Michael Mitchell, county auditor-controller, and Alan Bruce, county administrator. Both said the planned "pay as you go" financing for the Civic Center was no longer feasible.

"The 'pay as you go' plan should always be a part of the total financing program, but we need a more balanced plan including both 'pay as you go' and bonding methods," Bruce said.

The county board of supervisors has set 15 cents in the tax rate for 1964-65 toward Civic Center financing. At that rate, it would take 15 years to accumulate the money for the second wing of the center, Bruce declared.

If the allocation were increased to 63 cents on the tax rate for the next three years, the money would be accumulated at the end of that period, but this would cost the average taxpayer $35.91 per year, he said.

Bruce said present taxpayers should not be expected to completely finance construction which would be used by future generations.

Repayment of the bonds could be made over a 25-year period at a cost of $3.62 per year for the average taxpayer, he said.

Mrs. Azevedo posed several questions about the proposed bond issue.

"What will we do if the proposal does not get the approval of two-thirds of the voters? Marin is one of the few counties in the nation which has no bonded indebtedness and it has not been distinguished in its ability to pass bond issues," she said.

"If the bond election fails, we will be farther behind than ever in accumulating money to continue the 'pay as you go' program."

Bruce, in answer to a question from a listener to moderator Kitty Oppenheimer, explained that the cost of the second wing was greater than that the first stage because it will be larger, because courtrooms and jail are more expensive to build than other offices, and because of inflation.

CITY FATHERS WEARY, PUT OFF BUDGET

The Larkspur City Council, at the end of a seven-hour and 20-minute meeting early today, decided to put off discussion on the budget for the next fiscal year to a meeting called for July 8 at 8 p.m.

The council approved a $4,000 appropriation to the Larkspur-Corte Madera joint recreation commission and approved $17,539.05 in warrants.

Sausalito May Employ Police Cadet

The Sausalito City Council finance committee last night recommended the program, under which a college student would be hired to man the police station as a dispatcher, to be paid about $3,000 a year.

Should the council approve hiring a cadet, the request in the 1964-65 budget for a part-time police clerk would be eliminated. The students, said City Mgr. Charles A. Brown, would be in a training program and would be expected to be hired later as a police officer.

The committee said it is interested in the program on a limited basis — one cadet — instead of three cadets as proposed by Police Chief Kenneth H. Huck.

Salaries for all city employees were reviewed and recommendations are to be made at the council meeting Tuesday, said Brown.

The committee agreed to recommend increases of $4,900 in the budget for the parking attendant program and about $8,000 in the city's insurance.

All five councilmen were present.

Hub City School Budget Means 36-Cent Tax Hike

The San Anselmo School District board last night approved a tentative budget of $1,177,151 for submission to County Supt. Virgil S. Hollis. Final aproval is slated for July 21.

The budget calls for an increase over last year of $132,977, which is expected to require an operating tax rate increase of 33 cents to $2.13. Bond and loan repayment and override taxes are expected to go up three cents to 84 cents, for a total tax rate of $2.97, a hike of 36 cents over last year.

The operating tax boost is about two-thirds of the increase from $1.80 to $2.25 approved by the voters last October.

The extra funds are intended to pay for salary increases and additions to the teaching staffs. Supt. Stephen Parodi noted that the board has not taken advantage of a new law by which it could levy an extra tax for health and welfare benefits for teachers and other employees.

The board decided to delay until July 21 action on a procedural guide for teachers who have complaints to make to their principals or the superintendent.

The board heard approval of the guide urged by Martha Bartlett, president of the San Anselmo Elementry School Teachers Assn., and Dorothy Jones, co-chairman of the association's professional relations committee.

Mrs. Doris M. Harnsberger was chosen board president for the fiscal year, succeeding Robert W. Corlett. Dr. Elmer E. Weden was named clerk, succeeding Mrs. Harnsberger. Superintendent Parodi will continue as secretary to the board.

The San Anselmo School District board also:

1. Granted Sunny Hills Home permission to use school property next to Redhill for parking during a country auction July 25 and the Grape Festival in October.
2. Set its next meeting for 8 p.m. July 21, the date of the $700,000 bond and $500,000 state loan election in the district.

State Senator's Wife Files Suit For Divorce

SAN JOSE (UPI) — State Sen. Clark L. Bradley, (R-San Jose), is being sued for divorce by his wife, Carol, after 31 years of marriage.

In a suit filed in superior court yesterday, Mrs. Bradley charged him with mental cruelty over a three year period. They were married in 1933 and separated in 1960, the suit said. Mrs. Bradley asked a $50,000 property settlement which she would receive at the rate of $400 a month.

Police Track Down Suspect In Store Theft

Dogged detective work by police in San Rafael and San Anselmo led to the arrest of a Seattle, Wash., businessman and the recovery of about $17,000 worth of office machines taken in Marin burglaries.

Asst. Chief Sam N. Serio of San Anselmo and Inspector Richard Camper of San Rafael gave information to Seattle police to crack the case.

Arrested was Kurt E. Hellman, a dealer in office machines. In his store were found 10 cash registers taken April 19 from the National Cash Register Co. at 4270 Redwood Highway, San Rafael. Two machines taken from the Watkin and Sibbald office at 6 Bridge Avenue, San Anselmo, last February were also recovered.

It was description of these stolen machines which gave Seattle officers the evidence they needed to charge Hellman with grand larceny and receiving stolen goods.

Serio said about $700 worth of machines were stolen from the Watkin and Sibbald office. He said two of these still had the serial numbers on them and have been recovered. Other machines had the numbers filed off, he said.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation also entered the case because the loot was shipped across state lines to Hellman after the burglaries. Police are on the trail of two men suspected of the actual theft.

District Hears Water Pact Draft

An adjusted draft of the proposed agreement with Miwok Corp. for a new water system to be installed for the Miwok subdivision at Muir Beach was read last night to the Muir Beach Community Services District board.

It was agreed that the draft will be forwarded to the district's and Miwok's attorneys for further negotiations, reported Jack F. Harris, president. Richard V. Godino, the district's attorney, is to report back to the board.

Thomas A. Norton, sat on the board for the first time and Harris began serving his first full term. Harris had served out the unexpired term of director Leslie Smith who resigned.

Kentfield Post Office Job To Begin Within 6 Months

Construction of the Kentfield Post Office on a College Avenue site opposite the College of Marin will start within five or six months, Willard Patton of Sequoia Realty, Mill Valley, said today.

Patton is handling construction arrangements for Dr. Ethel Righetti of San Francisco, owner of the property the government is leasing. The building, when completed according to post office specifications, will be leased from Dr. Righetti.

Patton said a contractor has been selected, but he did not want to reveal his name at this time. Building plans will have to be revamped to fit the site, he said. The structure will cost under $60,000, Patton added.

The Post Office Department has signed a 10-year lease on the property, with two five-year renewal options at a basic annual rental of $6,600. Construction is expected to be completed within six months of the signing of the lease on Tuesday, a spokesman said.

The Kentfield Post Office, a branch of the San Rafael office, has been located at 1110 Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur, for the past year and a half. Its lease at a former location in the Kent Woodlands Shopping Center was allowed to expire.

San Anselmo Firm Gets Highway Building Job

The project is for widening, resurfacing and installing drainage facilities on portions of the highway totaling 4.9 miles between one-half mile north of the Black Point Cutoff and the Marin-Sonoma line, the California Division of Highways announced.

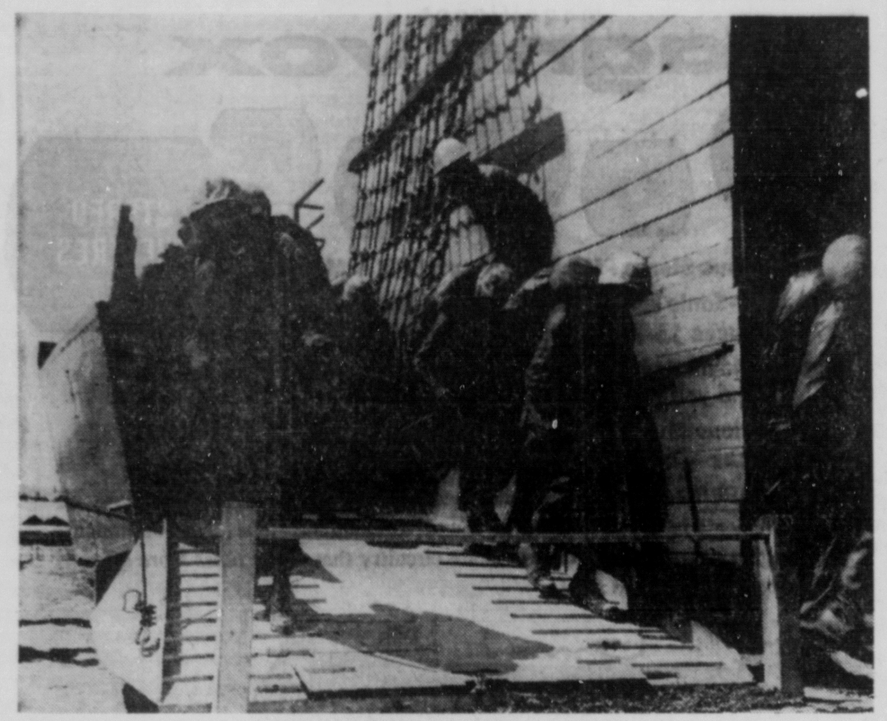
MARINES PRACTICE BEACH ASSAULT

A 250-yard swim to shore through heavy surf begins a beach assault as part of amphibious landing force training last week for Marine Reserve units at Coronado, San Diego County. Included in the training units are M Company of San Rafael. The unit, part of Third Battalion, 23rd Marines, will return home Friday.



RESERVISTS PRACTICE DRY RUN —Marine reserves, including M Company of San Rafael, move out of an LCVP (landing craft vehicle personnel) during dry run training prior to going aboard ship for a practice beach assault at summer training, Coronado, San Diego County. The men will swim some 300 yards to shore through surf to attack Red Beach.

President Lauds Win Over Congress Pursestring Czar

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Lyndon B. Johnson has hailed House passage of a 3.3-billion-dollar foreign aid bill as a victory for American foreign policy and the American people.

Final House action on the measure came late Wednesday after Rep. Otto E. Passman (D-La.) was defeated in his efforts to make further cuts in the total which already had been reduced $200 million from Johnson's original "barebones" request for 3.5 billion dollars. The reduction was the smallest since the Korean War.

Johnson promptly issued a statement saying the House action was "in line with the best interests of America and the best interests of the Free World.

"I congratulate the members who backed the measure which was realistically and honestly conceived. This is an important victory for American foreign policy and that means for every American citizen."

Passage came on a 231-174 roll call vote, with 176 Democrats and 55 Republicans voting in favor of the measure. Opposed were 63 Democrats and 111 Republicans.

The appropriations measure which provides the foreign aid money was then sent to the Senate, where the Foreign Relations Committee is working on the President's foreign aid authorization request. This first step merely sets the ceiling on foreign aid spending. Action on the authorization will follow.

Wednesday's vote ended 10 years of dominant influence by Passman over foreign aid funds in the House. He is chairman of a House Appropriations sub-committee that handles foreign aid.

But he pledged to "keep on fighting this monstrosity" and asked "I don't think 9 times out of 10 is too bad an average, do you?"

He had made a last effort to slice another 247 million dollars from the aid program and lost on a 208-198 roll call vote.

Negro Boy Found Hanged, Father Calls It Murder

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A Negro boy found hanged in a wooded area was identified by his father today as Jerry Maxey, 14, "a kid who wouldn't bother anybody."

The father, Robert Maxey, 41, a mail porter at Atlanta Terminals, said he was sure his son had been murdered.

"He wasn't despondent in any way," Maxey said. "He was a happy little boy. He wouldn't have killed himself."

The boy was one of four sons of Maxey and his wife. They also have four daughters. The family lives about a mile from where the body was found yesterday hanging from a tree in a northwest Atlanta urban renewal area.

Hunt Drags On For Rights Trio In Mississippi

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (UPI) — State troopers, FBI agents and a force of 400 Navy men doggedly combed fields, backroads and woodlands again today for three civil rights workers who disappeared 11 days ago.

Although no tract of the three has been found, state investigators said yesterday they were "pleased" with the progress of the search. Under further questioning they said the optimistic statement was based on the fact that morale of searchers is still high.

The hunt today was concentrated in the countries surrounding Neshoba County, where a station wagon belonging to the missing three was found burned near the Bogue Chitto Swamp.

The three integrationists were participatin in the "Mississippi Project," a drive aimed at signing up Negro voters in the state, at the time of their disappearance.

At Holly Springs, Miss., a white farmer, Robert Walker, 30, was charged with assault and battery in an incident involving another out-of-state "project" worker — Larry Rubin, 21, of Philadelphia, Pa.

A warrant obtained by the Council of Federated Organizations (COFO), the organizations coordinating the "Mississippi Project," charged Walker with threatening to fire a shotgun or pistol into Rubin's living quarters. Walker was freed under $1,000 bond after denying the charges.

In another related development, a Forest, Miss., businessman, Clifton McWilliams, called on President Lyndon B. Johnson to use federal force in a search for his brother, who dropped from sight June 7.

McWilliams sent a telegram to the President noting that the chief executive had ordered 400 navy men to aid in the search for the missing civil rights workers.

"I feel that I should get the same thorough investigation," McWilliams told the President. "Anything less would be discrimination against my brother and violation of my civil rights."

Race Tension Easing Off In Florida City

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (UPI) — The state highway patrol began withdrawing its forces from St. Augustine today in view of a truce that has brought racial peace to the historic tourist town.

Both integrationists and segregationists called off further demonstrations Tuesday after Gov. Farris Bryant appointed a biracial committee to study local racial problems. Businessmen followed up this development yesterday by announcing they would fully comply with the new pending civil rights law.

Patrol Officer Lee Simmons said most of the force would leave St. Augustine today but would "be on call to respond immediately if needed."

He would not say how many men would remain. The state had a force of more than 230 officers here at the peak of the racial trouble.

Gov. Bryant said he has not disclosed the identities of those he appointed to his biracial committee because he did not want to make their job more difficult.

Malcolm X Threatens Guerilla War In Dixie

NEW YORK (UPI) — Militant black nationalist Malcolm X vowed yesterday to wage guerrilla warfare against racists in Mississippi and other southern states.

Malcolm said he would send squads of armed guerrillas into the South to protect Negroes from "terror and brutality" of the Ku Klux Klan. He said the squads would act only defensively.

"The only way an inferior force can compete against a better armed superior force is with the science of guerrilla warfare," the black nationalist said. "The Klan elements in the South are well known. We believe that whenever they strike against the Negro, the Negro has a chance to strike back."

Malcolm also implied that he would use "white infiltrators" to gather intelligence about racist activities in the South.

"It will take a while to do it. And you would be surprised how many whites, students and older persons, are fed up with the situation."

In an interview at his New York headquarters, Malcolm said: "Those people in Mississippi are in for a shock if they think the Negroes will take brutality this summer.

"If President (Lyndon B.) Johnson doesn't do his duty and use federal troops to protect the lives and property of Negroes, we definitely will do our utmost to show we can defend our people in America—the way we defended them (and other Americans) in Korea," he said. "We will take every Negro veteran we can into that state."

Malcolm said his guerrilla campaign was not directed against whites generally, but against "the white racist."

Discussing tactics, Malcolm said:

"We won't go into a community marching down a road in formation, that would be suicide. We will infiltrate and then strike."

SHAKESPEARE IN GARDEN SETTING

Bowman Does His Bit At Marin Art, Garden Fair

Del Pino of 133 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo, and the rest of Robin Hood's men are operating in the "Sherwood Forest" section of the fairgrounds in Ross.

Nodding toward the stuffed sheriff, Del Pino said, "That guy's been giving us a lot of trouble." At the request of a photographer, he let the sheriff have it with an arrow that sped to its mark at about 90 miles an hour.

"Friar Tuck will be here too," Del Pino said as he displayed his quarter-staff, a wicked, wooden hand weapon.

Del Pino also had a collection of arrows bearing his crest, a series of gold, green, silver and brown markings.

His name in Italian means "of the pine," he said, and the markings signify the tree . . . "the gold for sunshine, the green for leaves, the silver for bark and the brown for the trunk."

The Northwood Bowmen's Club started about 12 or 14 years ago and grew to about 100 members, including families, he said.

Members of the club decided to wear the Robin Hood costumes after the fair picked its theme, "In a Medieval Manner," he said.

As for the costume itself, Del Pino said, "It's too darn hot."

Aby Is New Chairman Of Bay Pollution Board

Dr. Charles W. Aby, San Rafael city councilman, became chairman yesterday of the Bay Area Pollution Control District board.

Aby, who served the past fiscal year as district secretary, replaces outgoing chairman Alberto E. Merrill, Los Gatos city councilman.

Directors at yesterday's annual meeting also heard chief administrative officer D. J. Cullaghan report that control work during the year succeeded in eliminating 60 tons of dust and pollutants from the air. He also said that as of June 30 there were 4,373 Bay Area firms conforming to air pollution control standards.

The board went on record in support of property tax relief that would give industries a tax break on investments in pollution control devices.

Other officers elected yesterday were Supervisor T. Louis Chess of San Mateo County, vice chairman, and Supervisor James P. Kenney of Contra Costa County, secretary.

Marin Has Half-A-Loaf So Far In Stanford Industrial Study

By ROBERT M. COPPOCK

The Marin County economic activity study by the Stanford Research Institute lists three pages of industries which would be suitable for Marin County, and another page of non-industrial businesses which should also be sought.

But it does not tell how to get them.

The study made an analysis of the county to learn what it could offer industry, and what industry would not hurt the residential character of the county. But suggestions on action were saved for phase two, which the county has not yet ordered.

When the study was proposed last August by Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker, there was no presumption that the work would be done in two parts. Leydecker said the study should both tell what kinds of economic activity should be sought, and how to get the industry or business to move in.

Leydecker was then made chairman of a three-man committee, with county administrator Alan Bruce and auditor-controller Michael Mitchell, to make arrangements for a study, estimated to cost $30,000.

The Draper Companies contributed $15,000, and other private firms added smaller amounts, usually checks of $500 or $1,000.

When the board of supervisors approved the arrangement with the Stanford Research Institute last Nov. 5, however, the plan had split like an amoeba into two plans. The first part, called "Objective 1" in Institute letters to Bruce's office, was to cost $25,400.

The supervisors agreed to go ahead with the study, based on a "proposal for research" made by the research firm Oct. 25. In the proposal, it was clear that two studies were contemplated, although the cost of the second phase was not indicated.

The split was apparently caused by comments written by Bruce to the Institute after reviewing a first draft of the proposal, some weeks before it went to the board.

In that draft, finding out what types of economic activities would help Marin was called "Objective 1" and figuring out how to attract them was "Objective 2." The proposal said that the main job would be "Objective 1," and that work on the second project would only be done until the time and money for the project ran out.

No one could tell, the draft said, what "Objective 2" will cost until the first part was done and the possibilities laid out.

Bruce wrote back, saying that the second job was at least as important as the first, and should not just be a tag end to the project. He agreed, however, that the second objective would be hard to budget for, since it might even be found that Marin had no possibilities for improving the tax base, which would mean "objective 2" would cost nothing.

The research institute revised the draft, and the objectives became "phases," with the first phase taking up the entire $25,400. It was this revision which was quickly acted upon by the supervisors.

Bruce said yesterday that the second phase would cost much less than the first, if the county agrees to buy it. He said he has received oral assurances of this from the institute in Menlo Park, but nothing in writing. The county preliminary budget has $6,500 set aside for phase two.

The phase one report made one suggestion for courting industry. The zoning ordinance as regards industry should be drastically revised, the study said. The new ordinance should set standards for levels of nuisance factors to be allowed, but should not specifically exclude any type of industry.

Minister Expelled Over Myth Claim

SHEFFIELD, England (AP) — A Methodist minister who calls the Virgin birth "a piece of mythology" has been expelled from the ministry on a heresy charge.

"I am no longer a Methodist minister," Walter Gill, 49, said after a two-hour hearing before the church conference Tuesday. There is no appeal from the decision.

Gill, who had been minister to three churches in northern England, said he has a wife, two children and "not a bean in the world."

Remembered His Boyhood; Gave Sausalito Playground

Stanley S. Langendorf did more than meet a need for a children's playground in Sausalito by donating a valuable site at Easterby Street and Woodward Avenue. As an outstanding executive in the nation's baking industry, he also produced "the dough" to make the playground a reality.

Sausalito's Recreation Commission long felt the need of a children's playground in the Spring Valley area. Two valuable pieces of property owned by Langendorf were eyed as ideal locations.

The Recreation Commission took the matter of a site up with Langendorf. His response was to offer, free of cost, either site the commission wanted. The site was selected, and the land donated.

The Sausalito City Council passed a resolution, thanking Langendorf. And Acting Mayor Gabrielson delivered a copy of it the resolution to the donor.

Langendorf's interest in children's recreation has continued since he was a member of San Francisco's Columbia Park Boys' Club. He knew a site wasn't enough.

"How much will it cost to fully equip this new playground with slides, swings and other facilities?" he asked Gabrielson. Told that it would be $5,000, Langendorf immediately presented a check for that amount.

Proving that those benefitted as youngsters remember the benefits they received—and are willing to help other juveniles.

Gate Bridge Second Deck Study

Interesting over an ever-widening area is the plan of the Golden Gate Bridge directors to have its engineering consultants study feasibility of a second deck.

Should feasibility be established, and financial cost be found in order, this might make unnecessary the much-argued idea of that line of arches for traffic direction on the bridge itself.

And wouldn't it be well to also ascertain if the extra support and strengthening of the big span for the second deck could also make possible the use of the bridge as part of the Bay Area's original rapid transit plan?

OPERATES CAR FOR 30 YEARS; NO LICENSE

A man who drove an automobile for 30 years without ever having an operator's license was finally brought to book.

It all came to light when he was stopped by police for a routine check. When brought into court, he admitted to the magistrate that he had failed his first driver's test 30 years before and had never bothered to reapply for a license.

The negligent motorist was fined a total of $95—$3 for each year of his neglect, plus $5 for court costs.

There is a strong temptation to evade regulations when we do not realize their overall purpose in maintaining a safe and sane world.

While exercising your own freedom, show restraint lest you infringe on the legitimate liberties of others.

Observe reasonable restrictions in both private and public life and you will be doing your part to apply God's law to the running of human affairs.

Alcohol Control Director Leaves Post For Business

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — California is losing a dedicated public servant, and the nation's distilling industry is gaining a top administrator next month when Malcolm Harris, director of the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control leaves his job here and goes to Washington, D.C., to become the executive vice-president of the distillers institute.

Governor Edmund G. Brown told Harris "there is no resignation I am more reluctant to accept than yours, but your wonderful new opportunity makes it impossible to do otherwise."

Harris himself is justifiably proud of his department and the men it contains. They are younger men, recruited from colleges, police departments and other government agencies and, as Harris says, are interested in doing a job of enforcing the provisions of the Alcoholic Beverages Control Act.

Russ Munro, a former director of the department, began the big task of shaping up the administration of liquor laws, and Harris, his successor, continued it. The result is a department that is and has been for several years now, something of a model in the handling of liquor matters.

When the state legislature reorganized liquor control, removing it from the hands of the state board of equalization, administration of the state's regulations on alcohol sales, was somewhat in disrepute. In fact, it reached a major scandal in Southern California. Convictions were obtained for irregular practices, one assemblyman went to jail, and the former chairman of the state board, William G. Bonelli, was charged with various offenses.

Bonelli skipped the country, and still is a fugitive from justice, presumably in Mexico. Other officials served their terms and quietly disappeared from the political life of California.

The new department had a succession of directors, all of whom were interested primarily in putting it on a strictly enforcement basis, working with the liquor interests it was supposed to regulate and, at the same time, giving the people of the state an even break in the purchase of liquor.

Harris has continued along this line. He has not deviated from the course of good administration, nor favored any particular interest in the administration of the law.

He is concerned over the situation that exists today in the sale of licenses, and believes that is the number one problem the state has to face in the future.

Licenses sell for a high as $40,000, he points out, while the state gets only $6,000 for an original license. The profiteering, says Harris, is not good for the liquor industry. He has no ready answer to the question of how to stop the profiteering, and neither has anyone else. But, he points out, there can be a way if the legislature puts its mind to working out the problem.

Not only will Harris' superior regret his leaving, but also the liquor industry, to whom he has been fair, honest and just.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Inside Lane, Slow Speed; Six Dead

EDITOR, Independent-Journal:

With reference to the tragic accident when the lives of six people were needlessly snuffed out, I should like to offer the theory that almost, if not all of the blame, would appear to rest with a slow-moving north bound driver, driving in the middle or left traffic lane. It must be assumed that this vehicle, being in the fast lane, was the reason for the fast-moving sport car having to pass it by swerving into the right lane. Then, as the speeding car attempted to turn back into the fast lane, it went out of adequate control and collided head-on with the southbound Neal car, which, according to published reports "was driving at a steady 55 miles an hour" also in the center lane.

Driving at that speed in the center lane all too frequently causes "exasperation" accidents, which usually involve other drivers while the slow-moving driver proceeds serenely, and often unconsciously on his way, heedless of the destruction he often has caused. . . .

It certainly appears that much, if not most of the responsibility for that tragedy must rest with the wrong-lane slow drivers, which might be well-noted by other similarly inclined drivers.

Unruh School Act Opposition Stated

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Because of erroneous information published in your paper as a result of hasty reporting by the wire services, I submit the following information concerning the referendum movement on the Unruh School Act.

A group of citizens throughout the State have formed the Committee To Retain Citizens' Control Of Schools. This is a grass roots effort. It was NOT started by the Calif. Small School Districts Assn., but that group has since discussed the movement at its executive board meeting last weekend (June 27 and 28) and voted unanimously to endorse and support the committee in its circulation of petitions. In the event that the wire services failed to inform you, a copy of the press release is enclosed.

The referendum does not affect finances for the school year 1964-65. The sole purpose of the Committee To Retain Citizens' Control Of Schools is to give the people of California a chance to decide if they want certain sections of the Unruh School Act to become law. These sections concern school district reorganization.

The portions of the Act objected to, in our opinion, constitute a subversion of proper democratic procedures and will lead to the ultimate destruction of control of the public schools of California by the citizens who support those schools. These portions are also in direct conflict with the recommendations of the Assembly Interim Committee on Education which, in its report issued January 7, 1963, stated: "The committee believes that district reorganization should occur on the basis of primary local and educational factors and not on the basis of financial bribes offered by the State."

By the time that the Unruh School Act came to the floor of the Legislature for a final vote, 42 pages of complex amendments had been incorporated into the bill, which had originally contained about 14 pages. No public testimony was heard on these amendments. The bill was passed hastily, without proper consideration and understanding of its contents. Some thought it was a school money bill; it is not. The additional funds appropriated for the next school year are contained in the budget bill, not in the Unruh Act.

The Unruh School Act would bring about a unique change in election practices. It mandates repeated elections at which fundamental changes would be made no matter which way the people vote. It offers a financial bribe to encourage the voter to accept one form of school district reorganization only, the unified district, while providing increased taxation without a tax election as a punishment if unification is rejected.

Current school district reorganization studies, proceeding throughout California under already existing statutes, are ignored. No regard is given to local needs and problems. No evidence is presented that reorganization under this Act will produce any improvement in education. No money will be saved by the taxpayers; in fact, Governor Brown has already said that State taxes will have to be raised because of it.

The Unruh School Act abolishes augmented county committees on school district organization. This means that school trustees, elected by the voters in their respective districts, will no longer be able to represent the people who elected them in any studies concerning reorganization of their own school district. Instead, only those proposals decided upon by basic county committees, composed of people who do not stand for election at the polls, and subsequently approved by the State Board of Education whose members are political appointees of the Governor, will ever reach the voters. If those proposals are rejected by the voters, this law would force another election every two years, presumably until the voters are so worn down that they are willing to accept the proposals whether or not education would be benefited.

We believe that the Unruh School Act was enacted by political manipulation and for political purposes. We further believe that it is high time that the people of California have something to say in the matter of the use of their children's schools for the advancement of the political ambitions of certain elements in our society. If you or any of your readers are approached by a circulator, we ask that you sign this referendum petition and allow the issue to be placed upon the November ballot. In this way, a full-scale effort can be made to let our legislators know that we wish to retain citizen control of our public schools.

Committee To Retain Citizens' Control of Schools.

A FLAMBOYANT gentleman, sporting a beret, paint-stained smock, and long-flowing beard, was consulting a prominent psychiatrist. "You say you are NOT an artist?" queried the latter. 'Then why the beret, smock, and beard?" "That," proclaimed the visitor, "is what I am here to find out."

TOILERS in television have a jargon of their own. Cynthia Lowry has collected a few of their more colorful definitions:

"Billboard" is an announcement at the begining or end of a program giving the sponsor credit. "A burp" is an extraneous noise on TV circuits. A "crawk" is a performer with the ability to imitate a wide variety of animal sounds. A "hitch hike" is a commercial at the end of a program for a sponsor's product which is not advertised earlier in the program. And the "nut" is the complete cost of producing a program.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES:

In a beanery: "Try our enthusiastic stew. We put everything we had in it."

Guerrilla Specialist Views Vietnam's Long Range Problems

WASHINGTON — What should be done to win the war in South Vietnam?

We are getting a variety of answers from politicians and others ranging from "pull out" to "use atomic bombs."

In the interests of a better understanding of the problem and its possible solution, I want to present the views a guerrilla warfare specialist, Maj. Irwin C. Nye of the Army's Special Warfare Center at Fort Bragg, N.C., who has given me permission to quote from his letter.

HE NOTES that news reports from Saigon often suggest that "the Vietnamese military leaders are not aggressive enough, that they fail to follow the advice of their U.S. advisors, that they are afraid of the dark and of the rainy season." But there is a reason: "both soldiers and civilians are sick to death of the long war . . . ."

Major Nye stresses the view that the Vietnamese military "are afraid to be too open and aggressive in support of a government which still cannot safeguard them and their families against Viet Cong attrocities," and that "the Viet Cong is organized and psychologically prepared to continue the fight almost indefinitely, as long as the general populace remains uncommitted to either side of the fight."

He contends that "for the U.S. to attempt to assume command over South Vietnamese (military) personnel could, at this point, assure a Communist win. For us to do the job with conventional U.S. troops doing the fighting would frustrate us completely and assure a political loss right here at home, just as the French were beaten at home at the time of Dien Bien Phu."

AS TO WHAT should be done, Major Nye has three recommendations for additional American effort:

1. The Vietnamese should impose a population and material movement control within the country, including cargo inspection, to restrict the flow of munitions and the raw materials from which they can be made to keep them from reaching the Viet Cong at places where they are needed.

2. Improvement of the Vietnamese standard of living is urgently needed, including better schools, dispensaries and hospitals, small industries, crop diversification, distribution and communication. This must be done "with the help of family and religious leaders and other traditional 'opinion formers.'"

3. Teach the military and the civilians how better to defend themselves against terror, assassination, ambush and other guerrilla-type attacks.

Major Nye emphasizes that once progress is made in the first two areas, "the third problem will be less difficult. If people are convinced that they can pull themselves up by their bootstraps to a better tomorrow, they will be willing to fight and die today. The secret is in convincing them that their own best interests lie on the side of the struggle we are supporting."

MAJOR NYE is convinced that if we fail or pull out of South Vietnam, the U.S. ". . . . probably would be more reluctant than ever to provide continuing support to other nations in Asia, Africa and South America when the Communist aggression is stepped up there."

Both the Communists and we are committed, Major Nye says, "to see this struggle through—or to lose far more than a corner of Asia. If we cannot find eventual victory in the swamps and jungles, hearts and minds of Vietnam, there is little hope that we can do so elsewhere."

Summing up his hopes and recommendations for Vietnam, Major Nye concludes ". . . if we are to invest endless American lives, money and resources toward winning the struggle in Vietnam, is it not best that we work toward a permanent victory instead of a purely military one?"

It seems to me that Major Nye is quite right and I think that this view is increasingly shared by those who are making policy.

THE ALLEN-SCOTT REPORT

Kennedy To Decide Future Political Post

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

Now back from Europe, Bobby must decide whether to accept a new career within the Johnson administration or continue his backstage preparations to force his way on the Democratic national ticket.

THIS UNPUBLICIZED fork in his political road was reached by Kennedy when President Johnson offered him a chance to continue his government service in either a high-level defense or diplomatic post — depending upon his own choice.

While these private Johnson-Kennedy discussions still are inconclusive, a pre-convention decision by Kennedy is being forced by a White House-supported move by Ambassador Adlai Stevenson to go after the Democratic senatorial nomination in New York.

Stevenson is now telling political intimates he plans to leave his post as U.S. Ambassador to the U.N. to try to unseat GOP Senator Kenneth Keating.

Stevenson's still - to - be - announced return to the political wars will touch off a game of musical chairs within the administration, clearing the way for President Johnson to appoint Kennedy to one of at least two cabinet-level positions.

ACCORDING TO administration insiders, the president's discussions with the attorney general centered around his possible appointment either to Stevenson's post or as secretary of defense, although other positions were mentioned.

The consensus was that if Kennedy wanted the Pentagon post, Defense Secretary McNamara would be shifted to the State Department, replacing Secretary Rusk, who would go to the U.N. If Kennedy decided on the U.N. post, Rusk's shift would be delayed several months.

President Johnson's proposal, which could solve his "Kennedy problem" for several years, is being sugar-coated with "leaks" from the White House that the relationship between the President and the attorney general has considerably improved in recent weeks.

These stories, which also have met with approval at the Justice Department, have prevented a potentially explosive split in the Democratic party from breaking into the open prior to the national convention.

WHILE KENNEDY ponders the President's "peace" offer, both his supporters and those of the White House continue their guerrilla warfare to strengthen their positions for a possible convention confrontation.

In the Midwest political jungles, President Johnson has taken the offensive in Wisconsin by selecting Senator Gaylord Nelson as campaign coordinator for that state.

This politically astute move, while not decisive in controlling the state's delegation, is a definite slap at Governor John Reynolds, who is working undercover to lineup the Democratic governors to support an "open contest" for the vice presidential nomination.

This maneuvering for a "free-for-all contest" goes to the heart of Kennedy's strategy to ignite a "draft" at the convention for his nomination as Johnson's running mate. Kennedy still has not called a halt to these maneuvers indicating the Rubicon is still uncrossed.

Friends say those morose newspaper photographs of Bobby are due in part to "fretting" that he may be the next target of an assassin.

Charitable Fund Aware Of Academic 'Go-Slow' Tendencies

Last week it was made known that the trustees were making $15,000 available to the College of Marin and Marin General Hospital to pay the salary and office expenses of a director for a two-year registered nursing program.

There was one stipulation to the offer — that the planning stage of the program last for no longer than one year, and that the first students be enrolled in the semester following completion of the planning stage.

A wise decision, oriented toward the desire to see action. Already the academic voices in favor of long drawn out studies had been heard.

ON JUNE 16, the President's Council at the College of Marin voted to table any recommendation on establishing a registered nursing program "until next semester with the assurance that the President's Council is not opposed to the project, but feel they need time to study the plans for the program."

College President Dr. Stephen E. Epler will recommend to the district board tonight that the President's Council recommendation be overridden and the gift be accepted.

The President's council, however, hasn't tabled everything to come before it.

A POLICY STATEMENT on hiring which "invites" members of minority groups to apply for openings at the college and "urges" them to qualify themselves for employment at the college has been ratified.

As it will be presented to the board tonight, the new statement would replace the existing policy of employment "on the basis of merit and professional and occupational qualifications without regard to race, color, religious creed or national origin."

THE NEW POLICY states in part:

"The College invites persons belonging to minority groups to apply for employment and assures them that they will be judged solely on the basis of their professional qualifications.

"In addition, the College urges those members to minority groups who may not already be prepared for such positions to consider taking the necessary steps to qualify themselves for employment in publicly supported educational institutions such as ours."

The statement was drafted by the Academic Senate and approved by the President's Council.

Its significance lies in the fact that it goes beyond the label of "policy" into the realm of appeal.

The Marin Junior College District board will choose its officers for the new fiscal year at its meeting today at 8 p.m. in room 24 of Harlan Hall.

Legal Position Goes To Marin Army Officer

Lt. Col. David E. Trice of San Rafael has been appointed staff judge advocate of the Sixth Region, Army Air Defense Command, at Fort Baker, San Francisco.

He returned to his legal practice after the war, but was recalled to the service at the outbreak of the Korean War and served in Korea as a member of the Judge Advocate General's Corps. He has remained in the corps since then.

Councilman Withholds Vote On Appointment

The Tiburon City Council vote to elect Joseph C. Marshall to the Tiburon Planning Commission was three in favor, one abstaining and one opposed.

The Independent - Journal in Tuesday's issue incorrectly reported the vote as 3-to-2. Councilman Gordon W. Strawbridge, John S. Hoffmire Jr. and Anne L. Ellinwood voted approval of Marshall's appointment.

Councilman Fred C. Hannahs voted "no," saying he did not approve because the appointment would mean a commission which was poorly distributed, geographically, in the community. Councilman Leo Souza abstained.

Today is Thursday, July 2, the 184th day of 1964 with 182 to follow.

The moon is at its last quarter. The morning stars are Jupiter, Saturn, Venus and Mars.

On this day in history:

In 1776, the Continental Congress formally passed the Declaration of Independence, which was signed two days later.

In 1912, on the 46th ballot, Democrats meeting in Baltimore nominated Woodrow Wilson for president.

A thought for the day—Satirist Jonathan Swift said: "Every man desires to live long, but no man would be old."

There Are Times When You Must Strike Your Enemy's Strength

It's usually a good idea to attack the enemy where he is weakest, but there are also times when you must strike at his strength.

Sometimes the best way to kill the dummy is to use up its entries before they become effective.

Opening lead — ♣ 5

When this hand was played recently in a Swedish tournament, West opened the five of clubs, and East won with the queen. East continued with the ace of clubs, and West followed with the deuce.

NO PROBLEM

This told East that his partner had led a five-card suit and that South had no more clubs. East saw no problem; he switched to the jack of hearts, leading up to dummy's weakness.

This normal lead gave South the time he needed to set up one of dummy's diamonds. He stepped right up with the ace of hearts, led a diamond to dummy's ace and ruffed a diamond.

South continued with a low trump to dummy's seven, ruffed a diamond with a high trump, and led another low trump to dummy's nine. He ruffed still another diamond with the king of trumps and led a trump to dummy's queen.

CASHES DIAMOND

By this time dummy's last diamond was good, so declarer cashed it to get rid of a heart. This assured the game.

There was no need for East to lead hearts at the third trick. If East could shut out dummy's diamonds, South would have to give up any heart losers he might have.

The way to shut out the diamonds is to return a trump. Now South can ruff out the diamonds, but he is one entry short. He cannot get back to dummy for the last good diamond.

TRUMP RETURN

South wins the trump return in either hand, cashes the ace of diamonds and ruffs a diamond. He gets to dummy with the nine of spades to ruff another diamond, but these two ruffs do not set up the suit.

South must now lead a trump to dummy's queen and try the heart finesse. Since this loses, he is down one.

A switch to hearts at the third trick would be correct if East held only K-Q-x of diamonds. East would then be in a hurry to grab his heart tricks before the diamonds came in. With East's actual holding, the attack on dummy's entries would be more effective.

Memorial Hall Plan Outlined By Bruce

The Marin County Memorial Hall will be the west end of the County Fair pavilion, according to the tentative plans under study by the Frank Lloyd Wright foundation, County Administrator Alan Bruce told the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission yesterday.

At the other end will be an auditorium for the performing arts. Between the two will be the many-flagged, plastic-covered pavillion proposed in the original plans for the fairgrounds by Wright.

Bruce said the pavillion complex will be multi-use structure, when finally completed the wall of the Memorial Hall may be made so it can be opened, to allow even larger crowds than its 38,000 square feet would normally hold.

The Memorial Hall will use veterans' memorial funds and state fairgrounds pari-mutuel money combined, and should be opened by the fall of 1967, he reported.

The total cost, including plans, is estimated at $1,663,200.

Financing for the auditorium is unsure. Construction of that building is several years away, Bruce predicted. There have been discussions about a private subscription drive and foundation grants for the project.

Meanwhile, the Memorial Hall will have a stage, and the flat floor may be constructed on several levels, but will not be primarily suited for performing arts. The hall will, in essence, be an exhibit building.

The county administrator said the "program statement" by the architect is expected to reach the board of supervisors by early September, with the preliminary plans coming in six months later.

He said operation of the hall would not be controlled by veterans' organizations, although they will have some say in how things are run. He said the board of supervisors may administer the building directly, or appoint a commission. If the latter, the commission may have an interlocking structural arrangement with the parks and recreation commission, he suggested.

Mrs. Margaret Rose Brunhofer, 54, of 1111 Fourth Street in San Rafael, was found mentally incompetent by a Marin Municipal Court jury yesterday and will be committed to Napa State Hospital.

Alarm Unfounded Over Park Plan, State Says

There has been a major misconception about just what kind of negotiations are going on between the state and Marin Municipal Water District regarding a new state park including water district lands, Robert B. Hatch of the state Division of Beaches and Parks said yesterday.

Hatch, supervisor of special projects, said an even more serious misconception exists about the kind of recreational uses that would be allowed under any circumstances on the watersheds of the district reservoirs.

Speaking to the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission, Hatch said the present negotiations were not expected to lead to immediate acquisition of land, either by purchase or lease.

Rather, he said, the hope is to find out what kinds of activity would be suitable for the area, and what kinds of problems could be expected if more public recreation is encouraged. No such thing as "intensive use" has ever been proposed, he declared.

He said someone had taken a standard figure on the number of campsites which should be allowed per acre in a specific campgrounds, and multiplied that number by the number of acres proposed for use.

That many campsites would deplete the state's entire parks budget for years, Hatch scoffed. "We would have to have high-rise camping sites."

Hatch added that the water district would have control over any activity which might harm the quality of the water stored in district reservoirs in the land north of Mount Tamalpais and west of Ross and San Anselmo.

He said the division is not going to drop its study of the area, since it was ordered to make the study by the state legislature and actually has no choice in the matter.

The commission at a previous meeting had supported the idea of a state park on water district lands, and multiple use of district property.

Commissioners reviewed the parks and recreation budget as approved preliminarily by the county board of supervisors, and decided informally that the results were generally favorable, especially the $5,000 added for work on plans for Stafford Lake.

The Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission also:

1. Turned over to the County Administrator's office a request from the San Rafael Park and Recreation Commission for greater county support for the senior citizens program.
2. Saw a slide presentation on the proposed Humane Society animal shelter and educational center, planned for Ignacio.
3. Set a special meeting at 10 a.m. July 22 to review plans for the Muir Beach overlook, and Paradise Beach Park and to discuss work on the county master recreation plan.
4. Took a stand opposing the proposed 18,000 cubic yard dredging project by Waldo G. Giacomini in Lagunitas Creek near White House Pool.
5. Heard from Park Director Kelvin J. Nelson that questionnaires on a recreation program for the handicapped are nearly all in, and that a pilot program may be possible, using funds now available

Commissioners Gibbs H. Lawson and James M. Fletcher were absent.

Marinites Star In Educational Movie For Chemical Industry

An educational film depicting a young couple's progress raising fuchsias and begonias, sponsored by the Ortho Division of California Chemical Co. and to be released all over the country, seems to have an all-Marin locale, cast and technical staff.

The picture's beginning will include footage of the Marin Art and Garden Show, now in progress and of the San Anselmo home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kopp (who are the stars of the production). Their home was landscaped for the film by Cagwin and Dorward of San Anselmo and features plantings provided by Egger's Nursery.

Executive producer of the film is L. F. Czufin of Sleepy Hollow, advertising and public relations manager for Calchem. The writer is Geoffrey Fullick of Forest Knolls, and the cameraman is Walter Schenk of Sausalito. Only non-Marin name listed among the credits is Ingraham Productions of San Francisco, in charge of production.

Entire filming period covers nearly three months, showing the full cycle of a gardening year. The picture has its climax with the Kopps returning to the Marin Art and Garden Show proudly displaying their prize fuchsias and begonias. Shooting at the fair will be sometime Saturday and Sunday. It's probably the first time the fair has been a commercial film location in its 19 years of successful runs.

THE MEADOWS OF TERRA LINDA, 25-acre apartment development of Calvin C. B. Wheeler and his associates, is approaching completion — with a number of the 220 living units already occupied, and others being rented.

This project is located near the west end of Manuel T. Freitas Parkway on Lea Drive — about a four-million-dollar investment in good living.

Unusual rental appeal of the Meadows is its private Oakview Club for the residents. This is something more than the regular recreation center in that it is equipped with restaurant facilities, bar, cocktail lounge and liquor license. Shaun Wiltshire of Wiltshire Towers is club manager.

Other club attractions are swimming pools, tennis courts with bleachers, sunning and barbecue areas, exercise room, showers and sauna baths and social rooms.

APPOINTMENTS of David G. Traversi as a lending officer, and Clarence E. Elzi as a field representative in the Petaluma office of the Bank of Marin have been announced by William P. Murray Jr., president.

Traversi formerly was associated with the First National Bank of San Rafael and subsequently as assistant manager of the Petaluma office for Crocker Citizens National Bank. Elzi has spent 31 years with Bank of America's Petaluma and Tomales Bay branches. Both men are residents of Petaluma.

FROM PETS TO REAL ESTATE. Lou Baskin of Fairfax, former owner of Casa del Perro in San Anselmo, has joined the staff of Louise Walsh in San Rafael. Agnes R. Albury, also of Fairfax, is another addition to the Walsh Realty staff. She was formerly with Ramos Realty.

K. GUY WILLIAMS of Novato has been appointed vice president of First Western Bank and Trust Company's Northern California appraisal department. An appraiser for 13 years, Williams joined First Western two years ago. Since May, 1963 he has been assistant chief appraiser in Southern California. He will be headquartered in the San Francisco administrative office.

HAROLD H. BURGESS of San Rafael has been made professional service representative by Merck, Sharp and Dohme, manufacturer of pharmaceuticals and biologicals. He will operate in the San Carlos territory. He was formerly with Schering Corp.

Stock Market Continuing Its Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued its rally and closed higher today in active trading.

Some profit-taking developed late in the session in advance of the long Fourth of July weekend and gains were pared.

Volume for the day was estimated at 5.4 million shares compased with 5.35 million yesterday.

Some brokers said the traditional summer rally was under way and the only question was how far it would go.

Steels again led the rally and pulled out of a midday slump. Jones and Laughlin picked up nearly two points while U.S. Steel and elc Steel were ahead by small fractions.

Motors became strong on reports of record production in June, the second quarter and the first half with General Motors and Chrysler advancing a point.

American Telephone, still basking under a report of record earnings for the three months ended May 31, was up nearly half a point and near an all-time high.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange in quiet trading.

Corporate and government bonds were mixed.

National, Private Debt Ceilings Keep Soaring

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The rush to hail all the economic records set in the first half of the year has hidden some of the late June and early July rites that go on year after year with little change.

The legal federal debt limit has been raised again, and at the last moment. The debt already had gone up. Congress made it legal for the Treasury to live with the accomplished fact.

Federal excise taxes on a limited list of items have been extended another year. These temporary rates have been continued each June for a decade.

Treasury statisticians are busy working on the books of the fiscal year that has just ended and will report soon. As usual, even inevitable, the actual spending and the actual receipts won't match the estimates made when the budget was presented 18 months ago, nor the revised estimates given Congress six months ago.

As in almost every year for decades, the final result will be a deficit, with outgo topping income. That is why the federal debt keeps going up.

This has its counterpart in many family budgets and explains why the total of consumer debt also rises with predictable regularity.

Statisticians are quick to point out that there is nothing necessarily alarming in any of this.

The economy is growing. Along with it, the spending of consumers and of government increases. So the private and public debt goes up. Combined it exceeds a trillion dollars. But assets are even higher.

Nor is there anything unprecedented about Congress being reluctant to relinquish any tax or higher rate, however temporary may be its label. Congress has continued for one more year the 1.9 billion dollars in federal excise taxes on jewelry, cosmetics, furs, luggage, liquor, cigarettes, autos, local phone calls and airplane tickets. The rates were set up during the Korean War as a temporary measure.

Congress also likes to keep a legal limit on the federal debt, although the real one of 312 billion dollars at the moment is far above the basic limit of 285 billion. This base has been exceeded by regular temporary boostings of the ceiling.

So, as records are set, business goes on as usual on many fronts, both government and private. And changes often are in dollar terms rather than in the items themselves.

WALL STREET

Experts Take Pleased But Wary Stand

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bache and Co. feels the market is continuing to act well and anticipates further gains in the months ahead.

The firm says many of the better situated issues and groups continue to reflect strong fundamentals, as evidenced by the increasing number of issues making new highs. Bache views the market's recent sidewise action as a normal pattern following the advance to new highs.

PROS CAUTIOUS

Walter Mintz of Shearson, Hammill and Co. says that despite the favorable intermediate term prospects and notwithstanding the market's good performance, there is considerable evidence that professional investors are still quite cautious.

BACK DOOR PLAN

Edward F. Underwood of Mitchum, Jones and Templeton says the unamity of bullish opinion and the complacency of most forecasters is all the more reason to predicate any investment operations in a clear cut tactical plan of swift and orderly withdrawal.

Bank Syndicate Buys Bond Issue

SAN FRANCISCO—A Bank of America underwriting syndicate has purchased the $1,850,000 bond issue of the Gavilan Joint Junior College District, Santa Clara and San Benito counties.

WIN OVER PIRATES WAS CLOSE SHAVE FOR JUAN

San Francisco's Juan Marichal, who had sole claim for at least a few hours yesterday to the title of "Winningest pitcher in the major leagues," has an unusual formula for success.

"I shave the night after I pitch—and not again until I pitch again," explains the Dominican dandy.

Whatever that has to do with his pitching success, he doesn't explain, but he captured his 11th triumph against three losses yesterday as he set down the Pittsburgh Pirates, 2-1.

"I'm not superstitious," Marichal claims, in reference to his shaving habits, "Maybe I'm just lazy. Oh, if I have to go to a movie or something, I'll shave between pitching assignments. But mostly I don't."

Speed Champ 'Fireball' Roberts Dies

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Famed stock car driver Glenn "Fireball" Roberts died today from complications of critical burns he received in a three-car crash during the World 600-mile race here on May 24.

A spokesman at Charlotte Memorial Hospital said the 33-year-old driver from Daytona Beach, Fla., died at 7:15 a.m. Doctors listed the cause of death as pneumonia and septicemia — blood poisoning —secondary to burns.

At Roberts' bedside when death came were his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Roberts Sr., his brother, Tommy Roberts, and his 13-year-old daughter, Pamela Jane, all of Daytona Beach. Roberts was divorced.

Roberts, biggest career money winner in the history of the National Assn. for Stock Car Auto Racing, had been a patient at the hospital since the fiery crash six weeks ago.

His condition had improved until Tuesday, when he developed pneumonia and the blood infection. He lapsed into a coma early yesterday and doctors performed a tracheotomy to aid his breathing. He ran a high fever and received oxygen often. Doctors said he never came out of the coma although he appeared to rally late last night.

The three-car wreck occurred on the seventh lap of the World 600 and also involved the Fords of Ned Jarrett of Camden, S.C., and Robert "Junior" Johnson of Ronda, N.C. Jarrett and Johnson escaped with minor injuries.

Jarrett assisted Roberts from his flaming Ford, which had landed on its top. Roberts survived the crash perhaps because he was able to hold his breath and not inhale the flames.

He lay near death for three or four days after the crash, with burns over 75 per cent of his body, then began to make steady progress and was moved from the hospital's intensive care unit to a private room. He soon regained the use of his arms and legs.

Last week, doctors removed dead tissue from the most severely burned portions of his body and hoped to begin grafting skin from his abdomen next week.

Roberts, who got his Fireball nickname as a sandlot baseball pitcher in Apopka, Fla., won 32 late model races and an estimated $400,000 in Nascar earnings during his 15 years of racing. NASCAR records show his best year was 1963, with $67,320 in winnings.

Roberts began racing modified cars in 1948 before he entered the University of Florida to study mechanical engineering. He left the university after 3½ years to race fulltime.

Roberts survived a number of serious wrecks during an exciting career in which he established himself as a hard-charging driver.

The tip of his spine was broken in a spectacular rolling crash at Bristol, Tenn., last summer. Five weeks later, he won the Southern 500 at a record speed, after wrecking his Ford in qualifying.

Roberts was the second NASCAR star to die this year. Joe Weatherly, grand national champion in 1962 and 1963, was killed during a race at Riverside, Calif., in January.

UNIQUE STYLE — San Francisco Giants pitcher Juan Marichal lunges from the pitching slab in his characteristic style during the ninth inning of yesterday's game against the Pittsburgh Pirates at Candlestick Park. Juan hurled the Giants to a 2-1 victory to become the first major league pitcher to win 11 games this year. Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers followed Marichal's feat later in the day when he won his 11th contest, a 3-2 triumph over the second-place Philadelphia Phils. (AP Wirephoto)

EX-49ER AIDE MARK DUNCAN GET NFL JOB

NEW YORK (AP) — Mark Duncan, a former defensive coach with the San Francisco 49ers from 1955 to 1962, was named supervisor of officials of the National Football League today by Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

He replaced Joe Kuharich, who resigned in February to become coach of the Philadelphia Eagles.

Billie Jean Beaten At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Australia's Margaret Smith, the defending champion, and Maria Bueno of Brazil, the 1959 and 1960 winner, advanced to the women's singles final of the Wimbledon tennis championships today.

Miss Smith, seeking to make a clean sweep of the world's major women's titles, eliminated the last American player, Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., 6-3, 6-4.

Miss Bueno rallied from a weak start and defeated Lesley Turner of Australia 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Miss Smith, winner of three national titles so far this year, had little trouble against Miss Moffitt, although she fell behind at 1-3 in the second set before turning on the power.

Miss Bueno served badly in the first set, falling behind 1-5 at one stage. Then she tightened her game, broke Miss Turner's service in the 10th game of the second set and went on to win.

VOLLEYING ERRORS

Miss Moffitt, rated America's top player since Darlene Hard turned professional earlier this year, made some vollying errors that cost her a service break in the fourth game of the first set. One more service break was the deciding factor in the second set.

Miss Smith already has won the Australian, Italian and French women's titles this year. She hopes to retain the Wimbledon crown and then regain the American title she won in 1962 but lost to Brazil's Maria Bueno last year.

Miss Moffitt was the last surviving American in the Wimbledon singles competition. Chuck McKinley of San Antonia, Tex., the defending men's champion, was eliminated yesterday by Fred Stolle of Australia, 4-6, 10-8, 9-7, 6-4.

Pitching Staff Continues To Carry Load For Giants

Sparkling pitching continues to keep the San Francisco Giants on top of the National League.

Juan Marichal turned in the latest gem when he stopped Pittsburgh 2-1 yesterday with the only run against him of the unearned variety, as the stolid right-hander became the first to win 11 games this season.

Marichal lowered his earned-run-average to 2.38 for 143⅔ innings pitched. Relievers Billy Pierce and Gaylord Perry are at 1.48 and 1.65.

Ron Herbel has 2.01, Bob Shaw 2.37, Hendley 2.88 and Bob Bolin 2.91. Jack Sanford has 3.34.

The Giants need that type of stingy pitching. Seven of their last nine games have been decided by one run, and they have won five of those seven. Over the season, they've won 17 games by one run and lost 10.

Willie Mays powered his 23rd home run when he connected on a Bob Veale pitch in yesterday's first inning. After that all Willie got was three walks, one intentional.

Del Crandall and Jose Pagan slammed back-to-back doubles in the second frame for the other run.

Pittsburgh threatened a big rally in the fifth until Marichal's screw ball turned the tide. With the bases loaded, Roberto Clemento bounced a chopper for a single, scoring one run. Still only one was out but both Willie Stargell and Jerry Lynch went down swinging on the screwball.

There wasn't another serious threat.

Marichal, just named to the All-Star team, said he had good stuff but for some unknown reason didn't use his fast ball very much.

"I was depending mainly on the slider and the screwball," he said. "I really don't know why."

Veale, who had beaten the Giants twice, was forced to leave after four innings when a blister on the middle finger of his pitching hand began bleeding. Still he took the loss to put him at 7-6 with Marichal now 11-3.

BETTING COUP IS NOTHING NEW

NEW YORK (AP) — Could the betting coup that shook the British bookies be pulled off on this side of the water?

Yes. It already has been—32 years ago. But it wouldn't work here today.

Horse players on this side of the Atlantic got to talking about the nifty scheme of the British syndicate, whose members plunked money down on the outsiders in a dog race Tuesday, pushed up the price on the logical winners at the track and then bet heavily on those dogs with the legal bookies away from the track.

The result was a payoff of $2,765 for 28 cents. The London books were hit for some $28 million—and refused to pay pending an investigation.

It was 1932, and in those days the big play at the Mexican track came from the Los Angeles crowd, who arrived in a special train just after the first race.

The Baron had two horses in the race, and he and friends poured the money through the windows on the entry. That drove the price down, and sent the price on the logical favorite, Linden Tree, from 7-10 to 20-1.

At bookmakers throughout the United States, the money poured in on Linden Tree.

Linden Tree won, and the screams from the bookies were loud and clear when the price was revealed. Racing papers did not print the price in some places. Some bookies paid, some didn't.

The scheme wouldn't have a chance, today, for two reasons:

1. Bookies will not take bets at minor tracks and it would take too much money to manipulate the odds seriously at a big track.

2. Big books have a "comeback money" plan. When they are overloaded on a horse, they have agents who take the money back to the track and put it through the parimutuel machines to help bring the odds down.

The British bookies tried that, too, but the track phones were busy. Bookies, illegal in the United States, don't use track phones in this country.

Giants Hurdled Psychological Block Against Surprising Bucs

Jack Hanley

June, supposedly the swoon month of the Giants, was their boom month. They closed June with a 19-11 record. A year ago in June they began to fade from the 1963 race with a 14-15 record, seven of those losses coming in a row to the Cubs and Colts.

Now, with July just getting under way, the Giants are maintaining their momentum. By beating the Pirates yesterday, they won their 11th game in the last 13. The win over the Pirates was an important one because Pittsburgh came into Candlestick 5-2 over the Giants, the only team to hold a season edge on the league leaders.

To hurdle a possible psychological block that the Pirates had the Giants pegged, Alvin Dark sent his ace, Juan Marichal, after them. It was the first time this season that the Dominican Dandy faced the Pirates and he subdued them with screwballs and sliders.

THE PIRATES were knocked 6½ games off the pace by the defeat and it hurt.

That the Pirates have refused to submit to an early season kayo has surprised all of the spring dopesters. Nobody picked the Pirates to be a serious contender this year. In fact, most picks placed them sixth or seventh.

ROBERTO CLEMENTE'S hitting is another reason why the Pirates have made the spring crystal ball gazing look silly. Clemente is leading the National League at .349 and leads the club with 38 RBIs.

If the Pirates get a little more hitting help, they will be tough. Clemente can't do it alone. But thus far he has kept the Pirates in contention just as Willie Mays kept the Giants in contention during the early weeks of the season.

Braves To Move To Atlanta?

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Sporting News said today it has learned "from an unimpeachable source" that the Milwaukee Braves will move to Atlanta in 1965.

The copyrighted story by the baseball weekly's publisher, C. C. Johnson Spink, said no formal meeting of the National League has been held but the Braves are sure the nine other league clubs will approve the move.

Atlanta is building an $18 million stadium.

STORY DENIED

At Milwaukee, John McHale, Braves president, said, "We consider this just another one of the many, many stories that have been written about the subject in the past year. We're going to stay in Milwaukee as long as we're welcome.

Norwegian Sets Javelin Record

STEVENS

While waiting for the hunting seasons to open in California, why not go fishing or clam or abalone picking? Just for example, if you missed out on the recent swell minus tides. but wish another shot at, say, abalone plucking, take a look at your tide tables.

You will note that Tuesday, July 7, and continuing through Sunday, July 12, all low tides are ideal; all less than one foot minus and one of them, Wednesday, July 8, the tide drops to 1.5 minus, followed by two mornings when we will have 1.7 beauties. Oh yes, they fall fairly early, but that just makes it that much better.

YOU CAN get back home in time for a late breakfast— even in time to go to work if you are the boss. Take Thursday, July 9, for example. The tide will be at ebb at 6:27 a.m. (at Lime Point—consult the table of tide differences in the front of your tide book). You should be on the shore ready to breast the swells one hour before the ebb, then follow the receding water until the tide changes and starts coming in.

If you work hard and have average luck, you should have your legal limits of the most tasty bit of sea food there is. If you are a newcomer to the game, just remember that the rocks are slippery, the water cold and the abalones well hidden under and on the sides of submerged rocks.

BE PREPARED to get wet to above your waist (You've gotta' explore the rocks with your hand until you feel the shell of an abalone move slightly under your probing fingers. It's no "sissy" sport, abalone hunting, and the rewards are great. You will thrill to your fingertips at your first abalone. Like a miner when his pick unearths a large nugget of gold, or a collector of rare books when he locates a first edition.

If you have time and the inclination, you might try for a mess of cockles or giant clams if you happen to pick Dillon's Beach on one of those minus-tide days.

SO, WHAT to do in the meantime — How about trying for striped bass in the upper San Pablo Bay? Trolling is apparently back again in full force after a few days of rough water and dismal weather. Lots of nice bass just waiting for you on the Contra Costa side of the Bay, or drift fishing in the Alcatraz - Racoon Strait sector.

The ocean is due to flatten out a bit and that will almost guarantee success for salmon trolling. The boys have been working the Farralones, but I understand many of them will again troll the waters southwest of the Lightship.

Speedboat Races Slated In Oakland

Bastida will be driving in the 48 cubic-inch hydroplane class and Brisebois will be in the 280 cubic-inch hydroplane class.

Marichal-Koufax Duel Highlights N.L.

Grandpa can stop turning back the clock to the good old days of Hubbell and Dean and Newhouser and Feller because Juan Marichal and Sandy Koufax may be staging the best two-man pitching duel yet.

Marichal and Koufax, both 25-game winners last season, became the first two major league pitchers to achieve 11 victories this year when they recorded triumphs yesterday.

Koufax, the 28-year-old Dodger dandy, was suffering from a stiff neck and sore elbow last night and rated as a doubtful starter against the Phillies until he warmed up before the game. But the sturdy lefthander knew Marichal already had carded his 11th victory in a 2-1 afternoon decision for the Giants over the Pirates.

So Koufax, not to be outdone, took to the mound despite his aches and hurled his seventh straight victory—3-2 over Phils—and struck out 10 men, extending his all-time record for 10-or-more strike outs in a game to 56.

PHILLIES DROP

Koufax (11-4) allowed only five hits in dropping the Phillies 1½ games behind the league-leading Giants. It marked his eighth consecutive victory against the Phillies dating back to 1961.

Marichal (11-3) was touched for eight hits and had base runners on in all but two innings. However, he survived with clutch pitching and the aid of Willie Mays' 23rd home run in the first and back-to-back doubles by Del Crandall and Jose Pagan in the second inning. Bob Veale (7-6) was the loser.

The Dodgers spotted the Phillies a 2-0 lead on John Callison's 11th homer with Cookie Rojas on base in the fourth, then rallied for a single run in the fifth and two in the sixth. Ron Fairly singled home what proved to be the winning run off loser Dennis Bennett (8-5).

BRAVES CRUSHED

The Cardinals crushed the Braves 6-1, the Reds edged the Cubs 6-5 in 10 innings and the Mets outslugged the Colts 8-6 in other National League results.

Julian Javier poked his ninth home run of the season—equalling his output of last year—and drove

WHITEMARSH OPEN

Par Slaughtered In Tuneup Round

WHITEMARSH, Pa. (AP)—If practice rounds were an indication of things to come, the touring golf pros headed by U.S. Open champ Ken Venturi, Masters winner Arnold Palmer and PGA king Jack Nicklaus are going to slaughter par in the $125,000 Whitemarsh Open Golf Tournament starting today.

To a man, the pros agreed that the sun-baked, 6,670-yard par 36-36—72 Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course played shorter and easier than ever. The rough posed no problem and the greens held firm was the concensus after yesterday's pro-amateur funfest.

Palmer, who regained the lead in the PGA money list with $12,000 earned for second in last week's Cleveland tourney, said he was amazed at how easy the course played.

"It played faster than I've ever seen it, almost unbelievable," Palmer said after posting a 34-34—68. "I could have shot a 29 on the back nine if I didn't miss three little putts and with a little luck elsewhere," he added.

The 34-year-old Palmer predicted a score of 270 to 275 for the 72 holes would win the tournament he needed a 281 to capture last year. The weather forecast for continued temperatures in the 90s and little likelihood of rain seemed to bear him out.

Palmer, whose $61,651 for 1964 is little more than $1,000 ahead of runner-up Tony Lema, admitted he still was having trouble with his new putter. He discarded the one he had been using for the past eight years after poor putting cost him a chance to win the U.S. Open at Washington two weeks ago.

"There is a little yet to be desired," Palmer said of his putter. "You have to get a feeling of confidence in it, more than anything else. That takes a little time."

POINT TO PROVE

Venturi shot a 69 in the pro-am and expressed satisfaction with his game. The Open champion feels he has a point to prove in winning the $24,000 Whitemarsh first prize. The native of San Francisco failed to qualify last week for the final 36 holes at Cleveland after his spectacular win in the Open. He's anxious to show that his Open triumph wasn't just one of those things.

In all, 24 of the pros busted par yesterday, with two-time U.S. Open champion Julius Boros carding six birdies for a six-under par 66. Nicklaus scored a 68 as did Dave Marr and Don Fairfield, while Jack Cupit, Juan "Chi Chi" Rodriguez, Mike Souchak, Tommy Bolt and Lionel Hebert joined Venturi at 69. There were seven at 70 and three at 71.

Wimbledon To Stay Amateur; No Chance For 'Open' Status

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The Wimbledon tennis tournament —where the girls took over the spotlight today—is going to stay amateur. And most of the star players here say they aren't sorry.

In fact, Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, Tex., beaten in his bid to retain his men's singles title, said he probably wouldn't even enter the tournament if it was open to the pros.

Britain will try again next week at the meeting of the International Lawn Tennis Federation at Vienna to get permission to run an open tournament—pros and amateurs in the same field.

But the move seems doomed to failure because both the United States and Australia have said they oppose it.

Two stars eliminated from the men's singles in yesterday's semi-finals made it clear they agree with the stand. McKinley, beaten by Fred Stolle of Australia 4-6, 10-8, 9-7, 6-4, said Wimbledon is thriving as an amateur tournament and would gain nothing by admitting the pros.

GERMAN BEATEN

Wilhelm Bungert of Germany, beaten 6-3, 15-13, 6-0 by top-seeded Roy Emerson of Australia, said he wouldn't come to Wimbledon if it was open.

McKinley told a news conference, "some 20,000 more people have watched the tournament this year than last year, and attendance has been going up at Forest Hills, too." He said the pros need open tournament because they aren't drawing.

McKinley, who helped bring the Davis Cup back to the United States last year, said he didn't expect to turn pro.

Bungert said he wouldn't enter, either, if the tournament were open.

"If I could play against the pros over a long period it would improve my game," he said, "but I would stand no chance at all against them in one tournament. Many other players feel the same way."

Emerson, 28, who is making his 11th bid for the Wimbleton tournament, said "I'm happy with the tournament the way it is."

If It's Peace And Quiet You Want, Don't Camp Next To Girl Scouts

Why do you go camping? Seeking peace and quiet? If so, here's a for-free tip: Never, NEVER, camp close to a Girl Scout's camp.

This has nothing whatever to do with the culture of Girl Scouting. The order is high-principled and jam-packed with probity. Girl Scouts also have a physical fitness program that is comparable in every way to that of the U. S. Marines. This last statement we know to be a fact. Last week, in the area of Lake Almanor, we camped next to them. Alack and alas!

But they liked our camp site better than their own. This was because our back acre had some marvelous, exciting, mammoth boulders. Granite-grey, high and unbelievably slick, we were sure no person had ever scaled them to the top. Or ever could.

It's fairly easy to over-estimate a chaperon, but don't underestimate a Girl Scout. Before our horrified eyes, these lively girls climbed like Rhesus monkeys, to the pinnacle. One-handed too. Most of them toted something along. A transistor radio, sack of hair curlers, popcorn, sweaters, and —you won't believe this—bottles of pop.

The Federal Park Ranger stood below looking up, bug-eyed and slackjawed. He thumbed through his manual, and apparently found nothing to cover the situation. Add then he drove away, the coward.

Every evening this took place. Also sometimes in the mornings. They looked down at us pleasantly and chatted like magpies. We cooked, ate and fidgeted, expecting any minute one of them would catapult into our oatmeal.

They shrieked with laughter and sang Girl Scout ditties, America the Beautiful, Three Blind Mice . . . and chanted with fidelity, "Yeah, Yeah, yeah . . . ." They actually had hair-set lotion up there, and they set each other's hair on jumbo, jumbo rollers. Their discussions included boys in general, boys in particular, chaperons, Sigmund Freud—and the Beatles.

All wild life finally left the area. The blue jays, deer and finally the squirrels. And when squirrels leave, by golly, you know living conditions are seriously deteriorating.

A pound of peanuts purchased for the squirrels we finally gave to the Girl Scouts. Our altruism was rewarded by a downdraft of air that whipped peanut husks into our mulligan stew.

In the evening and in the morning, we witnessed what might be termed long-distance chaperoning. Smiling, yet embarrassed, the counselors pleaded and cajoled, "Time for bed girls . . . ." Or. "The mail's in, don't you want to read it?" Then desperately, "Do you want your folks to hear about this?"

And the Girl Scouts always minded and came down. Although it took a long, long time, because, as one explained to a chaperon's upturned face, "You don't want us to get hurt, do you . . . ?"

An experienced mountain climber, coming down, would surely have used a rope, gripshoes, knee pads and any other tricks-of-his-trade. But they came down in brief shorts, fingernails intact, knees unskinned. And with empty pop bottles under their arms.

Their little 2-by-3-inch radio blared with full-toned hi-fidelity and they marched off chanting, "Yeah, yeah, yeah . . . ."

We used to scout too. Uniforms then were below the knees, (skirts); and stockings above the knees. We spoke to our counselors circumspectly, "Oh, yes mam. . . . No, mam . . ." We got our kicks bird watching and toasting marshmallows.

Like we're always telling ourselves. Doggone it, we were born too soon.

in four runs to provide Curt Simmons (9-6) with all the support he needed to stop the Braves. Simmons scattered seven hits to best loser Hank Fischer (6-5).

Pete Rose hammered his second home run of the season with two out in the 10th inning to give the Reds their come-back victory. Cincinnati had trailed by four runs going into the ninth inning when they capitalized on two errors to start a four-run uprising, climaxed by Deron Johnson's two-run triple.

Dick Ellsworth (10-7) of the Cubs, the loser, had been given a lead on two home runs by Ron Santo and one by Billy Williams.

The Mets exploded for 16 hits against four Houston pitchers, including nine off Dick Farrell, who was making his fourth bid for victory No. 11. Rookies John Stephenson and Larry Elliott, and Ed Kranepool each contributed three hits to the Mets attack. Reliever Bill Wakefield (2-2) was the winner. Walt Bond slugged his 12th and 13th homers for the losers. Reliever Claude Raymond (3-2) absorbed the defeat.

NATIONAL VS. AMERICAN
All-Star Teams Completed

NEW YORK (AP)—Perfect game pitcher Jim Bunning of the Phillies and 20-game winning candidate Camilo Pascual of the Minnesota Twins are the early choices to oppose each other in the major league All-Star game at Shea Stadium next Tuesday.

The two star right-handers were among the 17 pitchers selected by rival All-Star Managers Walter Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox. Alston picked seven pitchers, Lopez eight.

Alston selected four right-handers and three left-handers. The southpaws included Dodger Sandy Koufax, whose 10 victories include a no-hitter against Philadelphia; Dick Ellsworth, who has won 10 games for the Chicago Cubs and Chris Short of the Phillies, who owns a 6-4 record.

JUAN MARICHAL

The right-handers, besides Bunning, include the Dodgers' Don Drysdale (10-7), Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants (11-3), and still another 10-game winner, Dick Farrell of the Houston Colts.

Lopez picked four right-handers and four left-handers. In addition to Pascual, an eight-game winner, other right-handers were Dean Chance of Los Angeles, Dick Radatz of Boston and John Wyatt of Kansas City. Radatz and Wyatt are bullpen specialists who own 11 victories and 28 saves between them.

Whitey Ford, dean of the New York Yankee pitching staff, headed the southpaws. The left-handed list included Jack Kralick of Cleveland and Gary Peters and Juan Pizarro of Lopez' Chicago White Sox. Ford has won his last 10 decisions after an opening day loss. Pizarro has won 10, Kralick eight and Peters seven.

Although Koufax and Ford rate among the most glamorous names in baseball, the starting choices are likely to be right-handers because of the preponderance of right-handed hitters in the starting line-up of both squads.

Pascual has appeared in two previous All-Star games, permitting four hits in six innings. He lost his only decision. Bunning, acquired by the Phils from Detroit last winter, has pitched in five All-Star games, all with the American League.

He has pitched 14 innings, given up just four hits, and has a 1.29 earned run average against the National League.

Swinging Skirt New For Fall

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Swing over to the swinging skirt for fall. It's the newest thing in suit fashions. To go with it, jackets which are seamed to bring them closer to the rib cage although not taut at the waistline.

As Arthur Jablow, one New York manufacturer, puts it, "suits with spare slenderness and easy grace make the chunky jacket seem obese . . . skirts move, in pleats, in deep fold fronts, in wrap-around ease."

Jablow referred to the "baton" shape to describe some of his suits and coats, designed by David Kidd, which were cut narrow at the top with double-breasted closings, tidy set-in sleeves and small collars.

Next week, the older New York Couture Group will stage its 43rd semi-annual "Press Week" for reporters. Clothes will start arriving in the stores in August.

Christian Mann, designer for Marquise, made pleats of all varieties in skirts—narrow and knife-like, or wide and paneled. Some of the box pleats were used at the front only on suit skirts, leaving the back slim and straight. Other pleats started low on the hipbone.

Harry Frechtel, another suit and coat specialist, talked of "figure conscious" suits, with a closer to the body fit. "Released hemlines," eased by pleats, showed throughout his collection.

NORMAN NORELL ran in some full skirted suits although most of the line was slim. The full ones either wore gored all the way around or had deep, inverted pleats falling from where jackets ended.

But not all is skirt swing. Bud Kilpatrick, California designer who brought his collection to New York for previewing, introduced back swing to suit jackets. Skirts are narrow on these suits, but the jackets are swashbuckling double-tiers of fabric. One such is done in an outsize pattern of black and white herringbone.

Gustave Tassell — Suits came with narrow collars and set-in sleeves, with jackets both single and double-breasted. The shape was always a fitted, concave front and straight back. For the girl on the go, there were sleeveless, narrow wool dresses in black suitable for day and later day. Over these, Tassell showed bright wool coats in yellow and plum tones.

George Stravropoulos — This Grecian-born designer with his firm now in New York showed skinny topped dresses in sheer black and white checked wools with skirts straight in back, but flared in front with unpressed pleats. Like a number of other designers, he's put the Chanel bow on collars instead of in the hair.

A DOUBLE-DECKER back is a feature of this giant plaid wool suit designed by Bud Kilpatrick. The suit attracted press notice yesterday at a weeklong series of fall and winter style previews arranged by a group of American designers. (AP Wirephoto)

AVENUE MONTAIGNE is the name designer Gaston Berthelot of New York's Christian Dior House gave this black and white checkered wool dress for fall. It's styled with low belt and trimmed in black braid, and has a button-down tab ascot collar and loose jacket which reverses to white. (AP Wirephoto)

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP)—After Rudi Gernreich's remarks favoring the birthday suit for swimming, decrying Victorian prudishness, predicting a more honest morality for the new generation and admitting weariness over the whole stir created by his topless bathing suit, everyone thought his models would bare nearly all.

INSTEAD THEY emerged as covered up as Egyptian mummies — helmeted, veiled, wrapped, stockinged and booted with only a few nude noses and fingertips.

The real shock treatment, discovered fashion reporters here to preview the American designers series of fall styles, are the broad stripes combined with black stockings and shoes, the electric polka dots on dark backgrounds or the stark white makeup on the models.

BUT RUDI styles immodest? Well-meaning old ladies who have written him in protest to the 1,000 topless bathing suits currently in circulation should see his girls in their black knee bloomers, black stockings, or—shades of the Civil War pantaloons—knee pants under dresses.

Sure, the dresses are short, a few just managed to cover the thighs. But what grandmother could complain with all that leg covering plus tight suede zippered boots up to the knees?

THE YASHMAK HAT—a down-over-the-mouth helmet with a slit in it to avoid the need for a guide dog—is what Rudi calls his hat for the non-smoker. With dressier dresses, his models hide under floppy veils.

LEST ANYONE conclude that he has reverted to an old-fashioned fuddy-duddy, Rudi sent one brave model onto the runway in that now famous bra evening dress designed to cover the cleavage. It lets the sides fall where they may.

"BUT WHERS IS the topless bathing suit?" asked the photographers with cameras aimed.

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Luci Baines Johnson, who has given the White House a swingy touch of teen-age bounce, celebrated her 17th birthday today—a bit of a rebel and a bit of a grown up young lady.

The president's younger daughter has brought to the executive mansion all of the sometimes exasperating traits of a teen-ager and all of the more important facets that make parents dote lovingly.

"LUCI DOESN'T always bend with the wind," her mother, Lady Bird, remarked recently. But she quickly added that the dark-haired daughter has felt a deep sense of public obligation since entering the awesome life of the White House and has been conscious of being a model of American adolescent youth.

The President is proud of her and has publicly proclaimed her the kind of daughter every father wants to have. The portrait of Luci along with that of her elder sister Lynda hold prominent place on the chief executive's desk.

To the White House staff and her fellow seniors at National Cathedral School for Girls, Luci is a firm-minded individualist with a warm lovable nature and sometimes an explosive temper.

SHE PRIVATELY confides apprehension that the White House life may swallow up her personality. But she is more than willing to take the platform in public and speak without preparation like a political professional.

Luci describes herself as "impulsive."

"I'm a high strung person who likes to be happy," she reflects on her birthday.

And in almost the same breath, she speaks of her desire for privacy. Her current boy friend, Jack Olson, 18, of Maiden Rock, Wis., drops by nearly every evening to keep her company at the White House after his duties are finished as a Capitol Hill elevator operator. Their teen-age friends have made the solarium in the private living quarters a social center.

SHE CONFESSES herself not to be a "good student" but she is deeply religious and has a strong love for animals.

She is the best dancer of the family—and that goes for her father as well. With youthful exuberance, Luci has introduced to the sometimes stuffy White House whirl such teen-age steps as the Hully Gully and the Surf.

Despite the pressures she feels as a president's daughter, Luci has retained a sense of humor about herself and a sense of sympathetic consideration for others.

SHE EVEN POKES fun over her decision to change the spelling of her name from Lucy with a Y to Luci with an I.

Last Easter, she presented a chocolate bunny to White House Press assistant Willie K. Taylor. The card read "From the Easter bunni."

The consideration come through in the matter of pen pal mail from hundreds of teen-age girls throughout the country.

She makes it a point to read all of the letters and to dictate answers.

LUCI BAINES JOHNSON, here enjoying a hotdog and malt, celebrated her 17th birthday today in Washington. She's given the White House a touch of teen-age bounce and has introduced to the sometimes stuffy whirl such teen-age steps as the Hully-Gully and the Surf. In the national spotlight, she receives hundreds of letters from teen-agers throughout the country and dictates replies.

Frothy Creations

Cream of summer evening fashions shown at Edward Abbott's are two long, frothy cotton creations, both heralding skirt movement. One, a crisp white Cluny lace confection sashed with a pink bow, boasts a skirt of tiered ruffles. The other, a frosty scoop-necked column of white eyelet-embroidered organdy over pink, sways down to a floor-touching pouf of white organdy ruffles.

Mrs. Richard Berryman Leads San Clemente Organization

Mrs. Richard E. Berryman, new president of the San Clemente Parent-Teacher Assn. in Corte Madera, has lived in Marin County with her husband and three children a little over a year and a half. An active clubwoman and volunteer Pink Lady at Marin General Hospital with 600 hours to her credit, Mrs. Berryman says the thing she and her family enjoy most outside of just living in Marin is exploring the county.

As president of the San Clemente Parent-Teacher Assn., Mrs. Berryman plans to work for better interest and understanding among the members and the students and teachers of the school.

Besides her parent - teacher work, Mrs. Berryman is corresponding secretary of the Welcome Wagon, a member of the Marin Conservation League and active in both the Couples Club and the Women's Guild of the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo. She has also taken on another project, that of commentating at fashion shows.

Jo Anne, the eldest of the Berryman children, was graduated from Redwood High School and is entering Whitworth College in Spokane next term. Barbara is an eighth grader at Neil Cummins School and Gregg is in the sixth grade at San Clemente.

It's tough for a youngster to "come back some other time" for payment. As a young businessman, your I-J carrier boy is trying to do a job for you, rain or shine, on time. He really appreciates your paying him the first time he calls to collect. Keep it up, won't you?

WORLD FIRST LADIES

Dona Carmen Exerts A Strong Influence On Spanish Affairs

Fourth in a series of seven articles on world women wed to power — first ladies of other countries who are seldom seen or read about by Americans or their own people.

By HAROLD K. MILKS

MADRID (AP) — Dona Carmen Polo de Franco, 64, Spain's First Lady, exercises a tremendous but seldom seen influence on affairs of state. She exercises still more on her family itself.

"In Spain most people think the letter 'F' stands for Franco," said a close friend of the tall, slim Spanish woman who rules the First Family's household as inflexibly as Gen. Francisco Franco controls the government.

"BUT FOR DONA CARMEN the 'F' stands for Family, and it is largely her influence which has made the Franco family, including daughter, son-in-law, and six grandchildren the close-knit unit it is today."

Now in his 72nd year, and his 26th year as head of the Spanish regime, sturdy General Franco leans heavily on his Asturias-born wife for support both in personal and state matters.

THE TALL SPANISH woman, usually clad in black, shows the same determination today as she did more than 40 years ago when she rejected her father's warning not to marry a soldier "because at the first sound of a shot he will be off, leaving you alone."

Dona Carmen, born in the Asturias capital of Oviedo on July 9, 1900, was the oldest of four children of a wealthy businessman. She was educated by the Salesian nuns and to this day, friends say, it's hard to tell whether she loves more her family or her church, she is so intensely devoted to both.

The late King Alfonso XIII of Spain sent a representative to the marriage of Dona Carmen and the then Lieutenant-Colonel Franco in Oviedo's San Juan Church Oct. 22, 1923. Heeding her father's warning, she went with her new husband the next day when he left for Africa to join his Moroccan Legion unit fighting the Riffs. She has seldom been separated from him since.

CABINET MINISTERS know it pays to be on friendly terms with Dona Carmen. Her influence with General Franco is strong, especially in matters of personalities, and those who know the couple intimately say the Caudillo of Spain has great faith in his wife's recommendations.

BUT IT IS in their Pardo Palace home — or their summer homes in northern Spain — where the influence of the Spanish First Lady is felt most. There she makes sure General Franco gets the favorite foods he needs, because he eats and drinks little. And that he does not overdo in his favorite hobbies of shooting and fishing.

VISITORS WITH appeals for charity always encounter in Dona Carmen a willing listener and usually a willing contributor. Often she herself joins in a worthwhile charity movement, giving lavishly of her time and efforts to promote it.

American women in Madrid know the Spanish First Lady well because of her interest in charity affairs of the American Women's club, and her participation at least once a year in their meetings.

DEEPLY RELIGIOUS, as is General Franco, the First Lady attends mass every day at the private chapel in El Pardo Palace, sometimes with General Franco, sometimes alone. When they travel, General and Mrs. Franco invariably seek out a church for a religious service on arrival at their destination.

"They have much to give sincere thanks for, and they never fail to give them," said an aide.

AT HOME IN PARDO PALACE Dona Carmen lunches daily with the Caudillo, sometimes sitting down as late as 4 p.m. because of his attention to the affairs of state. Frequently there are motion pictures in the evening in a private studio in the palace. Occasionally Dona Carmen has wives of cabinet ministers or close friends in for tea and on rare occasions for bridge.

BUT LET A CHARITY DRIVE come up and the Spanish First Lady is in the forefront of the campaign.

There is but one thing that takes priority over affairs of state. That is frequent visits with her daughter, the Marquisa of Villaverde, and the latter's six children.

"Dona Carmen and the General have always regretted they had but one child," says a close friend. "Now God has given them six fine grandchildren, and they are making the most of them."

FRANCO, AN AVID and skilled hunter, has taught his grandchildren to shoot as he taught his daughter years ago. The eldest grandson has been formally christened Francisco Franco after his grandfather — presumably to carry on the name.

Though many people say Dona Carmen looks like a Spanish noblewoman, there is no noble blood in her direct line. But her daughter married a nobleman, the Marquis of Villaverde.

SAN FRANCISCO will be the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clements, who were married Sunday at the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour in Mill Valley. The bride is the former Julia Dillingham, one of the 1963 Marin Ball debutantes. In the fall Julia will continue her studies at San Francisco State College. Harold is with the E. F. Clements Co.

Peace Corps' Role Reviewed

Two teachers who spent two years with the Peace Corps in Ghana will conclude a series of public talks on foreign affairs at College of Marin July 9 at 7:30 p. m.

The discussion by Carol Waymire and Dorothy Vellenga of "The Peace Corps in Africa" will be held in Olney Hall on the college's Kentfield campus.

Miss Waymire is a graduate of San Jose State College who taught for five years in Santa Rosa before joining the Peace Corps. She taught in a Ghanaian girls' secondary school at Kumasi, 180 miles inland from the Atlantic coast. Upon returning she entered UCLA graduate school.

Miss Vellenga was graduated from Monmouth College in Monmouth, Ill., and taught for two years at Foxcroft School in Virginia. She volunteered for the Peace Corps in 1961, serving at the West Africa Secondary School in Ghana's capital, Accra. She returned to enter graduate school at Columbia University.

Both women are instructors in the summer Peace Corps training project at University of California, where new volunteers are being prepared for overseas service.

Marin Youth Camp-Bound

Eighty-five Marin County youngsters will leave Friday for the fourth annual Salvation Army summer camp at Camp Redwood Glen, nine miles north of Santa Cruz.

The boys and girls, from families which could not afford to send them to other camps, will leave the Corte Madera Shopping Center at 9 a.m. aboard two buses.

Sponsored by the Salvation Army and the Marin County Welfare Depaprtment, the camp's cost has been defrayed by donations from private citizens.

Number of youngsters enrolled has nearly tripled from the 30 who went to the first camp in 1961, and more than doubled from last year's 40.

The camp, meanwhile, has had eight new cabins added in the past year. The cabins hold from six to 12 campers. Activities at Redwood Glen include swimming, archery, nature lore and beach trips to Santa Cruz.

Driver Bound Over

Michael Keeney Bradley, 20, Navy man from Alameda was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on a charge of felony drunk driving. He was arrested May 22 by Marin County sheriff's office after allegedly being involved in a traffic accident.

Lawmaker Warns Of Patriotic Peril

First District Rep. Donald H. Clausen (R-Crescent City) today seized the occasion of the July 4 holiday to denounce as "even more insidious, much more subtle and underhanded" than communism "the new fashion, sponsored by pseudo-intellectuals, to downgrade patriotism."

"The Communists may be crude and vulgar, but we know where we stand with them. They bang their shoes on the table and swear they will bury us," said Clausen.

"But the so-called intellectual-sophisticates spread their poison drop by drop, disguised in twisted intellectual phrases. They try to capture the minds of our young people, by debauching their natural instincts for hero-worship and love of country."

Clausen called on his constituents to recognize that freedom "is so priceless a commodity it can never be completely paid for. No nation can ever say, 'Today the last installment is paid and freedom is ours.' Freedom is bought on the perpetual payment plan. Every generation has its own installment to pay.

"If any generation — through inertia or carelessness or greed — falls behind on its payments, freedom can be lost."

Imputing a "doctrine of retreat" to the "intellectual-sophisticates," Clausen urged, "As we celebrate the Fourth of July this year, let us combat this doctrine by standing up and saying boldly, 'I am an American and I am proud of it.'"

Pet Health Costs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Man had better keep his best friend healthy because according to latest figures, veterinarians in the U. S. are charging up to $5 for an office call and $10 for a house call. Major surgery and convalescence, according to the reports, can run up to $2,000.

Marin Cats Get National Title Awards

Four Marin County American Shorthair cats have received the title of All-American from Cats Magazine.

The award, based on show competition, goes to the top scoring feline of its breed, sex and color in the country. The cats, who have also won All-Western honors from the magazine, are:

It was the third straight All-American award for Mrs. Kionig's cat, and the second in a row for the Layman's red male, which started its show career after being found in the Marin Humane Society shelter as a kitten.

Man's Attempt To Use Solar Energy Taking New Direction'

By ARTHUR FLETCHER

This does not have to do with the ultimate sophistication in tying solar energy to man's purposes in space vehicles. Rather, it concerns the powering of water heaters, air conditioning, water de-salinization, engines and other devices for human progress.

The new directions stem from a Conference on New Sources of Energy held in Rome by the UN back in 1961. That session dissipated theories of early and large-scale applications of solar energy by bringing together for the first time experts in the field. Their contributions demonstrated the scientific, engineering and economic hurdles still to be cleared.

The Economic and Social Council will take a new look at the field during its July session in Geneva, and a new UN report surveys for the Council developments since 1961 and resulting prospects.

Here are the new trends in research in the application of solar energy, also the practical, even commercial, developments in the area!

1. Solar water heating, probably the most advanced use of solar energy at the time of the 1961 Rome conference, is beginning to edge towards industrial application.

Japan reports that plastic, domestic solar water heaters have been manufactured and sold by the hundreds of thousands; the companies concerned are now exporting them. The Soviet Union has begun to make and distribute domestic units in southern parts of that country. Australian firms are also selling solar water heaters.

In the U. S. two southwestern universities—Texas A and M, and the University of Arizona—are investigating the use of large plastic-covered channels and tubs in which salt water is solar heated for subsequent demineralization by distillation or solvent extraction. Success in these experiments could lead to industrial use.

2. The largest use of solar energy in the near future, however, is likely to be for the production of fresh water.

Solar distillation is to be used on the southeast coast of Spain for community water supplies. In Florida, the Church World Service is cooperating with the Battelle Memorial Research Institute and the U. S. Office of Saline Water in testing a plastic-covered distillation plant for a large installation on an arid island in the Aegean.

Israel has demonstrated a solar pond which produces a hot bottom layer that can be adapted to produce a condensate or applied to a refrigeration process to desalinate sea water by the freezing method.

Cheap disposable solar stills of plastic film have been experimented with by the University of California, the University of Wisconsin and Battelle Memorial. They justify, says the UN report, the belief that emergency water supplies could be created by solar distillation.

3. In the application of solar energy to cooling equipment, the new emphasis in on air conditioning.

This stems from progress in research on solar collectors, particularly of the focusing type. There, as well as flat plate collector systems, have now been proven out at temperatures high enough for the operation of air conditioners.

Part of the progress has come from realistic appraisal of plastic materials. Plastic films, for example, have been shown to have a sufficient lifetime of outdoor exposure to be potentially useful in solar equipment. A butyl rubber sheet material is now available in sizes large enough to line ponds, stills and evaporation basins, all of which figure in the building up of usable heat from the sun. A chemical foam which can cover such basins and flat plate collectors is another new potential for solar energy development.

4. Improvement in collector systems has also pointed the way to the development of solar-powered engines.

Ex-Mental Patients Work Being Sought

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI) — A scientific pitch is being made for full employment opportunities for persons recovering from mental illness.

These persons are gravely handicapped in their efforts to rehabilitate themselves by the false image the public holds of the mental patient, said the pitchmaker.

He is Dr. John J. Brennan who has had years of experience in easing men and women from mental hospitals back into full membership in society.

His position was that psychiatry and psychology have made notable progress in treating mental illnesses, but the rehabilitation of the victims has not progressed because the public deserves itself.

"The ability of tranquilizing medicines to control the symptoms and to make the mentally ill patient safely employable is not widely known or utilized by private and public employers," he said. Nor is it widely realized that the science of psychology has so improved "foremanship" that many of the "mentally handicapped" can be fitted to jobs.

The public deceives itself by thinking persons who have been hospitalized for mental illness are "dangerous, that is, they may assault the employer, supervisor, fellow employees or do harm to the property of the prospective employer."

That's all wrong, he said. The "false image" is due to the public putting all mentally ill persons in the same category as a few exceptional ones and from not knowing the difference between "acute and chronic cases of mental illness."

When acute, mental illness may often be expressed by "excitement, confusion, fearfulness and threatening behavior." But when it is in the chronic state "the patient usually has found some sort of non-aggressive adjustment between his psychological problem and the environment in which he is functioning."

Unfortunately, Brennan continued, "the feeling that persons with mental problems are likely to be physically aggressive is initiated and sustained by every communication medium. Language, literature, humor, the theatre all tend to use this theme and to perpetuate the concept."

Brennan made his pitch in the technical organ of the American Psychiatric Assn., in the hope its members would further it. He did not advocate a willy-nilly employment of mental patients but rather the "selection" of patients for particular jobs and job-categories on a basis of psychological knowledge.

He is chief of the psychological counseling service at the veterans' administration hospital in Bedford, Mass. Since 1954, 2,500 patients have been through rehabilitation services which provided them with outside work or outside jobs at standard pay and with standard job requirements. Not one untoward incident involving aggressive behavior has resulted.

Brennan emphasized he was not arguing that all recovering mental patients are employable. "Just as with a normal population, the mentally ill have numerous variations and graduations. For maximum and successful utilization, the principle of selectivity by professional persons should be followed," he said.

"This is not to imply that a psychiatrist is necessary to select all cases, but it does mean that trained and/or experienced persons should evaluate persons for employment."

Many Marin Students Are Flunking P.E.

By BRUCE COLEMAN

"Flunk outs" taking a make-up course in physical education number 35 in the Tamalpais High School summer session.

State law requires that all student who plan to be graduated must take physical education, and the Tamalpais high school district requires that they not only take four years of it but must pass it. This means a student must get at least a "D" in the course.

Asked why so many youngsters flunk, Principal Robert H. Prather replied, "A kid, if he is a non-dress-down type of a flunk, has usually some adjustment problems toward his family and toward his school in general.

"This very often pops up in P.E. for some reason. It is not too well understood why. They will consistently fall into this pattern of not wanting to participate in anything in P.E. sometimes girls get conscious about their hair or dress. Sometimes a boy will be tiny or a girl obese.

"It's part of the adjustment toward people in authority and adults. They don't seem to mind taking the consequences.

"They could do the same thing in history or English by flunking the tests, then having to make up the course. P.E., by its own nature, is a participation course. If you don't participate, you don't pass."

Prather said the percentage of flunk-outs seem to be fairly stable over the years. He noted that a semester of physical education amounts to five credits for the student.

Glidden Benefield, who is coaching coeducational courses in badminton and volley ball this summer, said that sometimes a student may flunk because he has some physical defect and does not wish to dress down. "I knew of one boy who was an A student," he said, "who flunked simply because he did not get along with his teacher and would not do any work." Other students can flunk due to illness.

Benefield stressed that sports such as badminton, tennis and volley ball are good "carry-over" sports that students can play in later years as compared to the so-called motor sports of football, baseball and basketball.

"It's a real science," said Prather, referring to physical education as it is taught today. "People don't realize how really refined it is. There are about 1,000 written pages in our program. In the old days you gave the kids a ball and let them play. That is long since past."

Over the first two years of high school students receive daily physical fitness exercises. Boys are grouped by ability levels into Whites, Reds and, finally, Blues. Girls are grouped, likewise, as Papooses, Squaws and Captains, using the Indian theme of the school.

"They receive training in all of the normal team sports such as baseball, basketball, volley ball and football plus the individual sports," Prather said. "As they become more adept and get older they can option special groups. For example, girls can get into acquatics or modern or folk dancing while boys may go into gymnastics or weight lifting. On Fridays, kids usually have an option to do a special activity that they like.

"State testing in physical fitness is now required," said Prather.

Benefield said that his students this summer are all from Tamalpais High.

Neither Redwood nor Sir Francis Drake high schools have make up P.E. classes this summer. Principal Donald Kreps at Redwood said students may make up courses in the regular session or by attending the summer class at Tamalpais.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Hot Weather Keeps Heart Working Overtime, So Take Things Easy

VAN DELLEN

The heart works twice as hard during hot weather as in more comfortable temperatures. This may not bother healthy persons but those with a cardiac handicap should take it easy. Air conditioning is made to order for these individuals. The heart is involved in the intricate mechanism by which the body gets rid of excessive heat. The skin surface is capable of disposing of small amounts of heat; the capillaries dilate with warm blood to facilitate this process and it is here that the old ticker must work harder.

IT HAS TO bring more blood from the internal organs and muscles to the surface, where it is cooled. This takes place even while resting in bed and not moving a muscle.

The sweat glands also are busy but perspiration must evaporate to exert a cooling effect. The respiratory tract is on the job, too. On a torrid day, a gallon or more of water can be lost through these two systems. All of this requires energy which in turn increases circulation. In this respect, excessive warmth and humidity have the same effect on the heart as exercise.

COMFORT IS important for all of us. We get restless, irritable, sweaty, and agitated when trying to sleep in a warm, sticky room. A cool bedroom is relaxing and our disposition is better the next day.

This is a vital consideration for those with heart diseases. The problem is accentuated when dropsy is present. Air conditioning is most helpful and scientific studies show that the load on the ailing heart is reduced considerably. Cardiac patients who require oxygen in a warm room are able to get along without it in a cooler environment.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if a stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

LIQUOR AND CIRRHOSIS

T.S. writes: A man has been taking treatment for cirrhosis of the liver for the last year. He is now off medication. Will taking three shots of whisky every night harm him?

REPLY

Yes. Alcohol must be avoided in cirrhosis of the liver. Now and then a person who has been treated for early cirrhosis can return to moderate drinking after going on the wagon for six weeks, provided tests show the liver is normal.

CHAWIN' TOBACCO

J.L.S. writes: We hear much about the hazards of cigarette smoking but little about those associated with chewing tobacco. What are the dangers of this filthy habit?

REPLY

None. Chewing tobacco may be disgusting to some people but it is safer than inhaling smoke. Most of the juice ends up in a cuspidor.

PALE NAILS

Mrs. C.S. writes: What causes whiteness of the finger and toe nails?

REPLY

Anemia is the most likely cause when the nails are otherwise normal. Ringworm is a possibility if they are powdery white.

LONG-TERM THERAPY

C.D.W. writes: I'm 66 and would like to know how long I will have to remain on medicine to keep down high blood pressure.

REPLY

For the next 30 years or so.

NO GREEN STUFF

G.M.C. writes: Not being a vegetable eater, I go for days without so much as a piece of lettuce. Are there any substitutes for green vegetables?

REPLY

Yes—fruits.

DISTURBED FUNCTION

REPLY

Fatigue, indigestion, pain, or palpitation may result from emotional reactions such as anger, frustration, fear, anxiety, or tension. These symptoms are referred to as functional because they have no organic basis. On the other hand, identical symptoms may originate from infection, ulcer, injury, or impaired circulation, which are organic in origin.

FLEA BITES

N.B. writes: Can dog fleas bite humans?

REPLY

Yes. Persons who are sensitive to these insects may develop an eruption on the skin, not necessarily limited to the site of the bite. Graded flea antigen has been fairly successful in relieving this condition.

OBESITY RISK

B.C. writes: Is overweight a hazard in hernia surgery?

REPLY

Yes. Obesity increases the risk of surgery for technical reasons, overstretched tissues, and the possibility of cardiac complications associated with excess blubber.

NEW NOSE

J.R. writes: In regard to your article on false noses, where can my husband get one? He was in an accident.

REPLY

Consult a plastice surgeon, a make-up artist, or a salesman in a novelty shop.

NOT AN INFECTION

J.S. writes: Whenever you write about Parkinsonism, you never mention whether it is contagious. I am very anxious to know.

REPLY

It is not, even though the disorder is relatively common.

Astronaut Helps In Grim Mission

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI) — Spaceman Scott Carpenter, here to take part in a test of underwater living, joined Navy divers yesterday in a search for the bodies of 12 persons killed in the collision Monday of two U.S. Air Force planes.

The wreckage of the planes, a C-54 and a C-97 converted for use in rescue missions, was found yesterday but the bodies could not be located immediately.

Carpenter and four other men are scheduled to spend eight days in a 40-foot capsule sunk in 200 feet of water as a test of men's ability to spend long periods underwater.

Tiburon Still Has Hollow Treasury

The City of Tiburon still is operating without money.

City councilmen heard Tuesday that county officials proposed a 3⅞ per cent interest rate for any funds the county might lend the newly incorporated city until tax money begins coming in. But councilmen have made no decision on taking the loan. At a Monday night city council meeting, they heard Crocker-Citizens National Bank of Tiburon was offering a 3½ per cent interest loan.

Novato, when it became a city four years ago, was loaned $25,000, interest free, by the county.

Income Fund Has Record 6 Months

SAN FRANCISCO — Commonwealth Income Fund set new records in the six months ended May 31, according to the fund's semi-annual report.

Total net assets of the fund rose to a high of $44,446,209 on May 31 compared with $37,878,505 on Nov. 30, 1963, and $35,285,865 on May 31, 1963.

The fund's net asset value per share on May 31 was $10.19, compared with $9.63 on Nov. 30.

After adjustment for a capital gains distribution of 25 cents a share at the 1963 yeared, the May 31 figure was substantially higher than the $10.05 per share value of May 31, 1963, and, according to the report, had "reached the highest level it has ever attained in its history."

High, Low Mercury

NEW YORK (UPI)—The highest temperature reported yesterday to the U.S. weather bureau, excluding Alaska and Hawaii, was 112 degrees at Blythe, Calif. The lowest reported this morning was 43 at Sexton Summit, Ore.

Almonte Budget

Almonte Sanitary District directors worked on the 1964-65 budget Tuesday but were unable to complete it since they did not have information regarding the paying off of revenue and terminal bonds and the interest on these bonds. The budget is expected to be adopted, as first order of business, July 27 at 8 p.m. at the district office, chairman Robert A. Alexander reported.

Hydrogen Bomb Said DeGaulle's Goal

PARIS (UPI) — The newspaper France Soir said yesterday that France will have hydrogen bombs by 1968 under President Charles de Gaulle's program to develop an independent nuclear deterrent.

The building of 100 rockets capable of carrying the bombs with a range of 1,860 miles is another target of the program, the newspaper reported.

Veteran Pilot Hangs Up His Crash Helmet

ROBERT C. LAMPERT
Closest call in Burma

A fighter pilot who has been combat-ready in first-line fighters since he entered the service in 1942 retired yesterday at Hamilton Air Force Base.

He is Lt. Col. Robert C. (Red) Lampert, who saw action in China and Burma during World War II.

He was born in Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 2, 1921. He graduated from Aviation Cadet School in July, 1943, and was immediately assigned to China, with the 16th Fighter Squadron.

During his 18 months there, he had his closest calls in battle.

"I was piloting a P-40 in a formation of four on a routine reconnaissance mission over Burma," he related.

"We sighted a lone covered truck on the road below and went down to take a look at it. All at once the entire area erupted in our faces."

Two of the planes were shot down. The others were hit. They managed to get back to home base, but both crashed on landing, he related. He was the only one who survived.

"Later I learned that we had discovered a large Japanese offensive which already had moved half-way through Burma totally undetected," he added.

For his action in China, he was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross with one oak-leaf cluster, the Air Medal with one oak-leaf cluster, and the Purple Heart.

He did a tour of duty as instructor of the jet instrument pilot school at Tyndall Air Force Base, Fla., and rocketry instructor and member of the standardization board for fighter-interceptor aircraft at Moody Air Force Base, Go. He was then assigned as operations officer of the 61st Fighter-Interceptor Squadron in Newfoundland.

He was graduated with a bachelor of arts degree in social science from Syracuse University in 1960 and was assigned to Hamilton as director of tactical evaluation of the 28th Air Division.

New Obstacle In Hearing On Doctor's Status

One more avenue of approach to obtain testimony in the hearing of Dr. Stanford W. Ascherman, who is seeking a reversal of the Marin Hospital District board's rulling denying him privileges at the hospital, has been closed.

Harold F. Riede, attorney for the hospital district, has been denied use of depositions taken in connection with suits totaling six million dollars filed by Ascherman in San Francisco claiming that a conspiracy existed against him when five San Francisco hospitals refused him privileges.

The ruling was made Monday by San Francisco Superior Court Judge Joseph Karesh.

Riede said today he has received two more letters of refusal from attorneys representing witnesses who have been requested to testify voluntarily at the hearing. The hearing officer and district board have been refused subpoena powers by a Marin Superior Court ruling.

The hearing will resume July 14 at 3 p.m. at the hospital when Riede offers James Ludlam, counsel for the California Hospital Assn., as his last witness.

Ludlam is expected to testify on the standards of procedures for doctors who apply for staff privileges in California hospitals.

Junior Theater In Rehearsals

"The Kite," a play acted by and for children, will go on the boards at Reed School July 24-25.

The play written by Mrs. D. J. Norman, Tiburon, will be acted by Tiburon peninsula youngsters in third through sixth grades. It is about children in "birdland," featuring birds seen in Marin.

The production is sponsored by the Belvedere-Tiburon unit of the Marin Junior Theater and will be presented at 2 p.m. July 24 and at 8 p.m. July 25 in the multipurpose room of Reed School.

Stevenson Stands Pat Against Senate Race

NEW YORK (UPI)—Adlai Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, has reaffirmed his decision not to be a candidate for the U.S. Senate from New York, a Democratic party leader said yesterday.

Edward N. Costikyan, the party's New York County leader who most recently urged Stevenson to run, said Stevenson's position was unchanged from April 30 when he announced publicly he did not wish to be the Democratic nominee to oppose Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.).

Each playground and park area will have a booth at the park for activities like sponge throw, table tennis bounce, ball throw. Awards will go to the best decorated and most unique booths, and the booth making the most money.

Battle Continues Over City Status

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A controversy over forming a new city on the shores of Lake Tahoe will go before the California Supreme Court.

The court granted a hearing Wednesday to William A. Ames who is seeking incorporation of South Lake Tahoe.

The court will hear Ames' petition for a writ of mandate against the El Dorado County Board of Supervisors asking for an extension of time to certify petitions for incorporation.

County Clerk Ruth Lang told the board last January that petitions submitted then did not qualify.

Marin Aides Will See Europe Training Ideas

Four staff members of Marin County special education programs will spend a rather special summer this year, touring Europe under auspices of the Council for Exceptional Children in Washington, D.C.

They are speech therapist Mrs. Edith Bourne; Mrs. Dorothy Fischer teacher of deaf and hard of hearing, both of San Anselmo; Mrs. Helen Elrod of San Rafael, county school nurse; and Mrs. Grace Fearing of San Rafael, teacher of orthopedically handicapped.

Traveling to Europe independently, the women will join a tour of 32 persons from United States and Canada, directed by Dr. Joseph Fenton, special council assistant.

The group will study methods and programs in the field of special education in several European countries. Visits are planned to the Child Study Center at University of Birmingham, England; the French National Training School for Special Education in Paris. The group will also attend the seven day International Scientific Congress on Mental Retardation in Copenhagen, Denmark.

Wallace indicated he would consider supporting either major party candidate who would campaign on a platform favoring and protecting states rights and local government.

"We want people in both parties to worry about us and to think about the people of our region," Wallace commented. "Neither party will take us for granted."
